Comprehensive Grammar

 COMPREHENSIVE GRAMMA

INTRODUCTION

In the indexes and alongside entry headwords a number of linguistic technical terms are used. However, apart from some very basic terms ('noun', 'verb', 'adjective', 'adverb', 'predicate', 'modifier') and the names of a few specific constructions used in most language textbooks ('passive', 'causative', 'potential', 'intransitive'), the reader should be able to use this book fully without learning a new set of technical terminology.

The use of numerous real Japanese example sentences (with translations) plus an index of English translation-equivalents should guide the user to the correct section(s).

This book is useful, therefore, to both the specialist and non-specialist.

HOW TO USE THIS BOOK

This book is arranged in alphabetically ordered entries (all of which appear in the List of Entries on p. v–xii). An entry can be a grammatical term (e.g. 'Adjectival expressions', 'Adverbs', 'Negative sentences', 'Nouns', 'Passive sentences', 'Particles', etc.) or a Japanese-language item ('hazu [sentence ending]', 'ni [case particle]', '-sa [nominalizing suffix]', 'wa [final particle]', etc.). Most entries have a number of cross-references to related entries and sub-entries.

Grammatical entries often cover a wide ground (e.g. under 'Adjectival expressions' you will find listed (and/or cross-referenced) many ways of forming expressions. All have in common the function/meaning that they can be used like Japanese adjectives (to modify a noun, or as predicates).

If you wish to consult a specific entry, you can search the entry directly (alphabetically) in the List of Entries or directly in the text, or you can first check the Grammar and Function Index (if there is no independent entry, information may be included in one or several entries). If you want to know how to use Japanese verbs, for instance, or how the language works, you can consult grammatical entries, i.e., 'sentence types', 'verbs', 'vocabulary', etc.

Language functions

Language functions (obligation, commands etc.) can be looked up in the same way, i.e., if you look up 'commands' in the Grammar and Function

Index you will find reference to ‘commands’, ‘direct commands’, ‘indirect commands’, ‘negative commands’, etc., as well as the individual entries applicable to them.

To save space, abbreviated terms such as V and cop. for verb and copula are widely used. Refer to p. xix–xx for a list of symbols and abbreviations used in the text.

English Translation Index

The English Translation Index is a list of what Japanese items typically mean in English (in the main text, these translation equivalents are given in single quotation marks). If you want to find out how to say ‘only’ in Japanese, you look up ‘only’ in this index, and then refer to the items that are listed.

Examples

This book attempts to give as many examples as possible, with a minimum of explanation. All examples (unless marked ‘%’, which indicates a ‘construed’ or made-up example) are taken from original printed media sources such as daily newspapers. Where they have been shortened, this is indicated by ellipses, except for quotations that have been given without the preceding and/or following context.

Wherever possible, examples are arranged so that the shorter and/or easier examples come first, with the longer/more difficult ones following.

Examples are given in the original script version, followed by a romanized transliteration (with ad-hoc spacing/hyphens but without punctuation) and an English translation, which should enable you to work out most unknown words or kanji in the original script version. However, you may also find it useful to use this book in conjunction with a Japanese–English or English–Japanese dictionary, and a kanji–English or kanji–Japanese dictionary.

A NOTE ON ROMANIZATION

The romanization used here is similar to the Hepburn system used in most romanized dictionaries, but differs in some respects.

- A ‘small tsu’ at the end of a word etc. is transcribed as ‘, i.e. ねっ is rendered as ne’.
- Word boundaries and hyphens are used as appropriate to prevent words from becoming too long and unwieldy in transcription

CONSTRUCTION OF ENTRIES

Grammatical items are often used in a variety of forms (or constructions) and/or meanings. Entries are therefore often divided into a number of sub-entries. Sub-entries are listed with their numbers in a contents box near the beginning of the entry. This gives you an overview of the construction of the item and enables you to locate the sub-entry you require by its number.

All you need to do then is to find that number.

There is also a List of Tables for locating these according to page number.

SYMBOLS AND ABBREVIATIONS USED IN THE TEXT

- % (before example) made-up example
- × (before example) ungrammatical example
- ^ (before cop., P) without a form of copula, without any particle (see also ^cop., ^P below)
- [] (in example) addition to original text to assist understanding
- [] (in entry or subentry, etc.) occasionally used to mark the extent of a grammatical structure
- [] after entry: gives the grammatical class (sometimes meaning) of entry, e.g. wa [focus particle]. When referring to other entries, the [] part is attached only if it is needed to specify that entry, i.e. where there is more than one entry of the same form, i.e. wa [focus particle], wa [final particle], but -ba.
- [] marks the entry (and sometimes its translation) in example
- '...' marks translation of entry (in examples it also marks quoted speech)
- "..." marks literal translation of entry (in examples it also marks direct speech)
- * used for footnotes in tables, etc.

1 ADJECTIVAL EXPRESSIONS: NOUN-MODIFYING

Adjectival expressions (like adj. proper, which are one type of adjectival expression), describe properties or qualities 'what sort/kind of'. Many adjectival expressions can be used in two ways (see 178, 2): 1) to modify a N and 2) as a pred.

1.1 Specialized noun-modifying words

1.1.1 Noun-modifying demonstrative words/pronouns and question words

1.1.2 Other specialized noun-modifying words (arayuru, iwayuru, saru, etc.)

1.2 Nouns (incl. number + counter/pronoun) no noun

1.2.1 Noun 1 no noun 2

1.2.2 Personal pronoun no noun

1.2.3 Number + counter no noun

1.3 Adverbs/adverbial clauses no noun

1.3.1 Adverb-te no noun

1.3.2 Noun + phrasal particle-te no noun

1.7.1 Verb-ta, or verbal noun shita noun

1.7.2 Adverb (to) shita noun

1.8 Noun ga/no adjective/verb + noun

1.1 SPECIALIZED NOUN-MODIFYING WORDS

1.1.1 Noun-modifying demonstrative words/pronouns and question words

Demonstrative words and pron. include words like kono 'this', sonna 'that kind of'). Q words include dono 'which?', donna 'what kind of?', etc. (for full details see 44, 167).

1.1.2 Other specialized noun-modifying words (arayuru, iwayuru, saru, etc.)

There is a small number of other specialized N-mod. words (arayuru 'every possible', iwayuru 'so-called', saru 'the past', onaji 'the same'; note especially the use of onaji where English would use 'alike' (example c).

2 Japanese: A Comprehensive Grammar

- a 私たちは【あらゆる】問題を話し合った。
watashi-tachi wa arayuru mondai o hanashiatta
We talked about [all possible] problems.
- b 【同じ】年の夫とは三年前に知り合った。 onaji toshi no otto to wa sannen mae ni shiriatta
She met her husband, who is the [same] age, three years ago.
- c どうやら【同じ】島国でも、英国人のような紅茶好き、というわけにはいかないようだ。
dōyara onaji shimaguni de mo eikokujin no yō na kōchazuki to iu wake ni wa ikanai yō da
It appears that even though [we're] an island nation [alike], we are not as fond of black tea as the English.

Note – onaji has other uses too, such as pred. + cop. (example d).

- d 経済はだれがやっても【同じでしょ】。
keizai wa dare ga yatte mo onaji desho
The economy [should be the same], no matter who runs it
[= the country].

1.2 NOUNS (INCL. NUMBER + COUNTER/PRONOUN) no NOUN

(See 133, 143.)

1.2.1 Noun 1 no noun 2

N1 includes N of time (see 144.1.4). The [N1 no N2] combinations (= NPs) often, but not always, translate into English as ‘N2 of N1’ (see 133).

- | | |
|--|--|
| a 【最近】の若者
saikin no wakamono
the young of recent times | b 【ここ】の家の主人
koko no ie no shujin
the master/husband of this house |
| c 【日本】の政治
nihon no seiji
Japanese politics
(lit. “Japan’s politics”) | d 【日本】のカメラ
nihon no kamera
a Japanese camera |

1.2.2 Personal pronoun no noun

Depending on the pron., personal pron. no N translates into English as ‘my/your/his/her/our/their N’. But see 158 for differences in use of personal pron. compared to English.

- | | |
|---|---|
| a 【私】の仕事
watashi no shigoto
my job | b 【あなた】の車
anata no kuruma
your car |

1.2.3 Number + counter no noun

Num. + C no is used to modify N that require a specific C, whereas those that lack a specific C use the ‘default’ C -tsu (num. + no). Note that num. can also occur after the nouns they refer to, as in example b, where the structure is N + num. + C no N (see 147, 36, 154).

- | | |
|---|---|
| a 【一つ】の地域
hitotsu no chiiki
one area | b 【レンズ一枚】の価格
renzu ichimai no kakaku
The price of one lens |
|---|---|

1.3.1 Adverb-te no noun

These include a number of adv. ending in -te, such as subete ‘all’, hajimete ‘for the first time’, katsute ‘formerly’ (see 4).

- a 【すべて】の規制 subete no kisei
all restrictions
- b 【はじめて】の住居
hajimete no jūkyo
my first house
- c 生まれて【はじめて】の体験だった。
umarete hajimete no taiken datta
It was [my] first experience ever (lit. “in my life”).

1.3.2 Noun + phrasal particle-te no noun

Phrasal P are often equivalent to prep. in English.

Note most, but not all, phrasal P can take no (examples a and b) (see also 159).

- a 【選手として】の経歴はすごい。
senshu to shite no keireki wa sugoi
His career [as a player] is formidable.
- b 【このことについて】の大臣の考えは。
kono koto ni tsuite no daijin no kangae wa
What are your [= the minister’s] thoughts [on this matter]?

1.3.3 Clause-te no noun: adverbial clauses modifying nouns

Here, an adverbial clause ending in the conjunctive form -te (shown in []) modifies a following N (or NP) by means of no. The N/NP implies an action, and S-te indicates 'how' or 'in what state/condition', etc. the action takes place. Check the idiomatic translations (also given in []) below.

- a 【お客さんあって】 の商売。
okyaku-san atte no shōbai
 Business [is something that] [depends on the existence of customers] (= no business without customers).
- b 【ザックを背負って】 のベトナムひとり旅。
zakku o seotte no betonamu hitori-tabi
 A solitary trip through Vietnam, [shouldering a rucksack].
- c それでも 【豊かさを求めて】 の逃走は続く。
sore demo yutakasa o motomete no tōsō wa tsuzuku
 But nevertheless the flight [in pursuit of affluence] continues.
- d 【三十歳を目前にして】 の決意である。
sanjussai o mokuzen ni shite no ketsui de aru
 It's a decision [made] [with age 30 just around the corner].

1.3.4 Adjective-stem no noun: ōku no, chikaku no, etc.

The stem form of adj., ending in -ku, can be used with a following no to modify a N. However, this is possible with only a very small number of adj., such as ōi 'many', chikai 'near', tōi 'far', furui 'old'. (see 34.1.3, 184.2.3).

- a 過熱するカメラブームで、【多く】 の機種が登場した。
kanetsu suru kamera būmu de ōku no kishu ga tōjō shita
 In the overheating camera boom, many new models have appeared.

1.4 ADJECTIVES PROPER + NOUN

Adj. proper are named this way because in Japanese there are also adjectival N and no-adj. (see 1.5 and 1.6).

Adj. proper always end in -i in their pln. non-past form (which is also the form under which they are listed in dictionaries) (see 3).

- | | |
|-------------------------|-------------------------|
| a 【古】 い家屋 | b 【新し】 い体験 |
| furui kaoku | atarashii taiken |
| old houses/an old house | a new experience |

1.5 ADJECTIVAL NOUNS na NOUN1.5.1 Unconverted adjectival noun na noun

AN require the N-mod. form na of the cop. (see 35).

- | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| a | 【静か】な朝 shizuka na asa
a quiet morning | b | 【柔軟】な発想 jūnan na hassō
a flexible way of thinking |
|---|---|---|---|

1.5.2 Converted adjectival noun na noun

The suf. -teki converts a N (often a two-kanji compound) into an AN, which then modifies a N in the same way as other AN, i.e. by attaching na (see 212, 34).

- | | |
|---|---|
| a | 【精神的】な強さ (cf., 精神 'mind') seishin-teki na tsuyosa
mental strength |
| b | 【理想的】な男性 (cf., 理想 'an ideal') risō-teki na dansei
an/the ideal male |

Note N-teki can also modify N directly, without the cop. form na; the whole NP in this case is understood as a compound (examples c and d).

- | | | | |
|---|--|---|---|
| c | 【政治的】問題
seiji-teki mondai
political problems | d | 【社会的】責任 shakai-teki sekinin
social responsibility |
|---|--|---|---|

1.6 no-ADJECTIVE + NOUN

no-adj. are words with adjectival meaning that grammatically behave like N, i.e. they modify other N by means of no.

The main groups of no-adj. are those NJ colour words that are not adj. proper (i.e. do not end in -i), and all WJ colour words, plus also a few other NJ words such as nama 'raw' and hadaka 'naked' (see 137), and a select number of onomatopoe (see 153).

- | | | | |
|---|---|---|--|
| a | 【白】のタキシード姿の新郎
shiro no takishīdo sugata no shinrō
the groom in a white tuxedo | b | 【ピンク】のフラミンゴ

pink flamingoes |
| c | 【オレンジかピンク】のポロシャツ
orenji ka pinku no poroshatsu
[an orange or pink] polo shirt | d | 【生】のキノコ nama no kinoko
raw mushrooms |

1.7 VERB/VERBAL NOUN/ADVERB-ta NOUN

1.7.1 Verb-ta, or verbal noun shita noun

Here, a V/VN that indicates a state in its -te iru form (as indicated in [] in the examples below) modifies a N by means of the -ta form (V-ta).

Note – no meaning of completion or past is present in this case (see 187.3.1, 143).

- a 【安定し】 た生活 (cf., 生活が安定している ‘life is secure’) antei shita seikatsu
a secure life
- b 【発達し】 た筋肉 (cf., 筋肉が発達している ‘muscles are well-developed’) hattatsu shita kinniku
well-developed muscles
- c 「家々、木々、山々」と 【題し】 た作品がある。(cf., 題している ‘has the title of’)

(cf., 目指している ‘is aiming for’) kodomo o katei, chiiki ni kaesō o mezashita gakkō itsuka-sei
The five-day school system, which has the aim of ‘returning the children to their homes and locality’.

1.7.2 Adverb (to) shita noun

Many onomatopoeic adv. (see 153) modify N by means of to shita, or just shita. But note that there are also some onomatopoeic words which modify N by means of no.

Note – despite the -ta form used, no meaning of completion or past is present with (to) shita.

- a 【ふとし】 たことから寺山修司を知った。(ふと ‘suddenly’, ‘accidentally’) futo shita koto kara terayama shūji o shitta
By chance I got to know Terayama Shūji.

- b 【しゃきっとし】 た歯ごたえは暑い夏にも向く。(しゃきつ ‘crisp’)
shakit-to shita hagotae wa atsui natsu ni mo muku
 The crisp texture is right for the hot summer, too.
- c 【漠とし】 た不安に襲われる。(漠 ‘vague’)
baku to shita fuan ni oswareru
 One gets attacked by a vague feeling of unease.
- d 川床に座ると、【ひんやりし】 た風が頬をなでていく。(ひんやり ‘cool’) kawadoko ni suwaru to hinyari shita kaze ga hoho o nadete iku
 When one sits down on the riverbed [platform], a cool wind caresses one’s cheeks.

1.8 NOUN ga/no ADJECTIVE/VERB + NOUN

Some N ga/no adj./V combinations have adjectival meaning as lexical items. N ga adj. combinations include se ga takai ‘tall’, atama ga ii ‘intelligent’, etc., and N ga V combinations are settokuryoku ga aru ‘convincing’ and ninki ga aru ‘popular’.

In N-mod. use, these can use either ga or no, although no is far more common.

- a 【背が高い】 女性が多くなっているのに対応したもの。 se ga takai josei ga ōku natte iru no ni taiō shita mono
 This [introducing larger sizes] is to deal with the fact that there are more tall women.
- b 【説得力のある】 コーチになるだろう。
settokuryoku no aru kōchi ni naru darō
 He should turn out to be a convincing coach.

2 ADJECTIVAL EXPRESSIONS: AS PREDICATES

Adjectival expressions can be used as pred. as follows: 1) adj. proper by themselves, and 2) AN and no-adj. with the addition of cop.

- 2.1 Adjectives proper and (-)nai, (-)tai, hoshii, etc.
 2.1.1 Adjectives proper
 2.1.2 The negative/negative ending nai/-nai, and other grammatical items that are formally adjectives
 2.2 Adjectival nouns and no-adjectives
 2.2.1 Adjectival nouns + copula
 2.2.2 no-adjectives + copula

2.1 ADJECTIVES PROPER AND (-)nai, -tai, hoshii, ETC.

2.1.1 Adjectives proper

Adj. proper are called thus to distinguish them from adjectival nouns (AN) and no-adj. (see 3, 137).

Adj. proper are formally distinguishable because their pln. non-past form (also used for listing in dictionaries) ends in -i. There are, however, also a number of grammatical and lexical items that end in -i, i.e. are formally adj. (see 2.1.2).

Adj. proper can be distinguished from AN and no-adj. in function because they can form a pred. by their non-past and other fin. forms, whereas AN and no-adj., etc. require the addition of cop.

a 【恥ずかし】い。

hazukashii

[I feel] ashamed.

b この学校にはサラリーマンの子供が【多】い。

kono gakkō ni wa sararīman no kodomo ga ōi

There are many children of company workers in this school.

2.1.2 The negative/negative ending nai/-nai, and other grammatical items that are formally adjectives

These include items such as -tai (see 189), mitai (see 93), hoshii (see 68), -ppoi (see 162), rashii (see 169), -te hoshii (see 197) (see also 111).

a そんなことは【な】い。

sonna koto wa nai

That's not so.

b 私だって子供が【ほし】い。

watashi datte kodomo ga hoshii

I too want children.

c 迫力はあるけど、うそ【っぽ】い。

hakuryoku wa aru kedo usoppoi

It [= the depiction of hell] is powerful, but looks a bit fake.

2.2 ADJECTIVAL NOUNS AND no-ADJECTIVES

These require the addition of cop. (see 35).

2.2.1 Adjectival nouns + copula

AN (also known as na adj. because they modify N with the na form of cop.) tend to be either NJ (often ending in -ka or -ta), SJ (mostly consisting of two kanji, or equivalent) or WJ words (see 235).

AN require forms of the cop. to form pred. (about AN ni naru, see 186).

a 海はまだ【静か】だ。

umi wa mada shizuka da

The sea is still quiet.

b 準備は【快適】だ。

junbi wa kaiteki da

Preparations are going well.

c 材料も作り方も【シンプル】だ。

zairyō mo tsukurikata mo shinpuru da

Both ingredients and preparation are simple.

2.2.2 no-adjectives + copula

Like AN (and N), no-adj. require forms of cop. to form a pred. (see 137, 35).

a 王様は【裸】だ。

ōsama wa hadaka da

The king has no clothes on.

b 信号は【赤】だった。

shingō wa aka datta

The traffic lights were on red.

3 ADJECTIVE [PROPER] FORMS

The main adj. [proper] forms are as shown in Table 1. The finite (fin.) forms (1-5) can be used independently as pred., and the N-mod. forms (N-mod. [pln. only], 1-4) to modify N.

Polite pred. are formed by attaching desu (see 35) to the pln. fin. forms.

Note that there are two pol. forms each for yasukunai and yasukunakatta.

Table 1 gives the main adj. forms for yasui 'cheap'.

Adj.-stem is used as a written-style conjunctive form, for using adj. as adv. (with some adj., also as N), and to attach suru/naru. (see 31.1.1, 4.1, 184.2, 186)

Adj.-root is used to attach the nominalizing suffixes -sa and -mi (see 175, 14), and also the sentence ending -sō (see 182).

Table 1 Basic adjective forms

		yasui 'cheap'
			Plain	Polite
N-mod. (pln. only)	↑ Fin. ↓	1 Non-past:	(adj.-i) yasu-i	yasu-i desu
		2 Past:	(adj.-ta) yasukat-ta	yasukat-ta desu
		3 Neg.:	(adj.-nai) yasuku-nai	yasuku-nai desu/ yasuku arimasen
		4 Neg. past:	(adj.-neg. past) yasuku-nakatta	yasuku-nakatta desu/ yasuku arimasen deshita
		5 Presumptive:	(adj.-(y)ō) yasukarō/yasui darō	yasui deshō
		6 Stem:	(adj.-stem) yasuku	—
		7 Root:	(adj.-root) yasu	—
		8 Conjunctive:	(adj.-te) yasuku-te	—
		9 Conditional:	(adj.-ba) yasukere-ba	—

4 ADVERBS: BY DERIVATION

Adv. are a class of words that modify V and other pred., typically indicating when, how, where, by what means, to what degree, etc. the action or state of V takes place (see 5).

Note – in Japanese, adv. always come before the pred. they modify.

Formally, adv. can be divided into six main types, depending on what word class they are, or from what word class they are derived: adj.-stem, AN-derived, no-adj.-derived onomatope, V-derived, and N used as adj.

- 4.1 Adjective-stem
- 4.2 Adjectival noun-derived adverb
- 4.3 Adverb derived from no-adjective
- 4.4 Onomatope as adverbs
 - 4.4.1 Unchanged
 - 4.4.2 Ending in to
 - 4.4.3 With optional to
 - 4.4.4 Before suru/naru
- 4.5 Verb-derived adverbs
 - 4.5.1 Those using the verb-te form
 - 4.5.2 Those formed by reduplicating a verb
- 4.6 Nouns as adverbs

4.1 ADJECTIVE-STEM

Here, the stem-form of adj. is used as adv. (see 3).

- 同じ部品を大量に購入すれば【安く】買える。
onaji buhin o tairyō ni kōnyū sureba yasuku kaeru
 If you buy the same part in large numbers, you can buy it [cheaply].

4.2 ADJECTIVAL NOUN-DERIVED ADVERB

Adv. derived from AN attach the adverbial form of the cop., ni (see 35).

- 【きれいに】洗ってから二度漬けをする。
kirei ni aratte kara nido-zuke o suru
 After you've washed it [carefully], you pickle it a second time.

4.3 ADVERB DERIVED FROM no-ADJECTIVE

no-adj. attach the conjunctive form of cop., de, to form adv. (see 137, 35).

- 猛暑のせいか【裸で】寝るのが癖になった。
mōsho no sei ka hadaka de neru no ga kuse ni natta

4.4 ONOMATOPE AS ADVERBS

Many onomatopoeic (= sound symbolism words) can be used as adv.

Note onomatopoeic are also used in a variety of other ways, with forms of the cop. or suru as pred., attaching to shita, etc. to modify N, etc. (see 1.7.2, 153).

Depending on the individual onomatopoeic word, it can be used as adv. unchanged, attach the adverbial P. to optionally or have it 'built in', i.e. end in to. Before suru/naru, the adverbial form ni of the cop. is required (see 213, 186, 35).

- Unchanged: sukkari 'completely', yoboyobo 'tottering'
- Ending in to: chanto 'properly', sotto 'softly'
- Optional to: yukkuri (to) 'leisurely', pikapika (to) 'sparkling', 'flashing'

- a ゴルフをしないと【よぼよぼに】なる。 gorufu o shinai to yoboyobo ni naru
If I don't play golf, I become [decrepit].

4.5 VERB-DERIVED ADVERBS

V-derived adv. can be divided into two types: those ending in -te, and reduplicated forms (i.e. formed by repeating the same V).

4.5.1 Those using the verb-te form

These include hajimete ‘for the first time’, kiwamete ‘extremely’, sigurete ‘exceedingly’, etc.

- a 百人一首で【はじめて】遊んだのは。

- b 石油会社の回答は【きわめて】明解だ。
sekiyu-gaisha no kaitō wa kiwamete meikai da

4.5.2 Those formed by reduplicating a verb

Below are some examples of the very limited number of such formations. Note that if the V begins with a consonant that can be voiced (k, s, t, etc.), voicing often occurs as part of the word-formation process (kawaru-gawaru is an example of this).

osoreru 'fear'

osoru-osoru 'timidly'

(cf., osoru-beki 'frightening') kawaru 'change'

kawaru-gawaru 'in turn'

miru 'see'

4.6 NOUNS AS ADVERBS

These are mainly N of time (as which they can attach case P), but as adv. of time they are used without case P, except for ni with certain items (see 5.3).

5 ADVERBS: BY MEANING

By meaning, adv. can be grouped as shown in the contents box below (reduplicated forms – such as osoru-osoru – are hyphenated). Note that some adv. can belong to more than one group.

These indicate the way some action is performed. They include kirei ni ‘neatly’, ‘carefully’, sukkari ‘completely’, yukkuri ‘in a leisurely way’, osoru-osoru ‘timidly’, etc. Many of these are onomatopoe by origin (see 153, 4.5.2).

5.2 ADVERBS OF DEGREE

As their name suggests, these indicate the degree to which the word they modify applies.

Note that some of these have other meanings and uses as well (e.g. hotondo can be used as a N ‘the majority’, and taihen ‘great’/kekkō ‘fine’ as AN).

Japanese has no comparative or superlative forms like the English long[er], long[est]; instead, adv. of degree like motto ‘more’ and ichiban ‘most’/mottomo ‘most’ are used (see 25).

Common adv. of degree include the following: daibu ‘plenty’, ‘pretty much’, hijō ni ‘very’, hotondo ‘almost’, ichiban ‘most’, issai ‘completely’, jitsu ni ‘very’, kanari/kekkō ‘quite’, kiwamete ‘extremely’, motto ‘more’, mottomo ‘most’, sukkari ‘totally’, taihen/totemo/sngoku ‘very’, takusan ‘a lot’, wazuka (ni) ‘by a whisker’, zuibun ‘quite’, etc.

5.3.3 Adverbs/nouns of time with native Japanese and/or Sino-Japanese forms

Some adv./N of time have either NJ or SJ forms, or both (in SJ words, boundaries between morphemes (= kanji) are indicated by hyphens). Where both NJ and SJ forms exist, the latter are typically used in the written or formal spoken style (e.g. speeches).

Table 2 gives common items, centred on 0 (= the present day, month, year).

Note also sen-jitsu ‘the other day’ (colloquially, kono aida) and sen-nen ‘the other year’. The SJ roots -jitsu/-nichi ‘day’, -getsu ‘month’ and -nen ‘year’ also combine with the prefixes mai- ‘every’, yoku- ‘the following’, and kaku- ‘every second’, e.g. mai-nichi ‘every day’, yoku-jitsu ‘the following day’, kaku-jitsu ‘every second day’.

5.4 PREDICATE-SELECTING ADVERBS

Pred.-selecting adv. are adv. that tend to select (appear together with) certain types of pred. or pred. extensions (i.e. neg. pred., pres. pred., etc.). Some do not always combine with such pred., but when they do, they reinforce or emphasize the meaning of pred.

Note – some of these adv. have more than one meaning, and are therefore found in more than one group.

Below are some of the more common pred.-selecting adv., grouped by the type of pred. they tend to select (i.e. combine with). In English translation, adv. and pred. are, wherever possible, translated twice, even at the risk of making the translations somewhat unnatural.

5.4.1 Presumptive predicates

This group of adv. includes the following: dōse ‘anyway’, hyotto shite/shitara ‘possibly’, kitto ‘doubtless’, moshi ka shitara/shite/suruto ‘perhaps’, nan demo ‘apparently’, sazo ‘certainly’, osoraku ‘probably’, tabun ‘in all likelihood’ (see 163, 62, 73, 118).

6 aida [CONJUNCTIVE PARTICLE]

Although used to form a conjunctive clause, aida is formally a N, and is therefore modified by forms that precede N. As a conjunctive P, aida is used for time only, in the sense of 'while', 'during', 'throughout', etc. (see 6, 8).

Even when the main clause is in the past, the conjunctive clause uses non-past forms, especially -te iru aida with V.

aida is often followed by the case P ni or the focus P wa, but can also be used without any P (example e). Note also the combination aidajū 'throughout' (example g).

7 aida [RELATIONAL NOUN]

As a relational N, aida is attached to N by means of no [case P], in the meaning of 'between', 'among', 'through'. Like other relational N, aida itself attaches such case (and/or other) particles, etc. that are required by the valency of the V (see 231, 6, 171).

Note also the set phrases kono aida (この間) ‘the other day’, kono kan (この間) ‘during this period/time’ (example a; the reading of the kanji 間 can be determined by the context only, i.e. when the meaning is not ‘the other day’ it can be read kan or aida).

The investigation of how water circulates [between] the air and the sea and land will lead to a clearer understanding of the climate.

8 aida, mae, -nagara, -tsutsu, uchi: COMPARISON

All of the above can link two clauses in the sense of ‘while’ (excepting mae) and ‘before’ (excepting aida, -nagara and -tsutsu); -nagara and -tsutsu are additionally used in the sense of ‘even though’. The following sections give a comparison.

※ 1 ‘While’

※ 2 ‘Before’

※ 3 ‘Even though’

8.1 'WHILE'

aida and uchi ni can both be used in the sense of 'while'; with uchi ni (and occasionally also aida, as in example b) the implication is usually 'before a change for the worse occurs'.

jōken no yoi uchi ni han o oshita hō ga ii
 You should seal [the agreement] while the conditions are good.

Unlike uchi, aida can indicate a period of time 'while', objectively (example a above). With uchi, on the other hand, the implication is that S2 is a negative outcome or development.

- e 議論している【うち】に時間ばかりがたっている。
giron shite iru uchi ni jikan bakari ga tatte iru
 While we're arguing, time is slipping away rapidly.

After a negative form in S1, aida can also be used in the sense of 'while' (but uchi in the sense of 'before' is far more common (see next section (8.2)).

- f ファンが知らない【間】にトレードされてしまったのだろうか。 fan ga shiranai aida ni torēdo sarete shimatta no darō ka
 Has he been sold [to another team] while the fans were unaware,
 I wonder.

-nagara and -tsutsu are limited to use in S where the subject is the same for both clauses (= actions). The main action being that of S2, the implication is that it is carried out while performing (constantly or occasionally) a secondary action.

- g 眠い目をこすり【ながら】、空港へ急ぐ。
nemui me o kosuri-nagara kūkō e isogu
 I rush to the airport, rubbing my sleepy eyes.

h 冗談を交え【つつ】、沖縄音楽の近況を語った。

jōdan o majie-tsutsu okinawa ongaku no kinkyō o katatta

He talked about the current state of Okinawan music, mixing in jokes.

8.2 'BEFORE'

Unlike aida and mae, uchi can follow neg. forms in the sense of 'before' (something adverse happens).

a 電車がなくならない【うち】に帰ります。

densha ga naku naranai uchi ni kaerimasu

I'm going home before the trains stop running.

b 知らない【うち】に山林が開発されていた。

shiranai uchi ni sanrin ga kaihatsu sarete ita

Before we knew it, the mountain forest had been developed.

mae, on the other hand, is objectively concerned with the order of actions.

c なぜ死を選ぶ【前】に、救いを求めなかったのか。

naze shi o erabu mae ni sukui o motomenakatta no ka

Why didn't he seek help before choosing death?

8.3 'EVEN THOUGH'

Both -nagara (mo) and -tsutsu (mo) can be used in the sense of a contrast 'even though'. When mo is present, the meaning is always contrastive. Note that unlike -nagara (mo), which can be attached to adj., AN and N, -tsutsu (mo) attaches only to forms of V (see 103.2).

a 彼等は悲しみや苦しみがあり【ながら】誇りをもって生きている。

karera wa kanashimi ya kurushimi ga ari-nagara hokori o motte ikite iru

Even though they have sorrows and pain, they live with pride.

b 最終的には自分で考えろと言い【つつも】、退職を促すようなアドバイスを繰り返した。

saishū-teki ni wa jibun de kangaero to ii-tsutsu mo taishoku o unagasu yō na adobaisu o kurikaeshita

While telling me to make the final decision myself, he repeatedly gave advice that urged me to resign.

9 ANIMATE AND INANIMATE EXISTENTIAL/LOCATIONAL VERBS

Generally, iru is used for animate subjects (i.e. humans and animals) and aru for inanimate ones (those that are not animate). However, iru can also be used for certain inanimate things such as vehicles (example d), and both iru and aru in the sense of 'having siblings/family' (examples e-g) (see 55.10).

- a 外に女性が【いる】。

Rossellini, who was married with children, fell in love with Ingrid Bergman, the actress, and took her away from Hollywood's world of film.

10 APPPOSITION OF NOUNS

The relationship between items (usually two, but sometimes three or more) that are lined up referring to the same entity is called apposition. There are two ways of doing this with N, by means of no, and by zero (see 133.1.10, 28, 218.3).

Note – in Japanese, the main N is always the second one, whereas in English the order is reversed.

10.1.1 Apposition by no

10.1.2 Apposition by zero

10.1.1 APPPOSITION BY no

- | | |

10.1.2 APPPOSITION BY ZERO

- a 妻子あるロッセリーニは、女優【】イングリッド・バーグマンと恋に落ち、彼女をハリウッドの映画界から奪った。
saishi aru rosserīni wa joyū inguriddo bāguman to koi ni ochi kanojo o hariuddo no eigakai kara ubatta Rossellini, who was married with children, fell in love with Ingrid Bergman, the actress, and took her away from Hollywood's world of film.

11 ato [RELATIONAL NOUN]

ato (usually written 後) is a relational N meaning 'after'. It can be used by itself, usually with wa, in the sense of 'all that remains is . . .', combining with demonstrative pron. such as sono in the form sono ato 'after that', or attaching to N in the form N no ato 'after the N'.

Note the use before amounts, ato + num. (+ C), where ato is usually written in hiragana.

11.1 Noun/demonstrative no ato11.1.1 Noun no ato*11.1.2 sono ato*11.2 Clause 1-ta ato clause 2*11.3 ato + number (+ counter)*11.1 NOUN/DEMONSTRATIVE no ato*11.1.1 Noun no ato

This translates as 'after a/the N'.

shampū no ato burashi o ate mimi o sōji shite tsume o kiru no ga ippan-teki na kōsu [Dog beauty parlour:] After a shampoo, the normal course consists of brushing, cleaning the ears and cutting the claws.

11.1.2 sono ato

This expresses the idea of ‘after that’, ‘thereafter’. Note that this can also be read sono go, in which case the meaning is ‘since’ or ‘subsequently’ (for an example of sono go, see 30.1 e).

- a 万一、夫が死亡した場合、借金や【その後】の生活が心配です。

man'ichi otto ga shibō shita baai shakkin ya sono ato no seikatsu ga shinpai desu

In the event that my husband should die, I'd be worried about debts and how to support myself thereafter.

11.2 CLAUSE 1-ta ato CLAUSE 2

After a sentence or clause ending in V-ta (never V-ru), ato is used like a conjunctive P linking two clauses in the sense of ‘after’ (see also 201). However, grammatically it behaves like a structural N in that it can attach a variety of case and focus P.

For differences between S1-ta ato S2 and S1-te kara S2, see 12.

- a 【会社で働いた後】、スイートホームで一家だんらん。 kaisha de hataraita ato suīto hōmu de ikka danran

- f 書棚が折り重なるように倒れ、本が散らばる様は、【まるで爆発事故か、砲撃を受けた後】のよう。
shodana ga orikasanaru yō ni taore hon ga chirabaru sama wa maru-de bakuhatsu jiko ka hōgeki o uketa ato no yō
 [After earthquake:] The way the bookshelves had fallen on top of each other and books were scattered everywhere was just like the aftermath of an explosion or mortar attack.

11.3 ato + NUMBER (+ COUNTER)

Note that ato ippo in example b literally means “one more step”.

- a 投票日まで【あと一週間】。

 It's one more week to election day.
- b 征服まで【あと一歩】のところでリタイアした。
seifuku made ato ippo no tokoro de ritaia shita
 He turned back with only a short distance (lit. “one more step”) to go before conquering [the mountain].

12 ato AND -te kara: COMPARISON

S1-ta ato S2 and S1-te kara S2 both express the idea of ‘after’. The main difference between the two is as follows.

S1-ta ato S2 is concerned with a simple order of a sequence of events (example a).

S1-te kara S2, on the other hand, emphasizes the order of a sequence, more like a temporal condition for S2. Thus, in example b the implication is that manufacturers should check out their goods first [to make sure there are no faults] before releasing them to the market.

S1-te kara S2, but not S1-ta ato S2, is used to indicate the idea of 'it was such-and-such a length of time after something happened' (example c). Similarly, S1-te kara S2 can also be used in cleft sentences (see 201.4).

- a 女性は近くの銀行で現金を引き出し【た後】、息子の家まで歩いて行くところだったという。

josei wa chikaku no ginkō de genkin o hikidashita ato musuko no ie made aruite iku tokoro datta to iu

The woman says that she was about to walk to her son's house after having withdrawn some cash from a nearby bank.

- b きちんと調べ【てから】にしてほしい。

kichinto shirabete kara ni shite hoshii

We want them to [put things on the market] after they've checked them out properly.

13 -ba [CONJUNCTIVE PARTICLE]

-ba is a conjunctive P, which in S1 basically indicates the condition which is necessary for S2 to become possible 'if . . . then'; typically, this can be 'turned around' and interpreted as 'if not, then not'. In -ba sentences, the action or state of S1 or S2, or both, is not controllable by the speaker (see 14).

For -ba forms of V, adj., AN and N + cop., see conditional forms listed under 232, 3, 35.

-ba tends to be used in the written (or formal spoken) language rather than in the spoken style, although there are colloquial contractions that are used in the spoken style, such as -kerya instead of -kereba (see also 50.2).

With N and AN, nara is often used instead of -ba (see 108).

13.1 Clause 1-ba clause 2 (clause 2 = non-past)

13.1.1 Necessary condition 'if'

13.1.2 General condition 'when'

13.2 Clause 1-ba clause 2 (clause 2 = past): hypothetical condition

13.3 Idiomatic uses

13.3.1 -ba ii

13.3.2 Negative-ba + negative

13.3.3 to ieba

13.3.4 sō ieba

13.3.5 Verb-ru to sureba

13.3.6 iikaereba, kurabereba, nazoraereba, etc.

13.1 CLAUSE 1-ba CLAUSE 2 (CLAUSE 2 = NON-PAST)

13.1.1 Necessary condition 'if'

-ba implies that if the condition of S1 is not fulfilled, S2 cannot take place. tara can also be used in these sentences, but to can only be used in examples a and b (but with a different implication, i.e. in the habitual sense of 'always').

- a 成績がよけれ【ば】、合格書が出てくる。
seiseki ga yokereba gōkakusho ga dete kuru
 If the results are good, a certificate is issued.
- b だだをこねれ【ば】、無理が通る。

- e がんばれ【ば】、いつかはチャンスがある。
ganbareba itsu ka wa chansu ga aru

13.1.2 General condition 'when'

Instead of -ba, both -tara and to [conjunctive P] can also be used in these sentences.

- a 障害とは人が歳をとれ【ば】必ず持つようになるものだ。 shōgai to wa toshi o toreba kanarazu motsu yō ni naru mono da
 A disability is something that everyone gets without fail when getting old.
- b 会え【ば】話しかはずむ。
aeba hanashi ga hazumu
 When they meet, their conversation is lively.

13.2 CLAUSE 1-ba CLAUSE 2 (CLAUSE 2 = PAST):
HYPOTHETICAL CONDITION

Here, S2 uses the past/perfect ending -ta (often in the form -te ita), often with an expression of conjecture or guessing. The combination indicates a hypothetical (i.e. unrealized) condition 'if . . . would have'. -tara can also be used in the same sense.

- a シートベルトをしていれ【ば】、助かった。

shīto beruto o shite ireba tasukatta

If he had been wearing a seatbelt, he would have lived.

- b これからも、あのときあすれ【ば】よかったと後悔することはしたくない。

kore kara mo ano toki ā sureba yokatta to kōkai suru koto wa shitakunai

From now on, too, I don't want to regret things, thinking that I should have done things differently that time.

13.3.1 -ba ii

-ba ii (lit. “is good if”) indicates the idea of ‘should’, ‘would be good if’ or, in the past tense, ‘would have been good if’, ‘was OK if’. -ba ii can colloquially be contracted to -rya ii (example d).

Note – ii (+ cop.), etc. can be omitted (examples g-i), in which case the meaning can be a statement (= -ba ii desu), or with question intonation a recommendation ‘how about’ (see 31.2.1, 140.2.2, 191.4.1).

- a では、どうすれ【ばいい】だろう。

dewa, dō sureba ii darō

What should we do then, I wonder.

Repair shops being closed at the end of the year, I just wonder how we can make it to the New Year, he sighed.

- c いっしょに過ごすボーイフレンドがいれ【ばいい】んですけど。

issho ni sugosu bōifurendo ga ireba ii n desu kedo

It's OK if one has a boyfriend to spend [Christmas] with.

- d 休みだって長け【りゃいい】ってもんじゃないらしい。

yasumi datte nagakerya ii tte mon ja nai rashii

Holidays, it seems, are not necessarily the longer the better.

- e 私に似れ【ばよかった】のだが、残念ながら子供たちのツメは切りにくい。

watashi ni nireba yokatta no da ga zannen-nagara kodomo-tachi no tsume wa kiri-nikui

It would have been OK if they'd taken after me, but unfortunately the children's nails are hard to cut.

- f 四年生になると、大学は週一回授業に通え【ばよかった】。 yonensei ni naru to daigaku wa shū ikkai jugyō ni kayoeba yokatta Once you got to the fourth year, you just needed to go to university once a week for classes.
- g 微力ながら町のお手伝いができれ【ば】。
biryoku-nagara machi no o-tetsudai ga dekireba
 It would be good (= I'd be happy) if I could use my limited abilities to help the town.
- h 空港さえなければ【ば】。 kūkō sae nakereba

- i 献体をなされ【ば】? お葬式は不要。
kentai o nasareba? o-sōshiki wa fuyō
 How about donating your body? No funeral needed.

13.3.2 Negative-ba + negative

The combination indicates the meaning of 'must', 'have to' (for more examples and variations of form, see 50.2).

- a 言わ【なければならぬ】ことは申し上げた。
iwanakereba naranai koto wa mōshiageta
 I've told him the things that needed saying.

13.3.3 to ieba

to ieba is used when one thinks of something or when two things are automatically associated with each other (see also 218).

- a 缶のお茶【といえは】、ウーロン茶を思いつく人が多いだろう。 kan no o-cha to ieba ūron-cha o omoitsuku hito ga ōi darō
 At the mention of tea in cans, many probably think of Oolong tea.
- b 鳥【といえは】、近くにはスズメかハトくらいしかいない。
tori to ieba chikaku ni wa suzume ka hato kurai shika inai Birds? Around here there are only sparrows and pigeons.

13.3.4 sō ieba

This is used when the speaker indicates that he or she has just recalled some fact (by association from the preceding context or otherwise) 'come to think of it'

- a 送電の故障はこの10年で40%減少したという。【そういえば】、ちかごろは停電でろうそくの世話になることも少なくなった。 sōden no koshō wa kono jūnen de yonjūp-pāsento genshō shita to iu. sō ieba chikagoro wa teiden de rōsoku no sewa ni naru koto mo sukunaku natta

- b 【そういえば】、Fさんは別性夫婦だったね。
sō ieba F-san wa bessei fūfū datta ne
 Come to think of it, you [= Mr and Mrs F] are a couple using different surnames, right?

13.3.5 Verb-ru to sureba

This is a way of emphasizing the condition 'if (at all)'.

- a 問題がある【とすれば】大学の工学部離れが進んでいることという関係者もいる。
mondai ga aru to sureba daigaku no kōgakubu-banare ga susunde iru koto to iu kankeisha mo iru

Some of those concerned say that if there is a problem, it's the trend away from engineering departments in the university.

13.3.6 iikaereba, kurabereba, nazoraereba, etc.

These expressions mean 'in other words' (iikaereba) and 'compared to' (kurabereba and nazoraereba). The difference between the last two is that whereas kurabereba is a straightforward comparison between A and B, nazoraereba involves 'likening' B to A, or using A to explain B.

- a 言い換え【ば】、今の教育現場はいじめの温床づくりをしているのだ。
iikaereba ima no kyōiku genba wa ijime no onshōzukuri o shite iru no da
 In other words, the classrooms are now hotbeds of bullying.
- b 10月の地震に比べ【ば】、軽くてよかった。

- c 柔道になぞらえ【ば】、いじめにも”受け身”がある。
jūdō ni nazoraereba ijime ni mo ukemi ga aru
 If you compare it to judo, there are safe ways of being thrown in bullying, too.

14 -ba, dattara, nara, -tara, to: COMPARISON

-ba, nara (dattara), to and -tara are all conjunctive P indicating a condition. The fact that comparison of their uses is a favourite research topic shows that their differences cannot be explained easily.

Things are complicated by both the fact that classical usage, which was different from modern spoken usage, affects formal written modern Japanese, and the fact that there is considerable overlap between the forms. Furthermore, there are combinations of these particles, such as -tara-ba and (-ta) nara-ba.

Below is a brief comparison of these particles, centring chiefly on their meanings. All examples in this section are made-up examples (the % sign is omitted).

[N/AN] da to	[N/AN] dattara	[cop.-conditional]	[N/AN] nara	[N/AN] datta nara

14.2 COMPARISON OF USE

In English translation, these P mostly translate as 'when' or 'if'. The equivalents without () are typical meanings, but the ones in () are also found.

to	when (if)
-tara	when (if)
-ba	if (when)
nara/-dattara	if

14.2.1 Used in the sense of 'if'

14.2.1.1 -ba

The speaker/writer makes a presumption in S1, and states the expected outcome in S2 (in this respect -ba differs from nara).

Basically, S1-ba S2 operates with the restriction that the actor (subject) cannot control the action of the V or state in either S1 and S2, or both. Below, the + sign expresses 'control', and the – sign, 'no control'.

× Indicates that this is not a possible sentence.

S1-ba S2

–	–	安けれ【ば】売れる。 yasukereba ureru If it's cheap, it'll sell.
+	–	話せ【ば】分かる。 hanaseba wakaru If I talk to him, he'll understand.
–	+	高けれ【ば】買わない。 takakereba kawanai If it's expensive, I won't buy it.
–	+	安けれ【ば】買う。 yasukereba kau If it's cheap, I'll buy it.
–	+	あなたが行け【ば】私も行く。 anata ga ikeba watashi mo iku If you go,* I'll go too.
+	+	×カメラを買え【ば】貸してあげる。 kamera o kaeba kashite ageru If I buy a camera I'll lend it to you.

Note – * From the subject/actor's point of view, the action of the second person (you) cannot be controlled.

When S2 is in the past, the condition becomes hypothetical 'if . . . had'.

14.2.1.2 nara/dattara

With nara/dattara, the presumption of S1 does not state the speaker's judgement, as with -ba. Instead, it takes up something from the previous context or some other, already established, fact, and expresses the meaning of ‘I don’t really know, but if the assumption is correct/if what you’re saying is right’. In other words, S1 is an assumption that is based on something/somebody other than the speaker, and S2 is the speaker’s evaluation or judgement based on that assumption.

Normally, S1 concerns something outside the speaker, and even if it concerns the speaker, it sounds as if it concerned someone else.

a 不満がある【なら】、直接言え。

fuman ga aru nara chokusetsu ie

[To someone who seems to be muttering some complaint:] If you have something to complain about, tell me directly!

nara/dattara do not express a succession in time ‘when’ (except in the combination -ta nara, which is similar in meaning to -tara), and therefore there is no fixed time order of S1 and S2; often, S2 actually precedes S1:

b あした返してくれる【なら】、この本を貸してあげる。

ashita kaeshite kureru nara kono hon o kashite ageru

If you’ll return it tomorrow, I’ll lend you this book.

Noun + nara can indicate the topic of a S, and can be replaced by N wa. The difference can be explained as a topic raised by someone else (nara), and by the speaker himself (wa).

14.2.1.3 -tara

When -tara translates as ‘when’, it can basically be replaced by -ba. However, this is not always possible due to the restrictions on controllability of the verb in the case of -ba (see 14.2.1.1).

In -tara sentences, S2 can freely indicate the speaker’s intention (requests, hortative, etc.). Also, When S2 is in the past, it can express a hypothetical condition.

-tara has a colloquial ring, and therefore in expository and academic prose, etc. -ba is used instead.

14.2.1.4 to

With to, the conditional meaning of ‘if . . . then . . .’, ‘if not . . . then not . . .’ is weak, being more like ‘when’ or ‘whenever’, with the result of S1 becoming apparent (in S2).

a そこを曲がる【と】、駅はすぐです。

soko o magaru to eki wa sugu desu

When you turn that corner, it’s just a short distance to the station

With to, the speaker's intention (expressions of request, hortative, etc.) cannot be used.

- b ×そこを曲がる【と】、駅に行ってください
soko o magaru to eki ni itte kudasai

14.2.2 Used in the sense of 'when'

14.2.2.1 to

Essentially, to means 'when', expressing habitual or natural (commonsense) occurrences in the present or past.

- a 学校から帰る【と】毎日泳いだ。

gakkō kara kaeru to mainichi oyoida

When I got back from school, I used to swim every day.

to is typically used in the sense that S2 is noticed or discovered as a result of the realization of S1. In this use, the pred. of S2 cannot express intention, i.e. S2 has a different subject than that of S1, or expresses a state, usually in the past.

- b 家に帰る【と】・帰っ【たら】手紙が来ていた。

ie ni kaeru to/kaettara, tegami ga kite ita

When I got back home, there was a letter.

The difference between to and -tara here is that -tara is colloquial, everyday language, whereas the effect of to is more dramatic, i.e. it is typically used to tell some gripping tale, or in written stories.

14.2.2.2 -tara

-tara can be used freely in the sense of both 'when' and 'if', with a colloquial ring. With -tara, S2 can express the speaker's intention (request, hortative, etc.), as in example a.

- a 3時になっ【たら】、お茶にしましょう。

sanji ni nattara, o-cha ni shimashō

At 3 o'clock, let's have some tea.

-tara cannot be used for a time sequence in the past (example b), but it's OK in the present tense. Note that example d has a narrative (story) ring to it.

A simple sequence of actions, in the sense of 'and' rather than 'when' is expressed by -te (example e, see 31.1.3).

- b ×彼は家に帰っ【たら】電話をかけた。

kare wa ie ni kaettara denwa o kaketa

- c 朝起き【たら】新聞を取りに行く。
asa okitara shinbun o tori ni iku
 When I get up in the morning, I'll go and fetch the paper.
- d 彼は家に帰る【と】電話をかけた。
kare wa ie ni kaeru to denwa o kaketa
 When he got back home, he made a phone call.
- e 彼は家に帰っ【て】、電話をかけた。
kare wa ie ni kaette denwa o kaketa
 He went home, and made a phone call.

14.2.2.3 -ba

In generalizing statements, -ba can be used in the sense of 'when', but only in the present, not the past.

- a 歳をとれ【ば】、見えにくくなる。
toshi o toreba mienikuku naru
 When/as one gets older, one's eyesight deteriorates.

14.2.2.4 nara

nara cannot be used in the sense of 'when'.

15 baai [STRUCTURAL NOUN]

Apart from its use as a structural N, baai can be used as a regular noun in the sense of 'case' or 'circumstances':

- a しかし、総務庁は「【場合】によっては早期退職の勧奨もしなくては」という。 shikashi sōmu-chō de wa baai ni yotte wa sōki taishoku no kanshō mo shinakute wa to iu
 However, the General Affairs Bureau says 'Depending on the circumstances, we also have to recommend early retirement'.

However, baai is mostly used as a structural N in the sense of 'in case of', 'when', or 'if'. As a structural N, baai is preceded by N-mod. forms of V, adj., AN and N, and attaches case and focus P, etc. like other N. baai has a written or formal ring to it and therefore tends to be used in legal and other written documents (examples d and f).

For differences to other items meaning 'when' or 'if' see 16.

Note that, as in the case of toki, a V preceding baai generally uses the -ru form when the action has not been completed, and -ta when it has. This also applies to a small number of -i adj., such as ōi ‘numerous’, sukunai ‘few’ and nai ‘there isn’t’. Compare examples b and c with e–g, and h against j.

However, the effect of -ta can also be to make the baai clause more hypothetical, as in example i.

16 baai, toki: COMPARISON

When toki is made into a topic in the form of toki (wa) or toki (ni) wa, toki indicates a general or habitual condition 'if' or 'always'. baai can be used in the same way, although baai wa, etc. has a much more formal ring than toki wa, as seen in examples a and b. For this reason, baai is often in legal and other forms of 'officialese' (cf., 15 b, d and g).

In example c, toki ni cannot be replaced by baai ni, as the content is too personal, lacking the officialese tone typical of baai.

- a % 火事の【ときは】エレベーターを使用しないでください。 kaji no toki wa erebētā o shiyō shinai de kudasai Please don't use the lift when there's a fire.
- b % 火災の【場合】はエレベーターを使用しないこと。 [= written notice]

c % 火事の【ときに】私の大切なアルバムが焼けてしまった。

17.10 Adjective/adjectival noun bakari de wa . . . negative

17.1 VERB-ru bakari da

Usually followed by a form of cop., bakari indicates that the action of a V whose action is repeatable is taking place all the time, or with V whose action is (de-)intensifying (e.g. takamaru ‘get higher’, fukamaru ‘get deeper’, tsuyomaru ‘get stronger’, yowamaru ‘get weaker’), that the action is (de-)intensifying ‘ever more’.

17.1.1 Repeatable verbs

With V whose action can be repeated, bakari means ‘just keep doing’.

- a 警察にも何も言っていない」と繰り返す【ばかり】。
keisatsu ni mo nani mo itte nai to kurikaesu bakari
 He just keeps repeating, ‘I didn’t say anything to the police either’.

17.1.2 Intensifying verbs

With (de-)intensifying V (usually formed by adj.-ku naru/AN ni naru, or adj.-stem-maru), bakari indicates that the (de-)intensifying action is ‘ever more’, ‘increasingly’ so.

- a %なぞは【深まるばかり】だ。

 The mystery deepens ever more.

- e コンビニ同士の競争は【激しくなるばかり】。
konbini dōshi no kyōsō wa hageshiku naru bakari
 The competition between convenience stores is getting tougher all the time.

17.2 VERB-ta bakari

After V-ta, bakari indicates that the action of V has ‘only just’ been completed. It can be used as pred., usually with the addition of cop., or to modify a N by means of no (see 187).

17.2.1 Verb-ta bakari (+ copula, etc.)

In newspaper style, cop. can be omitted (example c).

- a アジア・ブームは始まった【ばかりだ】。

- b 新しい家は完成した【ばかりの】社宅。
atarashii ie wa kansei shita bakari no shataku

17.3 VERB-te bakari (wa/mo) iru

Sandwiched between V-te and a form of iru, bakari indicates that the action of V takes place all the time, at the expense of other things that could or should take place ‘just . . . all the time’, ‘always’ (see 31.5).

Where the neg. pot. form of iru (irarenai) is used (17.3.2), the meaning is ‘can’t just . . . all the time’.

17.3.1 With non-potential predicates

- a % あの人には食べ【てばかりい】ます。
ano hito wa tabete bakari imasu
 That person is eating all the time.

otto wa ie de shōgi ya igo no terebi bangumi o mite bakari iru

17.3.2 With negative potential predicates

In the pot. form, the meaning becomes 'can't just ... all the time', 'can't afford to do nothing but'.

a しかし浮かれ【てばかりはいられ】ない。

shikashi ukarete bakari wa irarenai

However, one can't just be in the clouds all the time.

b 悲嘆に暮れ【てばかりはいられ】なかった。

17.4 NOUN (+ PARTICLE) bakari

17.4.1 Noun bakari + copula

Followed by forms of cop. (in newspaper style, cop. is often omitted at the end of a sentence), bakari means 'is all', 'was all', 'only', etc. The implication with bakari is not 'only' in the exclusive sense (for that, dake/shika are used), but that out of a choice of two or more entities, one is much more represented than one would normally expect.

In examples a and b, for instance, there might well be the occasional female (example a) or male (example b); the point is that where one would normally expect a mixture of the two, one or the other group is predominant.

a 客も店員も男性【ばかり】だった。

kyaku mo ten'in mo dansei bakari datta

Both customers and sales personnel were all male.

b 百貨店の店頭でも元気なのは女性【ばかり】。

hyakkaten no tentō de mo genki na no wa josei bakari

17.4.2 Noun (+ particle) bakari (+ particle)

Attached to N or [N + P] that are subjects or objects, bakari can replace ga and o, or alternatively attach them. bakari is added to all other case P, such as ni, e, to, etc. It indicates the idea of 'only' or 'all', in the sense that something is overwhelmingly so.

- a 英語【ばかり】が外国語じゃない。

 English is not the only foreign language.
- b 表面【ばかり】見ないで内面も見て欲しい。

 The words of Larsen, 'Negotiations seem to continue forever', cannot necessarily be said to be all exaggeration.

17.4.3 Time noun bakari

With an amount of time, the meaning of bakari is 'about' (example a), whereas with any other time N it serves to emphasize it in the sense of 'only', 'at least', etc. (example b).

- a わずか数カ月【ばかり】前のことが、何年も前のことのように思える。 wazuka sūkagetsu bakari mae no koto ga nannen mo mae no koto no yō ni omoeru Something that took place just a few months ago seems like it happened years ago.
- b 今度【ばかり】は降りない。
kondo bakari wa orinai
 This time, at least, we're not going to quit.

17.5 NOUN PHRASE 1 (+ PARTICLE) bakari de (wa) naku, ...
NOUN PHRASE 2 (ni shite) mo ...

Used between NP (and equivalent), this combination indicates the idea of 'not only, but also'. Note that a phrase ending in V-te can be used instead of NP2 (example c) (see 37.7).

- a % 肉【ばかりではなく】、野菜【も】食べなさい。 niku bakari de wa naku yasai mo tabenasai
 Don't eat just meat, have some vegetables as well!
- b 夫婦一緒の時間【ばかりでなく】自分の時間【も】持ちたい。

17.6 NOUN/CLAUSE bakari ka, ... (mo)

In this use, bakari ka is attached to a N or a S (given below in []), and signals an addition. S can either end in a pos. or a neg. form (or an expression that has negative meaning).

Instead of mo, made 'even' can also be used (see 86).

17.6.1 Noun/clause-positive bakari ka, ... (mo)

Here, bakari ka is attached to a pos. form, and thus signals a pos. addition 'not only ... but also ...'.

- a ロシアは[戦車【ばかりか】核技術【まで】売り出すのか]。 roshia wa sensha bakari ka kaku-gijutsu made uridasu no ka Is Russia selling not only tanks but even nuclear know-how?

- b [命が助かった【ばかりか】]、屋内で感じる恐怖を味わわずに済んだ。
inochi ga tasukatta bakari ka okunai de kanjiru kyōfu o ajiwawazu ni sunda
 Not only was his life saved, he managed not to experience the fright one feels inside [during an earthquake].

17.6.2 Noun/clause-negative bakari ka, . . . (mo)

In this use, bakari ka is attached to a S ending in neg. form (or an expression that has neg. meaning).

bakari ka usually signals a neg. addition ‘not only not, but also’, but it can be attached to what amounts to a double neg., in which case the negs. cancel each other out, indicating a pos. addition (example b).

- a 自分に合わないまくらを使えば[疲れがとれにくい]【ばかりか】、 肩凝りの原因に【も】なる。
jibun ni awanai makura o tsukaeba tsukare ga torenikui bakari ka chūgoku no kyōdaisa wa kyōi ni naranai bakari ka sekai kakkoku no toku ni naru

 Not only is China's vastness not a menace, it will be an advantage for the countries of the world.

17.7 NOUN bakari ka to iu to . . . sō de wa/mo nai (OR SIMILAR NEGATIVE)

This means literally ‘if you question if X is all Y, that is not so’, and is used as a rhetorical device or way of putting things in a somewhat dramatic fashion ‘you may think that . . . , but that's not so’.

If sō de mo nai (example b) is used rather than sō de wa nai (example a), the meaning becomes ‘not necessarily so’.

- a 青森の冬は雪【ばかりかというと】【そうではない】。 aomori no fuyu wa yuki bakari ka to iu to sō de wa nai
 You may think that Aomori winters are nothing but snow, but that's not so.

mo nai
 You may think that the eating habits of today's young are all bad, but that's not necessarily so.

17.8 ADVERB/CLAUSE (to) bakari (ni)

Attached to a S (indicated below in []), bakari ni makes that S into an adverbial phrase in the sense of ‘as if’, or ‘almost’, modifying a following V.

- a さらに[これでもかと]【ばかりに】、バラードが続く。 sara ni kore demo ka to bakari ni barādo ga tsuzuku
 And further, ballads continue with a vengeance (lit. “as if to say, can you take more?”).

 Until then, they were all fathers who had worked as if overtime, shift work and business trips were ‘the way of men’.

17.9 ADJECTIVE/ADJECTIVAL NOUN bakari no NOUN

When adj./AN bakari modify a N, bakari emphasizes the degree to which the adj. applies, in the sense of ‘almost’.

- a 澄んだ水の流れと、まばゆい【ばかりの】新緑が目には浮かぶ。
sunda mizu no nagare to mabayui bakari no shinryoku ga me ni ukabu

17.10 ADJECTIVE/ADJECTIVAL NOUN bakari de wa ... NEGATIVE

Followed by a neg., adj./AN bakari indicates the idea of ‘not all’, ‘not ... just’. Note that the forms bakari attaches to are A-i and AN na.

- a 安い【ばかりでは】消費者も買わ【ない】。
yasui bakari de wa shōhisha mo kawanai
 Consumers aren’t going to buy [things] just because they’re cheap.

b 決して地味な【ばかりでは】【なか】ったのだ。

kesshite jimi na bakari de wa nakatta noda

He [= famous historical figure] was definitely not just conservative (in his tastes).

18 bakari, dake, shika: COMPARISON

These P can all translate as ‘only’ in some of their uses. Formally, shika differs from bakari and dake in that it is used with neg. forms. dake and shika are the only ones that can be used together, in the form dake shika.

a リゾートクラブ会員権を保有していても、これまでは同一クラブの施設【だけしか】利用できなかった。

rizōto kurabu no kaiinken o hoyū shite ite mo kore made wa dōitsu kurabu no shisetsu dake shika riyō dekinakatta

Even if one holds membership of a resort club, so far one can only use the facilities of that same club.

b あなたって、いつも用事のある時【だけしか】電話してこないのね。

anata tte itsumo yōji no aru toki dake shika denwa shite konai no ne

You only ever ring when you want something, right?

In meaning, shika is the most ‘exclusive’, emphasizing the meaning of ‘only’ in the sense of ‘nothing but’.

After amounts, shika + neg. (see 180.1.3) and V/VN (see 180.3), shika can be replaced by dake (da), but neg. needs to be changed to pos.

After N, bakari means ‘only’ or ‘just’ in the sense that something is ‘overwhelmingly so’ or ‘all the time’ (see 17.4.1 for examples), whereas dake and shika are used in the exclusive sense of ‘only’.

bakari can be replaced by dake after repeatable V (17.1.1) and in the uses shown in 17.4.1, 17.4.2 and 17.4.3 (but not with amount of time (17.4.3 a), where the meaning of bakari is ‘about’), 17.5 and 17.10.

After intensifying V (17.1.2), dake changes the meaning of the bakari S as shown below.

c 政治不信は【高まるばかり】だ。

seiji fushin wa takamaru bakari da

Distrust in politics is getting ever greater.

d % 政治不信は【高まるだけ】だ。

seiji fushin wa takamaru dake da

Distrust in politics will only get greater.

The context that needs to be assumed for the dake version would be something like “If you were to do this, then the result would only/predictably be that . . .”.

When compared to dake (see 37), dake can be replaced by bakari in uses shown in 37.1.1.1, 37.6 and 37.7. In use 37.1.2, dake can be replaced by bakari in example b only, i.e. when used after VN, but NOT other N.

19 -beki [SENTENCE ENDING]

The S ending -beki attaches to V-ru. However, after suru or VN where suru gets voiced to VN-zuru, the classical forms subeki/VN-zubeki are still used (see examples 19.1 c, e and h).

-beki indicates obligation, ‘must’, ‘ought to’ (see 50.3, 62, 63.2, 89, 239.4).

-beki is usually followed by forms of the cop., but note the classical neg. -bekarazu, which is occasionally encountered (19.1 h) instead of -beki de wa nai. Also, the classical form -beshi is occasionally still found (see examples 19.1 c and d) instead of -beki + cop.

19.1 Clause-beki copula

19.2 Clause-beki noun

19.1 CLAUSE-beki COPULA

-beki is similar in meaning to -ta hō ga ii (-nai hō ga ii in the neg.), meaning ‘should’, ‘ought to’ (see 63.3).

a % その映画は一回見る【べきだ】よ。

sono eiga wa ikkai miru-beki da yo

That film you should see once.

b 選挙で選ぶ【べきだ】。

senkyo de erabu-beki da

[He [= party leader]] ought to be chosen by election.

19.2 CLAUSE-beki NOUN

When modifying N, the meaning is 'need to', 'must', and can be replaced by a double neg. such as -nakereba naranai. Note that -beki here modifies N directly, without cop. (see 50.2).

kongo susumu-beki hōkōsei wa hakkiri shite kita

20 CAUSATIVE SENTENCES

Causative sentences can be seen as a kind of sentence conversion, in that to a non-causative sentence, an extra NP (and the meaning of causation or permission) is added. Compare:

% kodomo [ga] gakkō ni iku. The child goes to school.

% [oya ga] kodomo [o/ni] gakkō ni ika [se] ru. The parents make/let the child go to school.

In the basic S, the V requires NP ga to indicate the person carrying out the action of V. By contrast, the caus. sentence involves an extra NP (the causer) who influences the actor (or causee) to carry out the action of V. Also, the valency is changed (the actor is now marked by o or ni). Of course, not all these NPs are usually present in a given sentence (those understood from the context are often omitted).

 20.2 X (person) ga/wa Y (person) ni Z (thing) o (verb-transitive-causative)

Causative sentences can express three meanings or functions: 'make someone do something' (coercion), 'let someone do something' (permission) or substituting for a V-tr. by using a V-intr. in the causative form. This last function is shown below.

a 関係者を驚かせる
kankeisha o odorokaseru
 amaze the persons concerned instead of

b 関係者が驚いている
kankeisha ga odorote iru
 the persons concerned are amazed

The distinction between a and b is, however, not always clear-cut, even when the context is taken into consideration.

Causative V are formed from V-ru as in Table 4.

Table 4 Causative verb formation

Verb type	Replacement pattern
Group I	-u	→	-aseru
	ik-u	→	ik-aseru
	nom-u	→	nom-aseru
	ka(w)-u	→	kaw-aseru

20.1 X (PERSON) ga/wa Y (PERSON) o/ni (VERB-INTRANSITIVE-CAUSATIVE)

Person X (usually ellipted, being understood from the context) exerts influence to allow or force person Y (also often ellipted) to do the action of the intransitive verb.

*Note – with V expressing emotion (odoroku ‘be surprised’, warau ‘laugh’, etc.), only o is used.

Here, NP o + the caus. equivalent of NP ga + V-intr. is used to indicate what a person or thing/matter does. The NP o + V-intr. caus. often translates as a transitive V in English, or sometimes idiomatically.

20.4 VERB-INTRANSITIVE/VERB-TRANSITIVE-CAUSATIVE-te
+ PERFORMATIVE VERB

When the speaker indicates that he has his action condoned by others (or wants it that way), the patterns [(1st Person) V-caus.-te morau/itadaku] or [(2nd/3rd Person) V-caus.-te kureru/kudasaru] are used.

These patterns can also be used in question form for requesting permission politely, in the form V-caus.-te moraemasen ka/itadakemasen ka ‘may I?’, ‘am I allowed to?’/kuremasen ka/kudasaimasen ka ‘would you?’ (note that morau and itadaku are used only in the pot. form here). See 203.3.5.

The combination means ‘may I’, ‘be allowed to’.

- b 何でこんなことしか、やら【せてくれ】ないのよ。

nande konna koto shika yarasete kurenai no yo

20.5 IDIOMATIC USES

A number of V (or N-V combinations) use the caus. form idiomatically.

- a 酒を飲んで仕事の話に花を咲か【せ】たという。

sake o nonde wa shigoto no hanashi ni hana o sakasete to iu

He says that each time they had a drink they had a lively conversation about work.

(kakasenai = neg. of the caus. of kaku ‘to be lacking’)

21 CAUSATIVE PASSIVE SENTENCES

Causative passives are caus. sentences (see 20) with added pass. (see 156).

The pass. example a below can be converted further into b.

- a % 先生が学生を立たせた。

sensei ga gakusei o tatasete

The teacher made the pupil stand up.

- b % 学生が先生に立たせられた。

gakusei ga sensei ni tataserareta

The student was made to stand up by the teacher.

Table 5 Causative-passive verb formation

Verb type	Verb	Causative	Causative-passive
Group I	ik-u	ik-ase-ru	ik-ase-rareru ik-as-areru
	nom-u	nom-ase-ru	nom-ase-rareru nom-as-areru
Group II	tabe-ru	tabe-saseru	tabe-sase-rareru mi-sase-rareru
	mi-ru	mi-saseru
Group III	suru	sase-ru	sase-rareru
	kuru	kosase-ru	kosase-rareru

The difference between the two is that the caus. sentence is concerned with what the teacher has done to the pupil (from the point of view of the teacher), whereas the caus.-pass. sentence is concerned with how the pupil was influenced by the teacher (from the point of view of the pupil).

The basic meaning of a caus.-pass. sentence is ‘be made to do something (against one’s will)’, but there are also examples where the implication is a positive one ‘be given the opportunity to feel/discover something’.

Caus.-pass. V forms are formed as given in Table 5 (see 20, 156).

- c 交通渋滞のひどさには【閉口させられ】た。 kōtsū jūtai no hidosa ni wa heikō saserareta
 I was dumbfounded by how bad the traffic jams were.

 Depending on his testimony, the president may be put into a critical position.

22 CLASSICISMS

A form of language based on classical Japanese (essentially the language of the Heian period, around the year 1000) called bungo (文語) was the standard written form of Japanese between the Meiji restoration (1868) and the end of the Second World War.

Around the turn of the century, the Tokyo vernacular, kōgo (口語) became dominant in some newspapers and popular fiction as a result of the so-called genbun itchi ('one form for spoken and written language') movement, but bungo's influence has continued (in much reduced form) to the present day. For instance, haiku (17-syllable poem) and waka (31-syllable poem) writing is still very popular, with weekend newspapers carrying competitive selections of recent creations every week; but forms of poetry use classical grammar.

22.1 Classical forms

22.2 Classical copula

22.3 Idiomatic uses of classical forms

22.1 CLASSICAL FORMS

In everyday Japanese texts (and to an extent, conversation, too), certain classicisms crop up occasionally, including the following (the classical language had separate forms for fin. and N-mod. uses, which have subsequently fallen together). See Table 6 for some common equivalents.

For examples, see 50, 80 (-ki), 111.1.1.2 (nashi), 111.1.2.1 (-nu), 111.1.2.3 (-zu, ni arazu), 111.2.4 (zaru).

Table 6 Common classical forms with colloquial equivalents

	Class. form	Coll. equivalent
N-modifying	adj.-base- ki - nu - zaru	adj.- i - nai - nai
Final	adj.-base- shi - zu ni arazu	adj.- i - nai de wa nai
Conjunctive	- zu	- naide

22.2 CLASSICAL COPULA

There also is a classical cop., nari, which is still occasionally found in the written style, and has a N-mod. pos. form naru N, and a N-mod. neg. form, naranu N.

a はるか【なり】、情報ハイウエー (headline)

haruka nari jōhō haiuē

The information superhighway – a long way off.

naru N is also found in a number of idiomatic expressions, which include ōi naru N ‘big’ and ika naru N mo, a more formal variant of donna N demo, ‘no matter which N’, ‘no N whatsoever’.

b 日本の方が豊かと考えるのは【大なる誤解】だね。

nihon no hō ga yutaka to kangaeru no wa ōi naru gokai da ne

It’s a grave misunderstanding to think that Japan is more affluent [than China].

c NATOの拡張には【いかなる国も】拒否権を行使できない。

NATO no kakuchō ni wa ikanaru kuni mo kyōhi-ken o kōshi dekinai

No country whatsoever can exercise the right to veto an expansion of NATO.

22.3 IDIOMATIC USES OF CLASSICAL FORMS

Classical forms also survive in a number of idiomatic patterns, which include the following: naranu (see 111.2.2), -nu uchi (see 229.1.2 g), -zaru o enai (see 50.2.5), -zu ni wa irarenai (see 50.3), -neba (naranai) (see 50.2.2 a and h), -bekarazu (see 19).

23 CLEFT SENTENCES

A cleft S is the result of splitting a S into two parts and reversing the order for emphasis. In English, the NP moved to the front is emphasized: ‘It is/ was . . . who/that . . .’.

In Japanese, it is the second part (the part after wa) that is emphasized. This is in line with the de-focusing function of wa (see 236).

a 【かわいそうなのは】選手だ。

kawaisō na no wa senshu da

It’s the athletes who are to be pitied.

(cf., 選手が／はかわいそうだ. The athletes are to be pitied.)

b 【信用できるのは】自分だけ。

shinyō dekiru no wa jibun dake

It's only myself that I can trust.

(cf., 自分だけが／は信用できる。I can trust only myself.)

24 COMMANDS

Commands (which can be pos. or neg.) can use imperative forms as such (for examples, see 69), but commonly the imperative forms of the performative V kureru (kure) and its more formal equivalent kudasaru (kudasai) are used.

Commands with these performative V can be divided into those that ask others for something (N o kure/kudasai) and those that tell others to do (or not to do) something on their behalf, in which case V-te kure/kudasai is used.

24.1 Noun/noun verb o kudasai/kure

24.1.1 Noun o kudasai/kure

24.1.2 Verb-te kudasai/kure

24.2 Verb-te (ne)

24.1 NOUN/NOUN VERB o kudasai/kure

24.1.1 Noun o kudasai/kure

This can only be used with pos. commands, in the sense of 'give' (kure) and 'please give' (kudasai).

- | | |
|---|---|
| ▲ 配当を【くれ】。
haitō o kure
Give us a dividend! | b 少し時間を【下さい】。
sukoshi jikan o kudasai
Please give me some time. |
|---|---|

24.1.2 Verb-te kudasai/kure

Parallel to the difference between -te kure and -te kudasai, kure is more informal than kudasai, and is used between male friends or by senior men to their subordinates: 'please do'. The final P ne can be attached to commands for a softer ring.

This can also be used for neg. commands (examples c and d) (see 112.4.4, 203.3.3 & 3.4, 101).

- ▲ その時に二カ月分の家賃を払うから待つ【てくれ】。
sono toki ni nikagetsu-bun no yachin o harau kara matte kure
I'll pay two months' rent at that time [= when I get money], so wait.

- b きのう買ったのを見せ【て下さい】。
kinō katta no o misete kudasai
Please show me the one you bought yesterday.
- c 息は止め【ないで下さい】ねー。
iki wa tomenai de kudasai ne

- d 余計なことをし【てくれるな】と、文句を言われた。
yokei na koto o shite kureru na to monku o iwareta
He complained that I shouldn't give him help he didn't ask for.

24.2 VERB-te (ne)

V-te (ne) can be regarded as an informal abbreviation of -te kudasai (ne), which is used by both men and women to friends, family, children and other intimate relations that are of equal or lower status or age (see 202).

For neg. commands, -nai de (ne) (examples c and d) is used (see 112.4.4).

- a 友達連れてき【てね】。
tomodachi tsurete kite ne
Bring some friends, will you.
- b 会社つぶさないように頑張っ【てね】。
kaisha tsubusanai yō ni ganbatte ne
Try your best so you won't make the company go bust.
- c 先生には言わ【ないで】。

Don't tell the teacher.
- d お父さん、試合のチケットを忘れ【ないでね】。
otōsan shiai no chiketto o wasurenai de ne
Daddy, don't forget the tickets for the match.

25 COMPARISON

Comparison typically concerns itself with items that have some property or quality to a larger or lesser degree than one or several others. That property is usually expressed by adj. (in Japanese, AN as well).

Unlike such English formations as cheap → cheap[er]/cheap[est], Japanese has no comparative and superlative forms of adj. (or AN). Comparison (including choice of alternatives) is therefore effected by different means, some of which are similar to the English regular formations [more] beautiful/[most] beautiful, i.e. adv. of degree such as motto 'more' and ichiban/mottomo 'most' are used (see 5.2).

The comparative P yori and the structural N hō also figure prominently in comparative S (see 252, 63, 64).

- 25.1 Comparison using yori and/or hō ga
 - 25.1.1 *Y yor*i (mo) X no hō ga adjective/adjectival noun:
*X (no hō) ga Y yor*i (mo) adjective/adjectival noun
 - 25.1.2 Time expression + particle yori
 - 25.1.3 Clause yori
 - 25.1.4 Clause yori hoka . . . negative
 - 25.1.5 idiom: nani yori (mo)
 - 25.2 Comparison with adverbs (yori, motto, ichiban) + adjective/adjectival noun
 - 25.2.1 yori-adjective/adjectival noun
 - 25.2.2 motto
 - 25.2.3 ichiban/mottomo
 - 25.2.4 hodo
 - 25.2.5 X no naka de (wa/mo) + evaluatory predicate
 - 25.2.6 (A to B to (+ particle)) dochira
 - 25.2.7 dore
 - 25.2.7.1 (A to B to C to . . . noun to) dore
 - 25.2.7.2 X no naka de . . . dore

25.1 COMPARISON USING yori AND/OR hō ga

The most common way of making a comparison uses the comparative particle yori ‘more than’, ‘rather than’ and/or the structural N hō (usually marked by the case P ga). hō may be seen as a way of emphasizing the item it is modified by (example a literally translates as something like “Rather than pork, beef is cheap”). The combination indicates the alternative in a choice of two.

- 25.1.1 *Y yor*i (mo) X no hō ga adjective/adjectival noun:
*X (no hō) ga Y yor*i (mo) adjective/adjectival noun

Both constructions mean ‘X is [adj./AN]-er than Y’. Note that instead of adj./AN, V (and V forms with a stative meaning) can also be used.

Comparing the two word orders, *Y yor*i (mo) X no hō ga adj./AN is the more usual (unmarked) one, *X (no hō) ga Y yor*i (mo) adj./AN having the effect of emphasizing the comparison (compare examples a and b).

- n 豚肉【より】牛肉の【方】が安い。
butaniku yori gyūniku no hō ga yasui
Beef is cheaper than pork.

- b 牛肉【が】豚肉【より】安い——。食肉市場ではこんな逆転現象が起きている。

gyūniku ga butaniku yori yasui shokuniku shijō de wa konna gyakuten genshō ga okite iru

Beef is cheaper than pork. This kind of reversal is happening on the meat market.

- c 人のいのち【は】地球【より】重い、という。

hito no inochi wa chikyū yori omoi to iu

They say that a human life weighs heavier than the earth.

- d 金子さんの観察では、男性【よりも】女性の【方】が冷静だ。 kaneko-san no kansatsu de wa dansei yori mo josei no hō ga reisei da

According to Kaneko-san's observation, women are more level-headed than men.

25.1.2 Time expression + particle yori

This combination means 'compared to'.

- a 昨日【より】軟らかいよ。

kinō yori yawarakai yo

They [= pears] are softer than yesterday.

- b これまで【より】五モデル増える。

kore made yori go-moderu fueru

Compared to before, there will be five new models.

25.1.3 Clause yori

Here, two options are considered, with the one marked by yori judged the less preferable 'rather than'.

- a 今は森を見る【より】木を見る時だ。

ima wa mori o miru yori ki o miru toki da

This is the time to look at the trees rather than the wood.

- b 会社に無理して勤める【より】、好きなことで生活したい。

kaisha ni muri shite tsutomeru yori suki na koto de seikatsu shitai

Rather than forcing myself to work at a company, I'd like to earn my living doing something I like.

25.1.4 Clause yori hoka . . . negative

Followed by a neg. form, this indicates that the option (the clause) to which yori hoka is attached is the only viable possibility 'there is no choice but'.

- a 「株を持ち続ける【よりほか】に【手はない】とあきらめ切った表情。 kabu o mochitsuzukeru yori hoka ni te wa nai to akiramekitta hyōjō ‘There’s no choice but to keep holding on to the shares’, he said with an expression of total resignation.
- b できたばかりの支店を軌道に乗せるためには、がむしゃらに働く【よりほか】【ない】。 dekita bakari no shiten o kidō ni noseru tame ni wa gamushara ni hataraku yori hoka nai
 In order to get a newly established branch going, there’s no other way than to work like mad.

25.1.5 Idiom: nani yori (mo)

Unlike other question words + yori, which express the idea of ‘more . . . than’, question word + nani yori (mo) is an idiomatic expression with the meaning of ‘above all’, ‘more than anything else’.

- a 【何より】印象的なのが、カメラの位置が低いことだ。 nani yori inshō-teki na no ga kamera no ichi ga hikui koto da What’s impressive above all is the low position of the camera.

25.2 COMPARISON WITH ADVERBS (yori, motto, ichiban) + ADJECTIVE/ADJECTIVAL NOUN

25.2.1 yori-adjective/adjectival noun

In this use, yori- acts like a pref., used as an equivalent to the comparative form in languages like English.

The construction yori-adj./AN itself, and certain derived N + V/adj. expressions with adjectival meaning such as antei shite iru ‘be secure’, settokuryoku ga aru ‘be convincing’, inpakuto ga ōkii ‘have a big impact’, etc. are said to have arisen under influence from Western languages.

- a ゲームは【よりリアル】になっている。
gēmu wa yori-riaru ni natte iru Games have become more real[istic].
- b 【より高い】背に【より小さな】足に。

25.2.2 motto

motto ‘more’ can be used to modify adj./AN, but also a V phrase such as o-shigoto nasaru ‘do work’ (hon.). Note also the intensified version motto motto (see 5.2).

a 体を動かすのが好き。人と話すのが【もっと好き】。

karada o ugokasu no ga suki. hito to hanasu no ga motto suki

I like moving my body. Talking with people I like [even] more.

motto motto o-shigoto o nasatte hoshikatta no ni hontō ni zannen desu

I wanted her [= late actress] to do lots more [good] work, but . . . it’s such a pity.

25.2.3 ichiban/mottomo

As can be seen from the examples, ichiban and mottomo (both meaning ‘most’) also modify adj. and V phrases besides adj./AN, in particular before N, i.e. in relative clauses (examples b and c).

a 雪解け前の雪崩が【一番怖い】。

yukidoke-mae no nadare ga ichiban kowai

Snowslides before the thaw are the most frightening.

b 今が【一番、仕事がおもしろい】時期だ。

Note there is also a conjunction mottomo (example d), which indicates a qualification of what was said previously ‘mind you’, ‘however’. This is usually found at the beginning of a sentence, and is not followed by adj./AN or V (see 30.5).

- d 私は今、日本の新聞六種類の他に、英字新聞を一つ、それからアメリカの週刊誌二つ、東南アジアの英語の週刊誌を読む。【もっとも】全部読む訳ではない。

25.2.4 hodo

hodo indicates the degree to which the following V/adj./AN (or cop.) applies 'as much as' (also gurai/kurai, see 61). It is used with neg. or pos. pred. (see 64).

- a これ【ほど】うれしいことはありません。

kore hodo ureshii koto wa arimasen

Nothing could make me happier (lit. "There is no thing that is as happy [for me] as this").

- b 苦しい時【ほど】愛する対象が欲しいんです。それが証拠に独り暮らしの老人がよく犬を飼っている。

kurushii toki hodo aisuru taishō ga hoshii n desu. sore ga shōko ni hitori-gurashi no rōjin ga yoku inu o katte iru

One never wants something to love so much as in difficult times. A good illustration of this is that old people living alone often keep dogs.

25.2.5 X no naka de (wa/mo) + evaluatory predicate

naka de indicates that of the entity to which naka de is attached, the part which follows (marked by the evaluatory pred.) is 'is relatively good/bad, etc. of/amongst/compared to X'.

- a % 三人兄弟の【中で】太郎が【一番背が高い】。

sannin kyōdai no naka de tarō ga ichiban se ga takai

 Everyone is saying there's a recession, but Kyushu is still in good shape compared to the rest of the country

25.2.6 (A to B to (+ particle)) dochira

Here, two items are lined up, joined by the conjoining P to (repeated also after B). The question word dochira gives a choice between these two alternatives, literally meaning “A and B, which is -er?” (see 167, 215).

- a % 紅茶【と】コーヒー【と】【どちら】がいいですか。 kōcha to kōhī to dochira ga ii desu ka

25.2.7 dore

25.2.7.1 (A to B to C to . . . noun to) dore

Here, three or more items are lined up, joined by the conjoining P to (repeated also after C). dore ‘which of three (or more)’ is used if the choice is of three or more items.

When followed by mo or -te mo, the implication is one of ‘all’ or ‘whichever’ (see 167).

Note – the conjoining P to preceding dore can also be the adverbial P to (example c) or the conjunctive P to (example b), resulting of course in a different meaning. Generally, the written language (media etc.) often uses patterns that diverge somewhat from language textbooks (and from such made-up examples as example a)!

Note how in examples b and d the N are lined up in apposition, with commas in-between (see 10).

- a % すし【と】てんぷら【と】すきやき【と】、【どれ】が一番好きですか。 sushi to tempura to sukiyaki to dore ga ichiban suki desu ka

25.2.7.2 X no naka de . . . dore

As in 25.2.7.1, the choice is between three or more items 'which amongst X'.

- a 写った天体の【中で】、【どれが銀河でどれが恒星か】も自動的に識別できる。 utsutta tentai no naka de dore ga ginga de dore ga kōsei ka mo jidō-teki ni shikibetsu dekiru
It can also automatically distinguish which among the heavenly bodies on screen are galactic and which are fixed stars.

26 COMPLEMENT CLAUSES

Where a simple S has just an NP consisting of N + P, a S containing a complement clause has instead a whole clause which has been converted (nominalized) into an NP by no or koto (see 135, 83), for example, with suki in example a. The valency of suki requires the case P ga to mark the object of one's liking. In the first S, that object (in []) is a N, but the two S following have one complement clause each (karada o ugokasu no), (hito to hanasu no), occupying the same slot as sora. Both are made into a N equivalent by no, as shown in the list beneath example a.

- a [空]が好き。[体を動かす【の】]が好き。[人と話す【の】]がもっと好き。 sora ga suki. karada o ugokasu no ga suki. hito to hanasu no ga motto suki
I like the sky. I like moving [my] body. Talking with people I like [even] more.

% sora	'the sky'	ga suki.
% karada o ugokasu no	'moving the body'	ga suki.
% hito to hanasu no	'talking with people'	ga (motto 'more') suki.

Depending on the valency of V/adj./AN constituting pred., various other case (and/or focus) P are used. For differences between koto and no see 84.

- b % [ビルがビールを飲む【の】]を見た。
biru ga bīru o nomu no o mita
 I saw Bill drink beer.
- c % [今日試験がある【こと】]を忘れていた。
kyō shiken ga aru koto o wasurete ita
 I'd forgotten that there's an exam today.
- d [平和が続く【こと】]を祈りたい。
Heiwa ga tsuzuku koto o inoritai

- e 猛暑のせいか[裸で寝る【の】]が癖になった。

 You can see it's fresh at a glance.

27 CONDITIONAL SENTENCES

Conditional S are compound S which are joined by a conjunctive P or equivalent that indicates a condition, in the form [S1 conjunctive P, S2]. As their name suggests, S1 indicates a condition 'if', 'when', etc. for S2.

Conjunctive P include the following: -ba (see 13), nara (see 108), -tara (see 191), -te mo (see 206), to (216) (see also 14).

28 CONJOINING

Depending on the size of the units conjoined, the following three types of conjoining can be distinguished (for details and examples, see also cross-referenced entries):

Conjoining of nouns see 215, 220, 241, 29.2, 94.4

Conjoining of clauses see 29.3, 31, 178.5

Conjoining of sentences see 31

29 CONJOINING BY COMMA

A comma can conjoin numbers, items or clauses in the sense of 'or' or 'and'.

29.1 Numbers

29.2 Items

29.3 Clauses

29.1 NUMBERS

With num., approximate numbers are formed by lining up two successive num., usually SJ, with a comma between them, in the sense of 'four or five', etc. Note that in combinations like 8, 9 the consonant of the second num. is doubled, i.e. hak-ku, and shi is used rather than yon (as in example a).

Depending on what's being counted, appropriate C are attached (see 36).

The two numbers form one unit, and no other conjoining particles can be used.

- a 賢人会議のメンバーは四【、】五人でいいでしょう。

kenjin kaigi no membā wa shigonin de ii deshō

As for the members of the wise men's committee, four or five should be sufficient.

29.2 ITEMS

With items lined up in sequence in the sense of 'and' or 'or'.

Note, however, that in example b, although the comma translates as 'or', the [A to B to dochira] construction means (see 25.2.6) that this is in fact also an instance of 'and'.

ka, ya and toka can also be used instead of a comma (for examples, see 71, 220, 241).

- a ほかに必要なのは送料【、】箱代【、】氷代ぐらい。

hoka ni hitsuyō na no wa sōryō hakodai kōridai gurai

- b 往復とも JR 【、】 航空機のどちらでも選択できる。

ōfuku tomo JR kōkū-ki no dochira demo sentaku dekiru

For both the outward and inward journeys, you can select either Japan Rail or aeroplane.

29.3 CLAUSES

This is seen with pairs of opposites ‘or’; toka could also be used instead of a comma (see 71, 220.1).

a 写真がうまい【 】へたは関係ない。

shashin ga umai heta wa kankei nai

Being good or bad at photography doesn't matter.

30 CONJUNCTIONS

These are normally used to conjoin S, i.e. they're found at the beginning of a S, but some are also found within S.

Incidentally, when you hear a story like this, aren't those of you readers who are middle-aged or older reminded of something?

31 CONJUNCTIVE FORMS

The conjunctive form of V/adj. (-te/-de) and AN/N + cop. (de) has several important functions:

- to connect or attach various V to main V, in order to form performatives, aspectual S endings, and the conjunctive P -te kara;
- to attach the focus P wa and mo to form a variety of combinations with following items;
- to form compound S;
- as a NP-equivalent (sometimes called 'gerund') that can attach certain case and other particles such as ga, no, demo, bakari.

There is also a conjunctive-form equivalent, formed by V-stem or adj.-stem, used in the written style; of the above four meanings, this is used in the first meaning only, but has some further uses, too (see 178.5, 184).

 31.4 [Verb-te no] noun
 31.4.1 Verb-te no noun (verb-te modifying noun)
 31.5 Splitting of predicate/copula by a ‘sandwiched’ particle

31.1 WITH VERB/ADJECTIVE-te AND ADJECTIVAL NOUN/NOUN + COPULA-de: FORMING COMPOUND SENTENCES

Compound S are S which could also be expressed in two separate S. The meaning of a and b below can also be expressed in the following way:

a % ふたをする。赤くなるまで蒸す。

futa o suru. akaku naru made musu

You put on the lid. You steam it until it turns red.

b % 二人組は車で逃走した。夫婦にけがはなかった。

futari-gumi wa kuruma de tōsō shita. fūfu ni kega wa nakatta

The gang of two took flight. The couple were not injured.

Note how the tense of the compound sentence is indicated only by the second pred. For this reason, the -te form is also sometimes called the suspensive form.

With V/adj., this function can also be carried out by the stem forms, in the written and formal spoken style (speeches, etc.), and ‘zero forms’ with VN (see 184).

Compound sentences where the two halves are joined by stem forms indicate an addition ‘and’, whereas with -te the meaning is wider (see 31.1.3 below).

31.1.1 Compound sentences with stem forms of verbs/adjectives (see 184)

a ふたを【し】、赤くなるまで蒸す。

futa o shi, akaku naru made musu

- b 二人組は車で【逃走し】、夫婦にけがはなかった。

31.1.2 With verbal nouns: 'zero conjunctive form'

With VN, V-stem (shi) can be omitted, as the VN itself implicates an action. This is found only in the written language, i.e. newspapers (see 234).

- a 車はそのまま逃走【、】女性にけがはなかった。
kuruma wa sono mama tōsō josei ni kega wa nakatta
 The car drove off without stopping, and the woman was not hurt.

31.1.3 Compound sentences using verb/adjective-te and adjectival noun/noun + copula-de

-te/-de indicates a variety of meanings, ranging from addition 'and', reason or consequence 'and therefore', and sequence of time 'since'. However, these are meanings that result from the relationship between the parts of the S, and can be expressed more explicitly (see 75).

- a せつなく【て】、つらい事件だ。

 It's a distressing and cruel incident.

31.1.4 Colour words: modification and addition

Note that although colour words use their -te form to modify another adj., when joining colours in the sense of 'and', -te cannot be used. Instead, their noun form is used, joined by to [conjoining P].

Modifying another adj.:

- a 一メートルくらい掘ると、赤く【て】固い土の層にぶつかった。

ichimētoru kurai horu to akakute katai tsuchi no sō ni butsukatta

When we had dug [to the depth of] about a metre, we came upon a layer of red, hard soil.

31.2 USES OF SENTENCE-te (de) + wa/mo [FOCUS PARTICLES]31.2.1 Verb/adjective/adjectival noun/noun-te (de) yoi/ii/jūbun

With pred. like yoi/ii 'good', jūbun 'sufficient', the combination indicates sufficiency (that the state indicated by adj./AN/N 'is OK', 'is sufficient'), or recommendation, i.e. that the course of action indicated by V-te is/isn't recommendable.

31.2.2 Verb/adjective/adjectival noun/noun-te (de) mo ii/-tatte ii

-te mo ii, etc. is used to give (or ask for) permission to carry out the action of the V it is attached to ('it's OK if', 'you may' and in questions 'is it OK if?').

Instead of V-te/de mo ii only (but not in questions!), an even more colloquial variant -tatte/-datte ii can be used.

- a % ここは泳い【でもい】いですか。

koko wa oyoide mo ii desu ka

('an one swim here?')

doresu katte mo ii
 Is it OK if I buy a dress?

kurisumasu wa donna sugoshikata o shitatte ii

31.2.3 Verb/adjective/adjectival noun/noun-te (de) wa/chā (jā) + negative form/expression

Here, -te wa (or its variant -chā) or -de wa (variant -jā) is followed by a neg. expression such as naranai, ikenai, dame, etc. The combination expresses the idea of ‘must’, ‘have to’.

It can be attached to either pos. forms (examples a and c) or neg. forms (example b) (see 210.3, 210.4, 50.2).

- a 趣味は仕事になっ【てはならな】い。

31.2.5 Verb-te (de) wa

 The constant motion of the surf (lit. “The waves keep coming in and going out”)

b ちょっと口にし【ては】次々と灰皿へ。

31.3 USES OF VERB-te (de)

31.3.1 Verb-te ageru, etc.

With the addition of performative V like ageru, V-te forms performatives like -te ageru (see 195)/hoshii (see 197)/kudasai/kureru/morau (see 202, 203, 207), although with informal commands, kudasai, etc. can also be omitted (see also 24).

a お菓子を買っ【てあげ】る。

31.3.2 Verb-te iru, etc.

V-te forms aspectual S endings like -te aru (see 196)/-te iku (see 198)/-te iru (see 199)/-te kuru (see 204)/-te oku (see 208)/-te shimau (see 209).

31.3.4 Sentence-te sumimasen/gomen nasai/warui, etc.

Followed by an expression of apology, the combination means 'sorry for . . .'. For apologizing about something that took place in the past, apologies with past forms are used. This use is also found with conjunctive forms of adj., and AN/N + cop.

a 返事が遅れ【てすみません】。

benji ga okurete sumimasen

Sorry for the late reply (lit. "replying late")

b 汗臭く【てすみません】。

ase-kusakute sumimasen

31.3.5 Verb-te naranai

31.3.5.1 After verbs of feeling

After V of feeling (kanji/ki ga suru ‘have a feeling’, oshimareru ‘to be regretted’, omoeru ‘be felt’, -te naranai indicates that one ‘can’t help having that feeling’ (see 183).

- a 大江健三郎氏がノーベル文学賞受賞者に決まり、にわかに著作が売れ出したというが、日本人の文化享受の在り方を端的に示す皮肉な現象と【思えてならな】い。

31.4 [VERB-te no] NOUN

When V-te no modifies a following N, it functions like a NP.

31.4.1 Verb-te no noun (verb-te modifying noun)

For details and examples, see 1.3.3, 133.1.13, also 55.8.2

31.5 SPLITTING OF PREDICATE/COPULA BY A 'SANDWICHED' PARTICLE

The forms that get split include -te/de aru/iru, and the cop. de aru, as da cannot be split any further.

Splitting P include mo and wa 17.3, 42.3, 94.3, 94.7, 94.8 and 236.5.3.2, 236.5.3.3).

Example a is an instance of de aru being split by the P mo, which adds the sense of 'also'.

32 CONJUNCTIVE FORMS AND PARTICLES: COMPARISON

Conjunctive forms and P join clauses in the sense of 'and'. They include the following: -te, stem forms, shi, -tari (see 31, 179, 184, 192).

32.1 Stem forms

32.2 -te/de

32.3 shi

32.4 -tari

32.1 STEM FORMS

Stem forms of V and adj. always mean 'and' when joining clauses into compound sentences.

- a 二人組は車で【逃走し】、夫婦にけがはなかった。

With VN only, it is also common to drop shi, the conjunctive form of suru. However, this is found only in the written language, such as newspapers (see 234).

- c 車はそのまま逃走【、】女性にけがはなかった。
kuruma wa sono mama tōsō josei ni kega wa nakatta
 The car drove off without stopping, and the woman was not hurt.

32.2 -te/de

-te/de can also be used in the same way in the sense of ‘and’ (example a), but depending on the context can indicate a wider range of meanings when forming compound S. In example b, the implication is one of reason ‘and therefore’, and in example c, the implication is one of time sequence ‘since/after being born’ (see 31).

- a スポーツ好き【で】、とりわけ「素潜り」が得意。 sore mo umarete hajimete no taiken datta

Also, it [= cutting glass] was a first for me (lit. “first time since I was born”).

32.3 shi

Used between clauses, shi signals an addition ‘and’, ‘and (moreover)’. It is used when giving reasons, excuses, etc. (often more than one). Example a has two instances of shi attached to the two reasons (or motivations) given.

Examples b and c have only one instance of shi, but give a second reason in different form, using N + wa/mo, respectively.

Example b is a politician’s reply to being asked about the influence of a scandal on the stock market, and example c explains why the speaker thinks that in times of recession live shows don’t necessarily prosper.

32.4 -tari

In its use after V only, -tari indicates a range of actions or activities that are performed by the same person, in which use it often translates as 'and'.

-tari is mostly used twice in a sentence [A-tari B-tari suru ('do things/things are like A and/or B)], -tari suru can be used by itself (with the implication of 'things like'), and examples without suru (example b) are found too.

33.2.1.1 Weak contrast

33.2.1.2 Weak contrast in noun-modifying clauses

33.2.1.3 Introducing a comment or request

33.2.1.4 Differences

33.2.2 -nagara (mo), -tsutsu (mo), noni, ga and keredomo

33.1 CONTRAST BETWEEN NOUNS OR NOUN PHRASES

This is effected by wa (see 236.5), including combinations with conjunctive p.

33.2 CONTRAST BETWEEN CLAUSES

Contrast between clauses can be indicated by the conjunctive P ga (see 56), keredomo (see 79), -nagara (mo) (see 103), noni (see 140), and -tsutsu (mo) (see 225) (see also 8, 88).

33.2.1 ga and keredomo

33.2.1.1 Weak contrast

Both express a weak contrast between two clauses (often in the form [N wa ga/keredomo, N wa], ‘but’).

- a 恋人に別れはある【けど】、友達に別れはありません。 koibito ni wakare wa aru kedo tomodachi ni wakare wa arimasen Lovers can split up, but not friends.

33.2.1.2 Weak contrast in noun-modifying clauses

Both can be used in N-mod. sequences (in [], i.e. both adj./V connected by ga/keredomo modify the final N), usually without a comma (and accompanying comma intonation in speech).

- a [忙しかった【か】いい]一年だった。
isogashikatta ga ii ichinen datta
 It was a busy but good year.
- b [貧しい【けれども】村一番の働き者]。
mazushii keredomo mura ichiban no hatarakimono
 She’s poor but the hardest worker in the village.

33.2.1.3 Introducing a comment or request

Both can be used to introduce a comment or request. Both can be used in unfinished S.

- a 「特に予定はない【けれど】」「じゃあ、朝十時に来てください」。 toku ni yotei wa nai keredo. jā asa jūji ni kite kudasai
 ‘I don’t have anything particular to do.’ ‘In that case, come at 10 a.m.’
- b 「今の字名では不便だ【けれど】……」と古くからの名を惜しむ声も多い。
ima no azana de wa fuben da keredo to furuku kara no na o oshimu koe mo ōi
 There are also many who are sorry to see the old names go, saying,
 ‘The old locality names are impractical but . . .’

33.2.1.4 Differences

The contrast expressed by ga can be so weak that S1 ga is more like a preamble to S2, translatable as 'and', or rendered just with a colon.

- a 竹内さんは病院に運ばれた【が】、頭などを強く打ち、重体。 takeuchi-san wa byōin ni hakobareta ga atama nado o tsuyoku uchi jūtai Takeuchi-san was taken to hospital; he's in intensive care, having hit his head severely.

- b 両親は離婚する【が】、母親は作家と再婚する。

ryōshin wa rikon suru ga hahaoya wa sakka to saikon suru
The parents are getting divorced, and the mother is remarrying a writer.

33.2.2 -nagara (mo), -tsutsu (mo), noni, ga and keredomo

-nagara/-tsutsu (mo) and noni express a stronger contrast than ga and keredomo, in the sense of 'even though'. -nagara/-tsutsu (mo) are mostly used in the written (or formal spoken) language, usually about third persons, whereas the others are more colloquial. -nagara/-tsutsu (mo) express a factual contrast, whereas noni indicates a more subjective or emotional contrast. This is particularly evident in the use of noni in unfinished sentences, where it expresses disappointment or regret (140.2).

34 CONVERSIONS

There is a number of productive ways of converting words into different word classes by attaching suf., or the V suru.

- 34.1 Adjective/adjectival noun → noun
 34.1.1 Adjective-root-sa
 34.1.2 Adjective-root-mi
 34.1.3 Adjective-stem (-ku)
 34.2 Verb → noun-kata, -yō
 34.3 Clause → noun
 34.4 Noun/Western Japanese-adjective → adjective
 34.5 Noun/verb-suru → noun
 34.5.1 Sino-Japanese/Western Japanese suru nouns
 34.5.2 Using verb-stem of many verbs

34.1 ADJECTIVE/ADJECTIVAL NOUN → NOUN34.1.1 Adjective-root-sa*

This formation is very productive, being possible with just about every adjective (see 175)

34.1.2 Adjective-root-mi

Some adj. proper also have N-forms ending in -mi. These are derived by adding -mi to adjective-root. Examples include tsuyomi ‘strength’, yowami ‘weakness’, kayumi ‘itch’.

Whereas the -sa forms are simple nominalizations, the -mi forms tend to have some idiomatic meaning. Compare the examples below for the difference between tsuyosa ‘strength’ (example a) and tsuyomi ‘strength’, ‘strong point’ (example b).

- a 常緑樹の緑は、厳冬を乗り越える命の【強さ】を象徴するのだそうだ。 jōrokuju no midori wa gentō o norikoeru inochi no tsuyosa o shōchō suru no da sō da
 The green of evergreen trees is said to symbolize the strength of life in getting through severe winters.
- b 豊富な業務ソフト群が98パソコンの【強み】の一つ。
hōfu na gyōmu sofuto gun ga kyūhachi pasokon no tsuyomi no hitotsu
 The rich array of business software is one of the strong points of the 98 PC.

34.1.3 Adjective-stem (-ku)

A very small number of adj. also has a noun form which uses the adj.-stem form, -ku. This is limited to a select number of A that express distance or time, tōku ‘distance’, chikaku ‘vicinity’, furuku ‘of old’ and ōku ‘plenty’.

Note 1 – in its N form (as opposed to its adj.-ku use, see Notes 2 and 3), ōku is used only to modify other N by means of no in the sense of ‘many’.

tōku, chikaku and furuku can also attach other case or focus P besides modifying other N by means of the no.

Note 2 – these forms can of course also be used as conjunctive form equivalents of adj. (see 31.1.1).

Note 3 – chikaku can also be used as an adv. in the sense of ‘soon’.

- a 女性は【近く】の銀行で現金を引き出した後、息子の家まで歩いて行くところだったという。
josei wa chikaku no ginkō de genkin o hikidashita ato musuko no ie made aruite iku tokoro datta to iu
 The woman says that she was about to walk to her son’s house after having withdrawn some cash from a nearby bank.
- b 近くにいるより【遠く】から見たほうが目立つ。
chikaku ni iru yori tōku kara mita hō ga medatsu
 It [= the clock] is more impressive when seen from a distance rather than close to.

34.2 VERB → NOUN-kata, -yō

For details and examples, see 78, 245, 184.

34.3 CLAUSE → NOUN

For details and examples, see 83, 135, 218.

34.4 NOUN/WESTERN JAPANESE-ADJECTIVE → ADJECTIVE

Attaching -teki is a very productive way of forming adj. from N and WJ adj. (see 212). Another productive suf. is -ppoi, indicating appearance (see 162).

Note – there are quite a few Japanese equivalents of the English expression ‘Japanese’, which include the following: nihon no, nihonshiki no, nihongo no, nihonjin no. See the following examples for the differences.

- | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| a | %日本のカメラ
nihon no kamera
A Japanese camera | b | %日本式(の)トイレ
nihonshiki (no) toire
A Japanese-style toilet |
| c | %日本語の新聞
nihongo no shinbun
A Japanese [language] newspaper | d | %日本人の友だち
nihonjin no tomodachi
A Japanese friend |

34.5 NOUN/VERB-suru → NOUN

There are two ways of converting V into N.

34.5.1 Sino-Japanese/Western Japanese suru nouns

Using SJ and WJ N that can attach suru (i.e. N with a verbal meaning) without the suru.

- a 体内時計や生体リズムの【研究】は動物でも進んでいる。 tainai-dokei ya seitai rizumu no kenkyū wa dōbutsu demo susunde iru 【Research】 into body clocks and organic rhythms is progressing with animals, too.

34.5.2 Using verb-stem of many verbs

Using V-stem (the N form of many V) to form VN. This conversion is possible with most V whose action can be controlled by the actor. VN are especially common in the pattern [verb-stem ni iku/kuru] (see 116.10).

- a またぜひ【働き】に行きたい。(cf., 働く ‘to work’)
mata zehi hataraki ni ikitai
I very much want to go to 【work】 again.

35 COPULA

The cop. is a grammatical word that is used in a similar way to English 'is', 'are', etc. It is always preceded by another word or word/P combination, i.e. it functions like an inflectional ending. Forms of V and adj. can complete a sentence with an inflectional ending, but AN and N usually require cop.

35.1 Ways of saying 'is/am/are'

35.2 Plain non-past forms: da, 0 (zero), na, no

35.2.1 da

35.2.2 0 (zero)

35.2.3 no

35.2.4 na

35.2.5 Adverbial form of copula

35.2.6 Presumptive/-tara/-tari forms of copula

35.1 WAYS OF SAYING 'IS/AM/ARE'

Compare different ways that 'is/am/are', etc. can be expressed in Japanese as follows (for more details, see 178).

Adj.	%大きい。	ōkii	It/he/she's big.
N	%日本人だ。	nihonjin da	They're Japanese.
AN	%静かだ。	shizuka da	It's/they're quiet.
PLACE	%家にいる・ある。	ie ni iru/aru	It/he/she's in the house.

35.2 PLAIN NON-PAST FORMS: da, 0 (ZERO), na, no35.2.1 da

da is used clause- or S-finally, and is often replaced by 0 (zero) if nothing follows. It is never used before ka (and constructions using ka such as ka mo shirenai) in the standard language, nor before S endings of appearance such as mitai, rashii, -sō yō, and others (hazu, tsumori, etc.).

35.2.2 0 (zero)

Conversely, 0 is obligatory before ka (and constructions using ka such as ka mo shirenai), mitai, rashii, -sō yō, and others (hazu, tsumori, etc.).

a 黄色いじゅうたん 【】 みたい。

kīroi jūtan mitai

They [= wild flowers] are like a yellow carpet.

Note – whereas inflectional endings of V/adj. can be used as pred. and to modify N, AN and N usually require cop. to be attached. However, the newspaper and other written styles tend to omit the cop. (da, etc.), as example b illustrates.

b あらしの後の静かな朝 【】。

arashi no ato no shizuka na asa

A quiet morning after the storm.

35.2.3 no

This is used as the N-mod. form of no-adj. (see 1.6) and certain onomatopoe (see 153.2).

For N (but not AN), no is also used before structural N like yō. Compare:

a インフレ 【の】 ようなもの (インフレ = N)

infure no yō na mono

It's (lit. “something”) like inflation

b 特徴のある顔は得 【な】 ようです。(得 = AN) tokuchō no aru kao wa toku na yō desu

It appears that [having] a distinctive face is an advantage.

Note – before the case particle no (incl. combinations like no de, noni, etc.), no is never found; instead, na is used (see 35.2.4).

35.2.4 na

na is used as a N-mod. form before no (incl. the combinations no da, no de, noni, etc.); also always after AN before all N.

- a 同じことをしても中国の怒りは日本により激しく向けられる。いいも悪いもない。これが厳然とした事実【な】のだ。

onaji koto o shite mo chūgoku no ikari wa nihon ni yori kibishiku mukerareru. ii mo warui mo nai. kore ga genzen to shita jijitsu na no da

Even when we do the same thing [as the US], China expresses her anger more strongly towards Japan. I'm not saying it's good or bad. It's an indubitable fact.

- b 山の上の静か【な】寺だ。

yama no ue no shizuka na tera da

It's a quiet temple on the top of the mountain.

35.2.5 Adverbial form of copula

Whereas da (and other forms of cop.) indicate a state, a change of state (including 'future' events like 'want to be' or 'intend to be') require not da, but the adverbial form of cop., ni. This is most commonly found with the V suru 'do' and naruru 'become' (see 186).

- a 今月三日、佐藤さんは三十歳【になっ】た。

kongetsu mikka, Satō-san wa sanjūs-sai ni natta

On the 3rd of this month, Sato-san turned 30.

- b 出す以上は地域で一番売れる店【にし】たい。

dasu ijō wa chiiki de ichiban ureru mise ni shitai

As long as I open it, I want to make it a shop that sells the best in the area.

35.2.6 Presumptive/-tara/-tari forms of copula

Although not given in Table 7, one can also distinguish a pres. form (darō, deshō, de arō, de arimashō, see presumptive forms: darō/deshō), a -tara form (dat-tara, deshi-tara, de arimashi-tara) and a -tari form (dat-tari, de at-tari, see 192).

36 COUNTERS

Numbers are typically used to count N, in similar fashion to English 'a cup of tea' or 'five head of cattle'. Although some N can be counted by num. using the 'default' C -tsu and -ko (see Table 8), many N require a specific C in the combination [num. + C].

There is a multitude of C in Japanese, and some books list a large number of them, including a counter for furniture (-kyaku). However, in everyday language -tsu or -ko is used for tables and chairs, and one can get by with a relatively small number, which are given in Table 8.

Note 1 – there is also a number of items that are used to count money (¥ -en, $ -doru, £ -pondo, etc.) and others that are used with figures, such as % (pāsento) or the Japanese 10%-unit, -wari.

Note 2 – there are some differences between the ‘default’ C -tsu and -ko, i.e. -tsu is attached to NJ num. up to 9 only, whereas -ko attaches only to SJ numbers. -tsu can be used with abstract items such as thoughts, but -ko is limited to concrete objects only (such as landmines, example d).

a 外国では発言を慎むのが【一つ】の考え方だ。

gaikoku de wa hatsugen o tsutsushimu no ga hitotsu no kangaekata da

One thought is that [Japanese politicians] refrain from making statements abroad.

-hai is mostly used for cupfuls and glassfuls, and -hon for tubular objects such as bottles (example 36.3 a), flowers, trees, pencils, hairs, etc., but also trousers and even phone calls (example 36.4a). -mai counts flat objects such as sheets of paper, coins (for coins, -ko is also used), CDs, bills, tickets (example 36.3 b), but also doors (example 36.1 a), shirts, kimonos, etc.

Animals are counted with -tō or -hiki, with -tō being used for larger species, such as cows, horses and pigs. Note that the size does not matter, e.g. piglets and calves are still counted with -tō (examples b and c).

b ハ【頭】の子ブタを出産させるのに成功した。

hattō no kobuta o shussan saseru no ni seikō shita

They succeeded in making it produce eight piglets.

c 二十ヘクタールの放牧場で成牛、子牛合わせて四十三【頭】を飼育している。

nijū hekutāru no hōbokuji de seigyū koushi awasete yonjūsantō o shiiku shite iru

On the 20ha. dairy farm, they are keeping a total of 43 grown cattle and calves.

d 紛争地帯に埋められたままの地雷は一億一千万【個】に上る。

funsōchitai ni umerareta mama no jirai wa ichioku issenman-ko ni noboru

The [number of] landmines still buried in conflict areas amounts to 110 million.

Note 3 – C of time and measurement count themselves, i.e. they don’t count other N.

e この一年【で】二倍に膨らんだ。(not 一年の年)

kono ichinen de nibai ni fukuranda

[In] the past year, it has doubled.

f 入場料は一回券で【七百円】。(not 七百円のお金)

nyūjōryō wa ikkai-ken de nanahyaku-en

The entrance fee is ¥700 for a single ticket.

Note 4 – the C of time, -ji, is used to indicate the time, but when 時間 -kan is added, the hours are counted. Compare

Notes * Only used in the meaning of the first of the month.

The table lists some common counters and the way they combine with numerals. Only those combinations which involve sound change, irregular formation or only one of two regular ways of formation are listed (the remainder is predictable, consisting of the numeral (ichi, ni, etc.) given at the top plus the form of the counter given in the vertical left column). Note, however, that the pronunciation, especially of the syllabic n, varies according to its phonetic environment; for instance, before b and m, it is pronounced as m. Combinations with nan- how many are the same as those with san three.

With counters expressing time (fun, nen, etc.), the suffix -kan can be added (optionally in the case of byō, fun, nen, nichi and shū) to indicate duration of time. For instance, goji on its own means 5 o'clock, whereas gojikan means five hours. Note, however, that whereas the months of the year (January–December) are counted ichigatsu, nigatsu, etc., one month is ikkagetsu, to which -kan can be added. The days of the month from the 11th onwards are as follows, in so far as they are irregular:

14th	jūyokka	20th	hatsuka
19th	jūkunichi	24th	nijūyokka

g 一時 ichiji '1 o'clock'

h 一時間 ichijikan '1 hour'

Other C of time can be used in the sense of 'period of time' by themselves, and adding 間 -kan does not change that meaning, but makes it more explicit.

i % 三十分待った。 sanjuppun matta 'I waited 30 mins.'

j % 三十分間待った。 sanjuppun-kan matta 'I waited for (a period of) 30 mins.'

Num. + C is used to count N in the following ways.

36.1 Number + counter no noun

36.2 Number + counter + particle

36.2.1 One number only

36.2.2 Two numbers, separated by comma or hyphen: approximate numbers

36.3 Noun (+ particle) [number + counter] verb

36.4 Noun [number 1 + counter] (particle)

36.5 Number + counter with ellipted noun

36.5.1 Number + counter + particle without modified noun

36.5.2 Number + counter without modified noun

36.1 NUMBER + COUNTER no NOUN

Num. + C can precede N with the P no attached.

a その奥に【二枚】のドアが見えている。

sono oku ni ni-mai no doa ga miete iru

Beyond her [= female figure in painting], two doors are visible.

36.2 NUMBER + COUNTER + PARTICLE

36.2.1 One number only a 【三階】には宿泊客共通の浴場がある。

san-gai ni wa shukuhaku-kyaku kyōtsū no yokujō ga aru

On the third level is a bath for joint use by lodgers.

36.2.2 Two numbers, separated by comma or hyphen: approximate numbers

Two consecutive num., usually separated by a comma (but pronounced as one unit), or less commonly by a hyphen (example c) are one way of expressing approximate num. (see 29, see also 147 for other ways of expressing approximate num.).

- a だが、ここ【五、六年】で風向きが一変した。
daga koko goroku-nen de kazamuki ga ippen shita
 However, in the past five or six years the situation has changed completely.
- b 旅に出ると、人々は普通の【五、六倍】のお金を使う。
tabi ni deru to hitobito wa futsū no goroku-bai no okane o tsukau
 When they go on a trip, people spend five or six times as much money as usual.
- c 決意するまでには【二—三週間】悩み抜いた。
ketsui suru made-ni wa nisan-shūkan nayaminuita
 He worried for several weeks before he made up his mind.

36.3 NOUN (+ PARTICLE) [NUMBER + COUNTER] VERB

Note that [num. + C] can also be placed between [N (+ P)] and V.

- a % ビールを【三本】ください。(cf., ビールをください)
biru o san-bon kudasai
 Three bottles of beer, please.
- b 一番安い天井桟敷席を【一枚】買った。
ichiban yasui tenjō sajiki-seki o ichi-mai katta
 I bought one ticket for an upper circle seat, which is the cheapest.

36.4 NOUN [NUMBER 1 + COUNTER] (PARTICLE)

[Num. + C] can be sandwiched between N and P. Note that only num. 'one' is used in this sense, which in negative S has the implication of 'just one', 'a single . . .'.

- a 離婚原因は夫の気ままで不安定な生活ぶり。「旅行に出かけるといっっては数カ月、家を空ける。その間電話【一本】ない。そんなことが何度もあった」。
rikon gen'in wa otto no kimama de fuantei na seikatsu-buri. ryokō ni dekakeru to itte wa sūkagetsu ie o akeru. sono kan denwa ip-pon nai. sonna koto ga nando mo atta
 The reason for the divorce was the husband's irregular lifestyle. 'He would say he'd go on a trip, and stay away from home for months. During that time, there wouldn't be a single phone call. That sort of thing happened many times.'

- b 葉っぱ【一枚】を見ても仕方がない。

happa ichi-mai o mite mo shikata ga nai

There is no point looking at a single leaf [= satellite pictures need to show more than that].

- c レンズ【一枚】の価格は二万二千円。

renzu ichi-mai no kakaku wa niman nisen-en

The price for one lens is ¥22,000.

36.5 NUMBER + COUNTER WITH ELLIPTED NOUN

36.5.1 Number + counter + particle without modified noun

Where the context makes it clear which N they refer to, num. + C can be used without the N they count.

- a 精密なイラストは…息をのむほど美しい。【一枚】を仕上げるのに一月くらいかかるそうだ。

seimitsu na irasuto wa . . . iki o nomu hodo utsukushii. ichi-mai o shiageru no ni ikkagetsu kurai kakaru sō da

The accurate illustrations . . . are breathtakingly beautiful. Apparently it takes about one month to finish one.

36.5.2 Number + counter without modified noun

This is also found without P attached.

- a この装置はラベルとFDを所定の位置に置き、スイッチを押すだけであることができる。【一枚】はるのに二秒で済み、手作業に比べ二倍以上速い。

kono sōchi wa raberu to FD o shotei no ichi ni oki suitchi o osu dake de haru koto ga dekiru. ichi-mai haru no ni nibyō de sumi, tesagyō ni kurabe ni-bai ijō hayai.

With this apparatus, one places the label and the FD [= floppy disc] on the prescribed spot, and can paste it just by flicking a switch. Pasting one [= label onto a computer disk] is done in two seconds, which is more than twice as fast as doing it by hand.

37 dake [ADVERBIAL PARTICLE]

dake is an adverbial particle with the basic meaning of 'only' (see 18). It is used in variety of ways and meanings, as listed below.

In this use, dake is inserted between a N and the case P required by the valency of pred. However, o/ga can be omitted.

37.3 NOUN dake (+ COPULA)

When used as pred., N dake attaches cop., (although in practice it is often omitted). This is commonly used with cleft S (see 23). gurai can also be used instead of dake here, although dake has a more restrictive ring, i.e. 'only' as opposed to 'about the only' (see 61.1.3).

Note also the combination V dake de sumu (see also 31.2 for similar uses of cop.).

The focus P datte is attached to N/pron. as a more colloquial and emphatic equivalent to the focus P mo (see 94.1, 94.6.1).

Note – there is also a conjunction datte (used on its own, at the beginning of a sentence, in the sense of 'but') (see 30.4).

40 de [CASE PARTICLE]

The basic function of the case particle de is to mark the location or means of an action. It often translates into an English preposition ('in'/'at'/'by'/'with'/'for', etc.). Some further uses are given below.

Note that before N, [ni no N] is not possible, instead [de no N] is used. In other words, de no N can in this case express a stative location (see 116), although this is limited to N that have verbal or adjectival meaning (see 40.1.2 for details).

For the combinations de + yoi/ii/jūbun, etc. see 31.2. See also 37.5 d.

Although de can be interpreted as marking the place of action here, it is similar in use to the particle wa in that it is customary to mark the topic of the sentence with de if the topic is an organization. In other words, to mark organizations that are topics, de (wa) tends to be used rather than just wa (see 236.4).

Note – de (the conjunctive form of cop.) is often used in similar contexts (for an example, see 41).

41 de [CASE PARTICLE] AND de [CONJUNCTIVE FORM OF COPULA]: COMPARISON

The case P de must not be confused with the pln. conjunctive form of the cop., especially as they can appear in similar-looking types of sentence. (see 35) cop. de usually appears in wa-de-type sentences which could be ended as an independent sentence with da/desu/datta/deshita, etc. Compare the following:

- a 過熱するカメラブーム【で】、多くの機種が登場した。
kanetsu suru kamera būmu de ōku no kishu ga tōjō shita
 [In] the mad craze for new cameras, many new models have appeared.

ichijikan to kotaeta josei wa rokujūgo-pāsento datta. (korewa) dansei no bai chikai
 [The ratio of] women who replied ‘1 hour’ [was] 65.0%. [That is] nearly double that of men.

Note – in combinations like de yoi/ii/jūbun, de is also the conjunctive form of cop. (see 31.2).

42 demo [ADVERBIAL PARTICLE]

demo must not be confused with de mo [case P] + [focus P]. In the latter case mo can be taken away without changing the logical meaning of the sentence. demo, on the other hand, is one (non-detachable) unit that indicates the idea of ‘for instance’, i.e. an item is specified that could be replaced by a similar one without changing the meaning (note, however, the use of demo with question words, where this test does not work (see 167). Examples a and b show instances where mo can be detached.

- a いずれ人間【でも】発見される可能性はある。(cf., 人間【で】発見される)
izure ningen de mo hakken sareru kanō-sei wa aru
 There is a possibility that sooner or later it [= the body clock] will be discovered in humans, too.

If it [= the house] were a little smaller, it could be built even for 25 million yen.

Another difference between de mo and demo is that the latter can attach to other case P, such as kara, ni, to, etc.:

- c 良いものは日本だろうが欧州だろうが、どこから【でも】取り入れる。
yoi mono wa nihon darō ga ōshū darō ga doko kara demo toriireru
We take good products from anywhere, whether it's Japan or Europe.

For a comparison with other P used in the sense of 'even', see 43.

42.4 QUESTION WORD + demo42.4.1 Question word (+ particle) demo

The combination of a question word and demo results in a variety of meanings depending on the question word, including ‘every’, ‘any’, ‘no matter’ (see Table 23, 167).

Q words used before N include dono and donna, with the combination meaning 'every' (see Table 23, 167, Table 9). mo can also be used in the same sense.

- a 【どの】芝居【でも】前半に辛気臭いところがある。 dono shibai demo zenhan ni shinki-kusai tokoro ga aru
 Every play has a tedious part in the first half.

42.4.3 donna ni ... demo

Here the meaning is 'no matter how' or 'even'. Note that demo can be positioned quite a long distance away from the question-word, as in example b (see 167.2.1.2).

- a 制服は【どんなに】しゃれたデザイン【でも】会社の物。 seifuku wa donna ni shareta dezain demo kaisha no mono Uniforms, no matter how smart the design, belong to the company.
- b 【どんなに】預貯金をたくわえマンションを購入済みの独身貴族【でも】状況は同じ。 donna ni yochokin o takuwaе manshon o kōnyūzumi no dokushin kizoku demo jōkyō wa onaji
 The situation is the same, even with single people with large savings and an apartment already purchased.

42.5 IDIOMATIC USES

Idiomatic expressions with demo include sukoshi demo 'even a little' and naka demo 'of/among'.

- a 【少しでも】電気代を減らそうとしている。

sukoshi demo denkidai o herasō to shite iru

We're trying to reduce our electricity bill, even by just a little.

- b 見識、品格に【少しでも】近づきたいと思った。

kenshiki hinkaku ni sukoshi demo chikazukitai to omotta

I thought that I wanted to come into contact with discernment and dignity, even in a minor way.

43 demo, made, mo, sae, sura: COMPARISON

These P can all mean 'even'. However, mo is used in this sense only in certain uses (see 94.2, 94.3 and 94.8 (after V/adj.-te)). In several uses (see 94.2.2, 94.2.1.2 and 94.3), sae/sura can be used instead of mo. In 94.6.1, mo can be replaced with demo. In 94.7, sae/sura could be used instead of mo, but with the meaning of 'even', not 'also'.

demo can be replaced with the weaker mo in uses 42.1.1 and 42.1.2, and by sae and sura in 42.1.2.

made can be replaced by sae and sura in uses 86.2 a and b (mo is also possible, but only in the sense of 'also'), but not after amounts (see 86.2c).

sae can be replaced by the weaker mo in uses 176.1.1 (neg. S only, with pos. S mo means 'also', not 'even') and 176.1.3. sae can be replaced by sura in all its uses, except in uses sae 176.1.4 (but only with N-suru V) and 176.2.

sura can be replaced by sae in all uses, and by mo in uses 185.1 and 185.2 (neg. S only; in pos. S the meaning of mo would be 'also'), 185.1.2 and 185.3. In 185.1.1.1, made can also be used instead of sura, and in 185.1.3 sura mo can be replaced with sae mo and made mo.

44 DEMONSTRATIVE/QUESTION WORDS AND PRONOUNS

When used to point at things, demonstrative words/pron. make a three-way distinction, which is based on proximity to the speaker or listener: ko- 'this' (near speaker), so- 'that' (near listener) and a- 'that over there' (distant from both). The endings attached differ according to whether what is referred to is a thing or place, is used by itself like a N or to modify a N, etc.

However, demonstrative words/pron. are also used to refer to previous or following context, where the above three-way distinction does not apply to in quite the same way – refer to the examples in 45.2.

Question (or interrogative) words + pron. (beginning with the syllable 'do-', which is equivalent to English 'wh-') share the same endings as the ko-/so-/a- series (see 167, 164).

Table 9 ko-so-a-do sets of demonstrative pronouns and question words

	ko-	so-	a-	do-	meaning (ko-/do-)

	konna fū ni			donna fū ni

Notes * colloquially kotchi, sotchi, atchi, dotchi.

 indicating degree; cf., ikura 'how much (money)'

Others include dare 'who', dochira 'which', dore 'which', itsu 'when', ikura 'how much (money)', nani 'what' (see 167 and Table 23).

One of the differences between dore and dochira is its use in comparative sentences, where dochira refers to a choice of two items, and dore of three or more (see 25).

45 DEMONSTRATIVE WORDS AND PRONOUNS: USE

45.1 Demonstratives: spatial/temporal reference

45.1 DEMONSTRATIVES: SPATIAL/TEMPORAL REFERENCE

Demonstratives are used to point at, or refer to, persons, places, time, and things. Note especially example c, where kono expresses the literal meaning of “these 22 years”, i.e. ‘the past 22 years’.

45.2 DEMONSTRATIVES: DISCOURSE REFERENCE

One important use of demonstratives is to refer to previous or following context.

45.2.1 Preceding context: kono/sono/ano noun, kore, sore, are, kō iu, kō itta, konna, sonna, anna

In general, the a- series is often used to refer to something that is shared knowledge between speaker/listener, writer/audience, etc. (example i).

konna/sonna/anna sometimes refer back to previous context in a critical way (example f, etc.).

Note also the use of sonna before personal pron. (example h), and relational N (example j), which is something you do not find in English.

- a 三十八億年前のことだ。【このころ】の海水の量や化学組成は現在とあまり違いはなかった。

46 DESIDERATIVE SENTENCES

Desiderative S are S that indicate what somebody wants to do, have, or wishes (an) other(s) to do. S endings like -tai (to omou) (see 189), -(y)ō to omou/kangaeru (see 249) indicate what the speaker wants to do; the adj. hoshii (see 68) indicates what the speaker wants to have; and the S ending -te hoshii (see 197) indicates what the speaker wants others to do for his/her benefit (see also 57).

Note with -tai and hoshii, both the case Ps ga and o can be used (see 55.5, 148.3)

47 de wa [SOURCE OF INFORMATION]

Other than being simply a regular combination of de [case particle or cop.] + wa [focus particle], de wa also has the specialized use of indicating source of information (see 181.3). In this use it is synonymous with ni yoru to and ni yoreba, but can only be added to non-human sources (see 131).

a %テレビでは terebi de wa according to the TV

But not

b %Suzuki-san de wa

With human sources, hanashi or an other appropriate N (shirabe, etc.) must be inserted.

According to what technical officer Amano says, garment [manufacturers] even claim that clothing that follows the JIS [= Japan Industrial Standard] to the letter doesn't sell.

48 DIALECT FORMS

Japanese has a lot of dialect variation, although the media are having the effect of levelling the differences. The Kansai dialect of the Kyoto/Osaka area is encountered sometimes in writing (i.e. fiction) and films (esp. gangster movies), and is also quite ubiquitous on TV, with the abundance of 'TV talents' from the Kansai area. Most Japanese are quite familiar with its characteristics, and especially among the young in Tokyo it is quite fashionable to throw in some Kansai forms, partly due to the abundance of popular TV talents from Kansai who appear on national television.

In Table 10 are some common variants, compared to standard usage.

Some other general tendencies:

Long vowels are shortened

dō 'how'	→	do
darō (-(y)ō form of cop.)	→	yaro
no	→	n

Double consonants are often changed to single consonants (with accompanying vowel changes).

Table 10 Some standard/Kansai dialect forms

Standard	Kansai
yo	→ wa (by men also)
ne	→ nen
zo	→ de
da	→ ya
darō	→ yaro
ii	→ ee
to [quotation P]	→ usually omitted (except set phrases and before chigau)
to iu N	→ iu N
V-nai	→ V-hen*
V-masu	→ V-haru
V-mashita	→ V-hatta
V-te irassharu	→ V-te haru

Note * -hen is usually attached to the same forms as -nai, but note kama-hen below, which is a contraction of kamawa-hen. Note also sēhen, which is the form derived from suru, equivalent to shinai in standard Japanese (for an example of sēhen see 115 c).

itte → iute
katte → kōte
shimatte → shimote

But note detotta, a contraction of dete otta (oru/otta is the Kansai equivalent of iru/ita).

Some fixed expressions include the following:

arigatō → ōki ni ‘thank you’
n ja nai ka → n to chau/chaimasu ka ‘isn’t it’ (a contraction of no to chigau) sumimasen → sunmahen ‘sorry’ ikura → nanbo ‘how much’
taihen → erai ‘very’

Most of the above-mentioned features can be found illustrated in the examples below.

49 -domo [SUFFIX]

Attached to N and pron. that refer to persons, -domo indicates plural. When attached to first person pron. (usually watakushi), -domo has a humble ring. When used with third persons, it indicates a feeling of contempt or belittling.

Note – where the same plural is used twice in a sentence, the second one is usually formed by different means, for stylistic reasons. (see 188, 168, 158, 145).

49.1 First person (watakushi)-domo

49.2 Third person-domo

49.1 FIRST PERSON (watakushi)-domo

49.2 THIRD PERSON-domo

Attached to N, -domo gives the plural a ring of contempt. In example b, the implication is that the other cats are useless or inferior, compared to the old cat.

- a ジェシーらはそこで銃をとり、悪党【ども】に反撃を始めるのだ。

jeshi-ra wa soko de jū o tori akutō-domo ni hangeki o hajimeru no da

50 DOUBLE NEGATIVES

Double neg. are widely used in Japanese. There are three types: double neg. proper, which are a rhetorical device (e.g. 'it's not that I don't . . .'), neg. conditionals ('must', etc.), and the phrase V-zu ni wa irarenai 'can't help doing'.

As negatives cancel each other out, resulting in a positive meaning, they can be seen as an alternative way of expressing things, which in meaning ranges from tentative to emphatic.

Double neg. can consist of two neg. forms (incl. the negative adjective nai 'there isn't'), or a negative form following a lexical word that has neg. meaning, such as chiisai 'little', sukunai 'few', yasui 'cheap', etc.

50.1 Double negatives proper

50.1.4 Adj.-ku (wa) nai

An adj. with-neg. meaning plus neg. makes for a somewhat emphatic way of expressing a positive content, in the sense of lit. “not few”, i.e. ‘quite a few’, etc.

- a 売却に際し、地価下落に泣かされたところも【少なくない】。

baikyaku ni saishi chika geraku ni nakasareta tokoro mo sukunakunai

50.2.3 Negative conditionals followed by other negative expressions a とりまとめは早くやら【ないと】意味が【ない】。

torimatome wa hayaku yaranai to imi ga nai

There's no point unless we settle matters quickly.

50.2.4 Negative conditionals + -mai (negative presumptive)

-mai is a neg. pres. ending, which has the same meaning as nai darō (see 89, 163).

a 大いに自戒せ【ねば】なる【まい】。

ōi ni jikai seneba narumai

No doubt we must take great care [not to repeat the same mistake].

b 日本の経済システムを変えていか【ねばならないだろう】。

nihon no keizai shisutemu o kaete ikaneba naranai darō

We'll probably need to change Japan's economic system.

50.2.5 Negative conditionals: verb-zaru o enai

V-zaru is a classical neg., and the combination V-zaru o enai literally means "cannot not", i.e. 'must', 'have to'. It has a more written/formal ring than combinations like nakereba naranai (see 50.2.1).

a お客様がいるならやら【ざるをえない】。

o-kyaku-sama ga iru nara yarazaru o enai

If there are customers, we have to [provide it = the service].

b サービスのあり方も変わってこ【ざるを得ない】。

The way service is [provided] must change too.

- c 介護のために仕事を辞め【ざるを得なかった】。
kaigo no tame ni shigoto o yamezaru o enakatta
 She had to quit working to look after the home.

50.3 VERB-zu ni (wa) irarenai

Attached to the neg. V-base, this combination consists of the written/formal style neg. conjunctive ending -zu ni (equivalent to colloquial -nai de) + the negative pot. form of iru, together meaning literally “cannot exist without doing”, i.e. ‘can’t help doing’ (see 183).

- a 「ただ、なぜか酒を飲ま【ずにはいられな】かった」と振り返る。
tada naze ka sake o nomazu ni irarenakatta to furikaeru ‘But for some reason I couldn’t help drinking’, he recalls.
- b 「物は十分すぎるぐらい持っているが、何か物足りない。小さな花でも育【ずにはいられな】くなった」と話す。 mono wa jūbun sugiru gurai motte iru ga nani ka monotarinai. chīsana hana demo sodatezu ni wa irarenaku natta to hanasu
 ‘I have plenty of material things, but don’t feel fulfilled. I can’t help with raising even a small flower now’, she says.

51 e [CASE PARTICLE]

The case P e (written へ) indicates a direction or goal ‘to’, ‘towards’. It overlaps with ni [case particle] to a considerable extent (see 116).

- 51.1 With verb of motion
 51.2 With ellipted predicate
 51.3 Noun e no noun
 51.4 Noun e to verb/verb phrase

51.1 WITH VERB OF MOTION

With V of motion, e can be used instead of ni to mark a core case (dative of direction). Whereas ni indicates the goal of a motion, e is said to be concerned more with the direction towards the goal, but in practice the two are often interchangeable (see 116).

Note – in all of the examples in 51.1, e can be replaced by ni.

A number of verbs typically take ni. These include verbs of arriving, putting and posture (tsuku, oku, noru, suwaru, tatsu) but note examples a + b for exceptions!

This is also the case in the sense of beneficiary or recipient of an object or action, except when no is attached, in which case only e no is possible (see 51.3).

Verbs of entering and inserting (hairu, ireru, etc.) mostly take ni. However, despite what most textbooks say, they can also take e (examples c–e), without any change in meaning.

- a さあ、そこ【へ】座れ。
sā soko e suware
 Right, sit down there!
- b 最近、教科書を家に持ち帰らずに、学校【へ】置いていく生徒が多い。
saikin kyōkasho o ie ni mochikaerazu ni gakkō e oite iku seito ga ōi
 These days there are lots of pupils who don't take their textbooks home, but leave them at school.
- c JR【へ】入るのは子供のころからの夢。
jē āru e hairu no wa kodomo no koro kara no yume Entering JR [Japan Rail] has been a dream since childhood days.
- d ペットを砂場【へ】入れないよう…
petto o sunaba e irenai yō
 Do not let pets into the sandpit . . .
- e …「中【へ】入れろ」と脅迫。
naka e irero to kyōhaku
 . . . he threatened him, saying 'Let me in'.
- f 島【へ】渡るツアーは週一回で、毎回ほぼ満席という。
shima e wataru tsūa wa shū ikkai de maikai hobo manseki to iu
 They say that tours to the island take place once a week, and are more or less fully booked each time.
- g この時期の経歴は空白だ。「実は大学【へ】行ったんです」。 kono jiki no keireki wa kūhaku da jitsu wa daigaku e itta n desu
 Her CV for this period is blank. 'Actually, I went to university.'
- h 六月に名古屋【へ】着任した。
rokugatsu ni nagoya e chakunin shita
 In June, he arrived at his post in Nagoya.
- i 組合員【へ】は冷凍のまま供給する。
kumiaiin e wa reitō no mama kyōkyū suru
 To co-op members they provide them [eels] frozen.
- j 黒字はどうして生まれ、どこ【へ】行ってしまったのか。
kuroji wa dō shite umare doko e itte shimatta no ka
 How did the surplus arise, and where did it go?

51.2 WITH ELLIPTED PREDICATE

With ellipted pred., e also indicates direction or goal.

- a 十一時半ぐらいにはベッドルーム【へ】。 jūichiji-han gurai ni wa beddo rūmu e
 By about 11:30, [he heads] for the bedroom.
- b ちょっと口にしては次々と灰皿【へ】。
chotto kuchi ni shite wa tsugitsugi to haizara e
 He smokes them briefly, and then [stubs them out] in the ashtray one after the other.

In newspaper-style headlines, ni indicates plans, or developments. In this use, e cannot be replaced by ni.

- c パキスタン大統領が訪中【へ】。
pakisutan daitōryō ga hōchū e Pakistani president set to visit China
- d タイ、ミャンマーから天然ガス購入【へ】。
tai myanmā kara tennengasu kōnyū e
 [Plans] to buy natural gas from Thailand and Myanmar

51.3 NOUN e no NOUN

To modify a N, e is used instead of ni; the combination ni no N is not found, but it is not possible to explain every instance of e no as a conversion from ni, as examples c and d show.

- a 新規分野【への】進出も探っている。(cf., 新規分野【に】進出する) shinki bunya e no shinshutsu mo sagutte iru (shinki bunya ni shinshutsu suru)
 They are also looking to expand into new areas.
- b EサイズからLサイズ【への】切り替えを急ぎたい。(cf., Lサイズ【に】切り替える)

- c 記事【への】批判もあった。(cf., 記事を批判する)
kiji e no hihan mo atta (cf., kiji o hihan suru)
 There were also criticisms of the article.
- d それは、日本【への】警告でもある。
sore wa nihon e no keikoku de mo aru
 This [= the bipolarization of political parties in the US] is also a warning for Japan.

51.4 NOUN e to VERB/VERB PHRASE

[N e to] is used to describe the manner in which some change (indicated by a V/V phrase of change) takes place. Again, ni to is not found (see 213).

a 文明はなぜか西【へと】回る。

bunmei wa naze ka nishi e to mawaru

For some reason, civilization moves westwards.

b パソコンがテレビ【へと】変身を始めた。

pasokon ga terebi e to henshin o hajimeta

The PC has begun to change into a TV.

52 ELLIPSIS

Ellipsis in Japanese is a tricky issue, because it's sometimes not clear whether something is omitted or whether it's not needed in the first place. Personal pron., which are frequently absent (e.g. example 52.1a) are a case in point. They exist, but are only used when required for purposes such as clarification, emphasis, etc. They are therefore not included under ellipsis.

Also, when compared to English, Japanese 'lacks' certain grammatical features, such as the article (definite and indefinite), and relative pronouns, which therefore by definition cannot be ellipted.

Ellipsis here refers to a sentence where some part (ranging from a case or focus P to a pred.) is missing, the meaning of which can, however, easily be recovered, either from the context or because that part tends to be omitted customarily (see 55.3).

Where a verb would be repeated in English, it is usually ellipted (or substituted with words like 'do' or auxiliaries such as 'will' 'might', etc. in English. In Japanese, where there is a sense of 'also', this can be conveyed by using the focus P mo (see 94.1.2). Where an addition is indicated, the first verb can be omitted (see example 53.2 g), because in Japanese the object of a sentence comes before the verb.

Note also the use of the adverb sō: 'in that way', 'so' to substitute for a full pred., normally used (just like 'so' in English) when replying to others' comments.

a 日本は世界的な視野を持たなければいけないと思います。私も【そう】 思います。

nihon wa sekai-teki na shiya o motanakereba ikenai to omoimasu. watashi mo sō omoimasu.

'I think that Japan needs to view things globally.' 'I think so too.'

- 52.1 Ellipsis of particle
 52.2 Ellipsis of noun
 52.3 Ellipsis of predicate (whole or part)

52.1 ELLIPSIS OF PARTICLE

The P o, wa and ga are often ellipted in informal speech; ellipted o and wa are often indicated by comma intonation (and by a comma in writing) (see 148.1.2, 236.4.1.2, 55.2).

- a たばこ【、】やめなきゃ。(= ellipsis of o)
tabako yamenakya
 I must stop smoking (lit. “stop tobacco”).
- b 仕事【、】ありませんか。(= ellipsis of wa [focus P]) shigoto arimasen ka
 Isn't there any work?
- c 今夜はお父さん【】帰ってこないの。(= ellipsis of ga [case P]) kon'ya wa otōsan kaette konai no
 Tonight, hubby's not coming home.

52.2 ELLIPSIS OF NOUN

N can be ellipted in Japanese in a way similar to English to avoid unnecessary repetition. However, whereas in English the second N is usually ellipted, in Japanese it is the first one.

In example a, the N after the first gotoki is ellipted (omitted) because it is identical to the second one.

Counters [num. + C] can also be used without the N they count where the context makes it clear which N they refer to (example b) (see 36.5)

- a 政治家と官僚が対等であるかのごとき【】、争っているかのごとき状態は自然ではない。
seijika to kanryō ga taitō de aru ka no gotoki arasotte iru ka no gotoki jōtai wa shizen de wa nai
 A state of affairs where politicians and administrators seem on an equal footing, and seem to compete, is unnatural.
- b 精密なイラストは…息をのむほど美しい。【】一枚を仕上げるのに一カ月くらいかかるそうだ。

 The accurate illustrations . . . are breathtakingly beautiful. Apparently it takes about a month to finish one.

52.3 ELLIPSIS OF PREDICATE (WHOLE OR PART)

The pred. (or part of it) that may be assumed to be ellipted is given in brackets below (see 5.4.2.2, 50.2.2, 55.3, 51.2, 116.3, 94.1.2, 107.6, 148.1.3, 236.4.2.2).

 After I entered the company, my dream was first to master lens technology, and then things other than lenses.

53 FORMS OF ADDRESS: FAMILY (OWN AND OTHERS')

As with non-family, instead of personal pron. other forms of address/reference are frequently used (see 158).

53.1 Address

53.2 Reference

An important distinction in use depends on whether one is addressing others, or referring to them.

When referring to others, an ingroup–outgroup distinction is also applied. This distinction requires that towards outgroup listeners, members of one's own group are referred to without hon. pref. (o-/go-) and/or personal suf. (-san/-sama, etc.), as in examples 53.2 b, d, f and h–j. However, note the use of the words for mother/father(o-tōsan/chan)/(o-kāsan/chan), and also papa/mama, by parents towards their children like first person personal pron. (example 2 c), where this rule does not apply. Wives/husbands also commonly use (o-tōsan)/(o-kāsan) and variants to refer to their marriage partners (example 2 a). Also, children need to learn the address/reference distinction, and often fail to distinguish them (example 2 g) (see 158, 160.4).

The choice between o- and go- depends on whether the word the pref. is attached to is WJ or SJ vocabulary (see 235). Exceptions include o-jōsan and o-bot-chan.

Where names are used for addressing, the general rule is to attach -san, etc. for seniors, and nothing (except for intimate children, etc., -chan/-kun) for those junior to the speaker.

Note 1 – older-generation husbands also use oi ('say', 'hey') to address their wives (example 53.2 l), and wives (or girlfriends) often use nē ('I say') towards their husband (boyfriend), in a variety of intonations (example a).

- a 「【ねえ、入るんならこっちのホテルがいいな」。平日の午後七時、連れれの男性と腕を組んでいた若い女の子が嬌声 (きょうせい) をあげた。 nē hairu n nara kotchi no hoteru ga ii na. heijitsu no gogo shichi-ji tsure no dansei to ude o kunde ita wakai onna no ko ga kyōsei o ageta
 'Look, if we go to [a love hotel], then I'd like this one'. Around 7p.m. on a weekday, a young girl who had been walking arm in arm with her male companion, raised her voice coquettishly.

Note 2 – when there is no need to make the in/outgroup distinction or to use honorifics, as in narrative text or when referring to historical or fictional figures, the terms in the first column in Table 12 (but not the ones in brackets) are used, excepting the words for husband and wife, where only tsuma and otto are normally used (example 53.2 e), although depending on such situational factors as the speaker–listener relationship, formality, etc., the terms in the last columns are also used (example 53.2 a).

54 FORMS OF ADDRESS: NON-FAMILY

Where a title (sensei 'teacher', 'MP', or daijin 'government minister') can be used, names are often avoided. Where names are used, suf. like -sama, -san, -kun and -chan are usually attached (see 158).

55 ga [CASE PARTICLE]

ga generally marks the subject of a S (but with certain pred. it translates into English like an object).

ga is often contrasted with wa [focus P], and the distinction in use of the two is said to be one of the most difficult problems facing the foreign learner of the language (see 238).

Depending on the type of sentence, ga also contrasts with some other case P (see 55.4, 55.5).

55.1 WITH ONE-PLACE VERB/ADJECTIVE

With one-place (i.e. intransitive) V, or adj., ga marks the subject of a spontaneous happening or phenomenon (examples b–f). wa, on the other hand, is typically used in considered statements (example a) (see 236, 231).

- a 日本【は】豊かになった。ぜいたくな時代のまちづくりでは、今までと違った視点が必要になる。(= considered statement) nihon wa yutaka ni natta. zeitaku na jidai no machi-zukuri de wa ima made to chigatta shiten ga hitsuyō ni naru Japan has become affluent. One needs a different stance [= from before] about improving one's town in times of luxury.
- b 涙【が】出た。(= spontaneous happening)
namida ga deta
 Tears came to my eyes (lit. "tears came out").

- c 空【が】暗くなった。

Where the context makes it clear what the meaning is, pred. can be ellipted.

- a しかし、だれ【が】、なぜ。
shikashi dare ga naze
 But who [did this], and why?

55.4 ga IN POTENTIAL SENTENCES

ga in a pot. S usually marks the NP that would be marked by o in its non-pot. counterpart. In English, this translates as the object of a pot. V. Note that in pot. S also using the comparative hō ga (example c), ga is used twice in a sentence.

The effect of wa in these sentences would be to imply a contrast (see 161, 236.5).

55.5 ga IN DESIDERATIVE SENTENCES

In desiderative S (hoshii/-tai), ga marks the object of desire (see 46, 68, 189).

In English, this translates as the object of a desiderative V. The effect of wa in these sentences would imply a contrast (see 236.5).

Alternatively, the object of desire in these sentences can be marked by o (see 148.3, 46).

55.7 ga EMPHASIZING THE PRECEDING SUBJECT NOUN/ NOUN PHRASE

ga emphasizes the N or NP it is attached to (shown in []), in the (implicit) sense of 'nothing else'; this is one of the major differences between ga and wa in subject position, the latter having the effect of subduing the N/NP it is attached to (see 236).

55.8 ga IN COMPARATIVE/SUPERLATIVE SENTENCES: MARKING THE PREFERRED ITEM (= SUBJECT)

Similar in effect to its use in 55.7, ga marks the item singled out as having some property or quality to a larger/the largest extent in comparative (often together with hō) and superlative S (see 25.1.1, 25.2.3, 252).

55.8.2 Adverbial clause-te ga

- a やっぱり【夫婦そろってが】一番?
yappari fūfu sorotte ga ichiban
 After all, husband and wife [= going to the movies] together is best?

55.9 ga ATTACHED TO QUESTION WORDS IN SUBJECT POSITION

In Q that have a Q word as subject, the Q word always attaches ga, never wa (there are some exceptions to this, but this is limited to set expressions such as nani wa nakutomo 'in any case', nani wa tomo are 'whatever else', or 'above all', etc.). Example a shows the latter case.

- a ズボンの二本の足をストラップ (布ベルト) で結んだらどうなるか?
 【何はともあれ】歩きにくくなることだけは確実だ。

 What happens if you tie the two trouser legs together with a strap (a cloth belt)? Whatever else, it becomes more difficult to walk.

After Q words, much like the use of ga in 55.7 and 55.8, the effect is to emphasize the where/what/who, etc. Note also the combination [Q word mo ga] 'every', and [Q word ga . . . -te/de mo] (see 164.5, 167.2.1.1).

55.11 ga IN 'DOUBLE-SUBJECT' (NOUN wa NOUN ga) SENTENCES

This is a common S type in Japanese (see 178.1.8), and is known as 'double-subject' S because both wa and ga mark NP that are grammatical subjects.

However, the first NP-wa is more like a topic which is followed by a [NP-ga pred.] comment (see 236.8) and the second can look like an object in English translation, as in example 55.12 a.

- a 古代【は】個人【が】主体だった。

55.13 ga MARKING THE SUBJECT IN A NOUN-MODIFYING CLAUSE

The subject of a N-mod. clause (shown in [I]) is usually marked by ga or no in both complement clauses (55.13.1) and relative clauses (55.13.2) (see 26, 133.2, 143).

55.13.1 Complement clauses

- a 「[生存者【が】いた]ことは幸運だった」と話している。
seizonsha ga ita koto wa kōun datta to hanashite iru
 They are saying, 'It was lucky that there were survivors'.

55.13.2 Relative clauses

The first example below has first a N-mod. clause (in [I]) marked by ga, then another N-mod. clause (in [II]) marked by no.

- a 誰も[彼【が】来た]ことに[気【の】つく]者はいなかった。

56 ga [CONJUNCTIVE PARTICLE]

ga basically expresses a weak contrast between two clauses, S1 and S2 'but' (see 79, 140, 33).

- 56.1 Clause 1 ga, clause 2 N cop. 'but'
- 56.2 Clause 1 ga, clause 2
- 56.3 Clause 1 ga, clause 2 expressing 'and' or ';&'
- 56.4 Clause 1 ga. (. . .) in unfinished sentences
- 56.5 Clause 1-presumptive ga clause 2-presumptive ga adverbial clauses

56.1 CLAUSE 1 ga, CLAUSE 2 N COP. 'BUT'

This is a N-mod. sequence (indicated in []) where two clauses are linked by ga in the sense of 'N (which is/was) A but B'. In writing, this use is usually distinguished from that shown in 56.2 below by the presence of a comma in the latter.

- a [忙しかった【が】いい一年]だった。 isogashikatta ga ii toshi datta
 It was a busy but good year.

56.2 CLAUSE 1 ga, CLAUSE 2

Unlike 56.1, in this use ga 'but' links are two clauses with separate pred. (i.e. the content of these sentences could equally be expressed in two separate sentences). A comma is usually present in writing.

56.4 CLAUSE 1 ga (. . .) IN UNFINISHED SENTENCES

56.5 CLAUSE 1-PRESUMPTIVE ga CLAUSE 2-PRESUMPTIVE ga: ADVERBIAL CLAUSES

Here we see ga repeated twice (or three times, as in example h) after pos., or pos. and neg. hortative or presumptive forms, the combination forms adverbial clauses in the sense of 'whether . . . or', 'regardless of' (see 163, 172).

57 -garu [SUFFIX]

-garu indicates that some feeling is openly displayed, usually by persons other than the speaker. The suffix -garu can be attached to the stem forms of A and AN (^cop.) that express a feeling or attitude, to the stem form of the S-ending -tai (which in turn attaches to V), and the stem form of the adj. of desire hoshii. Note that -garu itself works like a Group I verb.

57.1 Adjective/adjectival noun-stem-garu

57.2 Verb-tagaru

57.3 hoshi-garu

57.1 ADJECTIVE/ADJECTIVAL NOUN-STEM-garu

Adj./AN to which -garu attaches are limited to those that express a feeling, i.e. omoshiroi (besides the meaning of ‘interesting’) also means ‘to show an interest in’, and fushigi na ‘to feel mystified’. -garu adds the nuance that the subject visibly or audibly displays such feelings.

57.2 VERB-tagaru

gotoshi is like a N in that it is preceded by the case P no (and occasionally still the classical genitive P ga), but inflects like a classical adj., ending in -shi (fin. form) and -ki (N-mod. form) (see 22). It can nowadays also be followed by forms of the cop.

Like yō, gotoshi indicates a simile (likening two things or situations) in the sense of ‘like’ (see 243).

65 HONORIFIC AND HUMBLE FORMS (SUBJECT- AND OBJECT-HONORIFICS)

In comparison to ‘ordinary’ or unmarked forms expressing the same cognitive meaning, hon. forms and humble forms both elevate the listener or referent in relation to the speaker. The assumption behind this is that persons of senior/higher social status than the speaker are linguistically treated as superiors.

Hon. forms are distinct from the pol. ending -masu, but in practice often combine, especially when used as pred. (i.e. many forms given below are often used in their -masu form (see 91, 66).

- 65.1 Regular honorific forms
 - 65.1.1 o/go-verb-stem ni naru

 - 65.2.1 o/go-verb-stem suru
 - 65.2.2 Clause (-te/de) gozaimasu and (-te/de) orimasu

 - 65.2.2.3 -te/de oru/orimasu and orimasu
 - 65.3 Irregular honorific and humble verb forms

65.1 REGULAR HONORIFIC FORMS

There are two regular hon. formations, o/go V-stem ni naru and pass.-form hon. (see 156.8). Verbs that have special (irregular) forms do not usually have regular equivalents (see 65.3).

65.1.1 o/go-verb-stem ni naru

In this structure, V-stem is sandwiched between o/go and ni naru. In the case of VN (see 234), ni naru replaces suru.

The choice between the hon. pref. o- and go- basically depends on whether the item they attach to is NJ (o-) or SJ (go-) vocabulary (see 235), but there are some exceptions, such as o-denwa ('telephone'), which is SJ.

By replacing ni naru with kudasai, i.e. in the form o/go-V-stem kudasai, a pol. command is formed, which is commonly used (see 69.5).

For an example of o-V-stem-ni naru + attached pass. hon., see 65.1.1 d.

a 【お辞めになっ】 たのはもったいない。(cf., 辞める 'quit')

o-yame ni natta no wa mottainai

It's a waste that he quit.

b やりたい方がいれば【おやりになれ】 ばいい。(cf., やる 'do') yaritai kata ga ireba o-yari ni nareba ii

If there's anyone who'd like to give it a try, let them.

In the media, o/go-V-stem ni naru (but also pass. hon.) is often used with reference to members of the Imperial family, although some newspapers have largely abandoned the practice.

Note also that in super-hon. usage, (o/go- V-stem ni) naru can be used in the pass. hon. form (o/go- V-stem ni) narareru to make it even more polite.

c 昭和天皇も【お泊まりになっ】 たことがあるという。(cf., 泊まる 'stay') shōwa tennō mo o-tomari ni natta koto ga aru to iu

They say that the Showa emperor too has stayed.

d 両陛下は参加者とともに苗木を【お手植えになら】 れます。

(cf., 手植えする 'plant in person')

ryōheika wa sankasha to tomo ni naegi o o-teue ni nararemasu

Their Majesties will personally plant the seedlings together with the participants.

Note that there are some fixed expressions that look like o/go V-stem ni naru, but are in fact not (example e). Also note example f, where the expression sankō ni naru 'be useful' (not sankō suru!) is made honorific by attaching the pref. go-.

- e いろいろな人にお世話になった。(o-sewa ni naru 'be taken care of')
- iroiro na hito ni o-sewa ni natta
I was looked after by all sorts of people.
- f 観光関係者の方々、ご参考になっただろうか。
- kankō kankeisha no katagata go-sankō ni natta darō ka
[Advice how to advertise a local area for sightseeing] Has [our advice] been useful for you people in the sightseeing business?

65.1.2 Clause-te (de) irassharu

In hon. use, -te/-de iru is regularly changed to te/de irassharu, and da/desu to de irassharu (see 199, 35).

On irregular -masu and imperative forms, see 65.3.

- a あなた大変困っ【ていらっしゃい】ましたよね。
- anata taihen komatte irasshaimashita yo ne
You were greatly embarrassed [at the time], weren't you.
- b 先月お見舞いに行ったときには元気に笑っ【ていらっしゃっ】て、必ず帰ってくると思っていたのに。
- sengetsu o-mimai ni itta toki ni wa genki ni waratte irasshatte kanarazu kaette kuru to shinjite ita no ni
When I visited him last month, he was laughing and in good spirits, and I believed that he'd definitely come back.
- c お志高く、行動力にあふれるお二人【でいらっしゃい】ますので、必ずや素晴らしいご家庭をお築きになれることと確信しております。
- o-kokorozashi takaku kōdōryoku ni afureru o-futari de irasshaimasu no de kanarazuya subarashii go-katei o o-kizuki ni narareru koto to kakushin shite orimasu
As both are of noble mind and brimming with activity, I'm convinced that they will surely build a wonderful family.

65.1.3 Passive honorifics

Pass. forms (for the forms see 156) can be used as a slightly less polite hon.; this is particularly popular with the younger generation.

However, in combination with o/go-ni naru, -te orimasu in the pass. hon. form makes for a super-hon. form (see 65.2.2 re -te orimasu).

- a 28日は音楽をきいたり、読書をして過ごさ【れ】た。
- nijū hachinichi wa ongaku o kiitari dokusho o shite sugosareta
The 28th she [= a member of the Imperial family] spent [doing things like] listening to music and reading.

- b ご自身に対する警備が厳しすぎると感想をもらさ【れ】たこともある。 go-jishin ni taisuru keibi ga kibishi-sugiru to kansō o morasareta koto mo aru
 He [= a member of the Imperial family] once commented that he felt that he was being guarded too strictly.
- c 「どちらからいらっしゃいましたか」「どの程度【入院され】ていますか」 など【声をかけられ】た。
dochira kara irasshaimashita ka dono teido nyūin sarete imasu ka nado to koe o kakerareta
 She addressed people with questions like ‘Where do you come from?’ and ‘How long have you been in hospital?’

Note – compare the above hon. uses to the following example of pass. use (see 156).

- d おばさんに席を譲ったら、何度もお礼を【言われ】、降りる際には【最敬礼され】て、とまどってしまった。 obāsan ni seki o yuzuttara nando mo orei o iware oriru sai ni wa saikeirei sarete tomadotte shimatta
 After I’d given my seat to the old woman, she thanked me many times, and I was really embarrassed when she bowed deeply as she got off the train.

65.2 REGULAR HUMBLE FORMS

65.2.1 o/go-verb-stem suru

The regular humble formation takes the form of o/go-V-stem suru (for extra politeness, suru can be changed to itasu, see 3 below).

The choice between o- and go- is conditioned by the same factors as mentioned above under 65.1. V that have special (irregular) forms do not usually have regular formations (see 65.3).

- a 時には「しばらく【お会いし】ていないので、ごあいさつということで……」 という訳のわからない名目もある。
toki ni wa shibaraku o-ai shite inai no de go-aisatsu to iu koto de to iu wake no wakaranai meimoku mo aru
 On occasion, people come under the flimsy pretext of ‘I haven’t seen you for a while, so [I’d like to see you] to extend my greetings . . .’.
- b 副党首を【お願いし】たらすぐになってくれた。

I want to apologize for having delivered to our customers a product that does not match the labelling, and for having inconvenienced them greatly.

65.2.2 Clause (-te/de) gozaimasu and (-te/de) orimasu

gozaimasu is humble for aru, and orimasu for iru. Similarly, -te (-de) gozaimasu is used instead of -te aru (see 196), -te gozaimasu instead of iru (see 199), de gozaimasu instead of da/desu (see 35), and -te orimasu for -te iru.

For irregular -masu and imp. forms see 65.3.

65.2.2.1 gozaimasu and adjective-u gozaimasu/mashita

gozaimasu is the humble equivalent of aru/arimasu. Note also the somewhat archaic combination adj. -u (o + u = ō) gozaimasu (the adj. ending -u is a variant of -ku), which is still used, especially by elderly ladies, but also in greetings such as arigatō gozaimasu, o-hayō gozaimasu, o-medetō gozaimasu, etc.

Note – when referring to events that are already completed, -mashita is used rather than -masu.

- d 【悪うございませ】た。

 Sorry (lit. “It was bad of me”).
- e 第三子誕生【おめでとうございませ】た。

f 「本日は私の葬儀にご出席頂き、【ありがとうございます】す」と故人がスクリーンに登場し、会葬者に別れのあいさつをする。

With the words ‘Thank you for attending my funeral today’, the deceased appears on the screen, and gives a farewell speech to the funeral guests.

65.2.2.2 Noun/adjectival noun/clause de gozaimasu

de gozaimasu is humble for da/desu (strictly speaking, de aru/arimasu is converted into de gozaimasu, which is used in place of da/desu).

Note that wa can be ‘sandwiched’ between de and gozaimasu for contrast/emphasis (example d) in the same way as between de and forms of cop. (see 236.5.3.3).

In fairy tales and some other forms of literature, no de gozaimasu is also used instead of S endings such as n/no da/desu.

For irregular -masu and imp. forms, see 65.3.

65.2.2.3 -te/de oru/orimasu and orimasu

-te/de orimasu is the humble equivalent to verb-te/de iru/imasu. Note how nado causes the insertion of an ‘extra’ shite ori in example f; the non-hon., non-formal equivalent would be hone o ottari shite ite, i.e. orimasu is used instead of iru (see 192, 103.3).

Note – the imperative plain form -te ore (example a) is used as an imperative form of -te iru (-te iro being not a standard form), and does not have any hon. meaning.

65.3 IRREGULAR HONORIFIC AND HUMBLE VERB FORMS

A number of commonly used V that refer to a person's action are not used in their regular hon. form; instead, a different 'specialized' hon. V is used (some hon. V can be used for more than one action: meshiagaru is used for both eating and drinking, and irassharu is used for coming, going, and being there).

Table 13 shows the more common of these irregular V (for slots where no irregular verb exists, regular formations are given in brackets).

Note also that the following among the verbs below are irregular in forming their -masu form and imp. form. This also applies when they are used with V-te (see 65.1.2 and 65.2.2 above).

honorific verb	-masu form	imperative form
gozaru	gozai-masu	—
irassharu	irasshai-masu	irasshai
kudasaru	kudasai-masu	kudasai
nasaru	nasai-masu	nasai
ossharu	osshai-masu	osshai

As seen already above (65.1.2 and 65.2.2), many of the above forms can in turn be used to replace the second V in [V-te + V] combinations, such as -te iru into -te irasshaimasu/-te orimasu, and -te kuru into -te irasshaimasu/-te mairimasu, etc.

66 HONORIFIC AND HUMBLE NOUNS

Honorific and humble N can be divided in N that refer to a person, N that refer to people's actions, and N that are used as euphemisms.

- 66.1 Nouns referring to a person
 66.1.1 Without honorific prefix
 66.1.2 With honorific prefix
 66.2 Nouns referring to a person's actions or belongings
 66.3 Nouns used as euphemisms
 66.4 Nouns used when speaking to children

66.1 NOUNS REFERRING TO A PERSON

66.1.1 Without honorific prefix

To refer to a person, apart from titles and pron. the honorific equivalent of hito, kata, can be used in the singular, and the reduplicated katagata for the plural (see 54, 158).

- a 大変健康な【方】だ。

taihen kenkō na kata da

He is a very healthy person.

- b 観光関係者の【方々】、ご参考になっただろうか。

kankō kankeisha no katagata go-sankō ni natta darō ka

[Advice on how to advertise a local area for sightseeing] Has [our advice] been useful for you people in the sightseeing business?

66.1.2 With honorific prefix

The hon. pref. o/go- (the choice is mainly conditioned by the type of N attached to, i.e. o-NJ and go-SJ (see 65.1.1)) can be attached to N in the sense of ‘your N’, and also to reflexive pron. (→) like jishin to make them hon. (example c)

For address and reference, these pref. are also attached to some family terms (see 53).

- a 今、初盆を迎え、【ご親族】のもとへあなたはひとときお帰りになっておられるのだろうかと思います。

ima hatsubon o mukae go-shinzoku no moto e anata wa hitotoki o-kaeri ni natte orareru no darō to omoimasu

He [= member of the Imperial family] once commented that he felt that he (lit. ‘Honorific himself’) was being guarded too strictly.

66.2 NOUNS REFERRING TO A PERSON'S ACTIONS OR BELONGINGS

These are typically used in o/go-V-stem ni naru and o/go-V-stem suru, where V-stem is a VN. With o/go-V-stem ni naru/kudasai, the VN refers to the subject's actions, and with o/go-V-stem suru to an action the subject performs for a second/third person (see 65.1.1, 65.2.1, 69.5).

66.3 NOUNS USED AS EUPHEMISMS

These are mostly N that have to do with eating, drinking and toilet, etc. in general, i.e. they do not refer to anyone's action. Typically, these N attach the pref. o- and go-, and some also contain hon. V elements. They fall into three main groups as follows:

o-cha 'tea', o-hashhi 'chopsticks', o-miyage 'gift', o-tearai 'toilet', o-sake 'alcoholic drink', o-kane 'money', o-tsuri 'change'.

go-fujō 'toilet', go-han 'food', 'meal'.

o-meshimono (this is hon. for kimono) 'apparel', mesu being an irregular hon. V for kiru).

66.4 NOUNS USED WHEN SPEAKING TO CHILDREN

Mothers and other, usually female, siblings of small children often use 'children's talk' when conversing. Examples include parts of the body like o-meme 'eyes' and o-tete 'hands' (instead of me and te), nouns that are normally used to denote an action (even when suru is not attached), such as an'yo (suru) 'walk', nenne (suru) 'sleep/go to sleep', o-shikko (suru) 'pee'. The last one has gained common currency, even among men (in informal situations).

67 HORTATIVE: VERB-(y)ō [SENTENCE ENDING]

Hortative expresses proposed action 'shall I/we', or an invitation to do something together 'let's', and therefore can be attached only to V that express an action that can be controlled by the speaker.

For this purpose, the ending -(y)ō is used, attached to V. The combination V-(y)ō is the plain-form equivalent of V-mashō 'let's' etc. (see 91).

Apart from the hortative meaning, -(y)ō can also be used in the pres. sense, which is a supposition about what might happen or be the case. Here, no restriction about controllability of the action of V applies (see 67.1.4, 163, 246-50).

The ending -(y)ō is attached to V as shown below:

- Group I: change final -u to ō
Group II: attach yō to V-stem Group III: kuru → koyō
suru → shiyō

Note – polite sentence ending: -masu → mashō.

Apart from the speaker inviting others to join him or her in some action, -(y)ō is also commonly used in slogans, to offer one's services, and when suggesting to the public (or other groups of people) the correct rules of conduct (see 67.1.3).

67.1.4 Presumptive meaning

Here, the -(y)ō form is used as an equivalent of V darō 'should', 'may'. This pres. is largely restricted to the formal spoken and the written language (see presumptive forms and endings). Occasionally, the old-fashioned forms A-karō (= A-i darō) and V-tarō (= V-ta darō) are still encountered (for examples see 163).

68 hoshii [ADJECTIVE OF DESIRE]

The adj. hoshii indicates the object of the speaker’s desire or wishes. ‘Object’ includes things, persons (children and other people that can belong to one or one’s organization), time, money or other desirables. The object is usually marked by ga, but occasionally o is also found (see 46, 55, 5, 57, 148.3, 197).

Typically, hoshii is used of the first person in statements, and second person in questions, but examples of third person use are also found, even though it is more usual to use hoshi-garu for third persons (see 57).

68.1 Present

68.2 Past

69 IMPERATIVE SENTENCES

Imperative sentences typically use the imp. form of V (see 232) for pln. imp. Pln. imp. are used on some traffic signs (止まれ tomare 'stop!'), by robbers, for yelling slogans in demonstrations, etc., but also to an extent in informal communication between males.

For 'softened' imperatives, yo [final P] is attached. 'Familiar' imperatives involve adding final P such as na (yo) to V-stem.

Note – Japanese imp. can be used with a subject present (examples a–c). Since this is not possible in English, this cannot be translated as an imperative (see also 22, 100, 113).

a 学生は コピーを 【とらないで下さい】 [= written notice on copier]

gakusei wa kopī o toranai de kudasai

Students must not take copies

c 官僚は 株に手を 【出すな】。

kanryō wa kabu ni te o dasu na

Bureaucrats shouldn't dabble in shares!

Pol. imp. or commands attach performatives such as kudasai to V-te, but informally V-te is also used by itself, especially by women (see 24.2).

69.1 Plain imperatives (imperative forms)

69.2 'Softened' plain imperatives (imperative form + yo [final particle])

69.3 'Familiar' imperatives (verb-stem + na/na yo)

69.4 Classical-form imperatives

69.5 Polite imperatives and commands: -nasai, -te kudasai, o/go-V-stem kudasai

69.6 Indirect imperatives or commands

69.1 PLAIN IMPERATIVES (IMPERATIVE FORMS)

	nom-n	→ nom-e
	ka(w)-u	→ ka(w)-e
Group II	-ru	→ -ro
	tabe-ru	→ tabe-ro
	mi-ru	→ mi-ro
Group III	kuru	→ koi
	suru	→ shiro
	kureru	→ kure

69.2 'SOFTENED' PLAIN IMPERATIVES (IMPERATIVE FORM + yo [FINAL PARTICLE])

For the softer form of pln. imperatives, the final P yo is added (see 242).

- a きて【みろよ】。 b いいから早く買いに【行けよ】。 kite miro yo ii kara hayaku kai ni ike yo Try it on. Never mind, just go and buy it.

genki dase yo ganbare yo

69.3 'FAMILIAR' IMPERATIVES (VERB-STEM + na/na yo)

Pln imp. with an intimate or familiar ring are formed by using the combination V-stem + na (yo) (see 100, 101, 242).

- a なあオヤジ、早く隠居し【なよ】。 b おふくろ、死ぬ【なよ】。 nā oyaji hayaku inkyo shi na yo ofukuro shinu na yo Come on, dad, retire soon, will you. Mum, don't die!

69.4 CLASSICAL-FORM IMPERATIVES

Imp. forms from the classical language are still used in the written language, or formal spoken style. Such forms exist only for Group II V and the irregular V suru. For Group II Verbs, the final -ro is replaced with -yo. For suru, the form is seyo.

- a 県名を全部、【あげよ】。
kenmei o zenbu ageyo
 Give the names of all the prefectures.
- b マフィアに法律はいらない。その場で【射殺せよ】。

sono omoikomi o mazu suteyo
 Discard that preconception first of all.

69.5 POLITE IMPERATIVES AND COMMANDS: -nasai, -te kudasai, o/go-V-STEM kudasai

Pol. imp. are formed by attaching the pol. ending -nasai to V-stem, and commands by adding kudasai to V-te, or using o/go-V-stem kudasai (examples c and d). The rules for attaching o/go- are set out in 65.1.1 (see also 24, 202.1.2).

- a 「泣いてないで、部屋の掃除でもし【なさい】」「マラソンでも【なさい】」。

- d どうぞ、安らかに【お眠りください】。
dōzo yasuraka ni o-nemuri kudasai [Please] rest in peace.

69.6 INDIRECT IMPERATIVES OR COMMANDS

Indirect (or quoted) commands are usually given in their communicative content only, by ‘reducing’ any pol. forms to pln. ones. That means that a command in the form -te kudasai ‘please’ is reduced to a pln. imp. (see 203.3.2).

- a 以前のように【早く嫁にいけ】といった周囲からのプレッシャーも弱くなり、女性も納得できる生き方をしたいと考えるようになった証拠。

izen no yō ni hayaku yome ni ike to itta shūi kara no puresshā mo yowaku nari josei mo nattoku dekiru ikikata o shitai to kangaeru yō ni natta shōko

This is proof that the pressure from the family to get married quickly has weakened, and women too now want a way of life they find acceptable.

70 INVERSION

Inverted S are S where the order of constituents is reversed, usually to place emphasis on the part that is brought to the beginning of the S. It is not really possible to imitate the effect of this in English translation, where the word order is different.

- a 【何だ】その言い方は。

71 ka [CONJOINING PARTICLE]

ka conjoins N/AN in the sense of 'or' (see 29.2).

ka can optionally be repeated after the second item. The resulting (conjoined) NP (shown in []) can attach case P like any other NP.

- a プレゼントは[花束【か】陶磁器]を用意している。 purezento wa hanataba ka tōjiki o yōi shite iru
 For presents, they use flowers or pottery.
- b 気温は[平年並み【か】平年より高い]所が多い。

zensai to pasuta ka piza tezukuri dezāto de nisen nanahyaku-en no kōsu
 A ¥2,700-course consisting of an entree and pasta or pizza, and a homemade dessert.

Note – examples such as d appear to consist of N ka, but this is in fact the question P ka (replacing cop.), indicating an indirect question ‘whether . . . or’ (see 164.11, 166.1.2.5).

- d 今の時点で一概に[有利【か】不利【か】]を判断するのは難しい。 ima no jiten de ichigai ni yūri ka furi ka o handan suru no wa muzukashii
 At this point in time it is difficult to make an unconditional judgement as to advantage or disadvantage.

72 ka [QUESTION PARTICLE]

The question P ka is used in a variety of ways. By attaching it to a statement, it can indicate a direct question (unlike in English, no change in word order is required) or, by embedding the question in another sentence, an indirect question see 164.3, 164.5, 164.6, 166.1.2.5.

When ka is attached to question words, it gives the question word an indefinite meaning (see 167.1).

ka is also used in sentences that look like questions but function differently, such as rhetorical questions, etc. (see 165).

73 kamoshirenai [SENTENCE ENDING]

Made up of the question P ka, the focus P mo and the neg. pot. form of the V shiru, this literally means ‘one cannot know if’, but is used as a S ending indicating the idea of ‘probably’, ‘possibly’, or ‘might’ (see also 118).

kamoshirenai is attached to V/adj.-fin. After AN/N + cop., the forms are AN/N + cop. except that kamoshirenai deletes a preceding da. kamoshirenai can also be attached to the S ending n(o) da, where again it deletes a preceding da (example a).

a お寺や教会のようなものだったの【かもしれない】。

It may have been something like a temple or a church.

In a marathon, the strategy to keep in second place seems harder than the layman would think. One could probably say similar things about business.

74 kara [CASE PARTICLE]

kara marks the point of origin or departure of the action of a V 'from'. It is mostly attached to N of time or place, or other N that can be used with the idea of 'from . . . to'. kara is often used in combination with made 'to' or e 'towards' (see 85, 51). Note that unlike other case P, kara can be followed by ga/o.

However, this is not possible in examples b and e (where the reason is emphasized), and examples g and h, where S2 is a subjective statement, an invitation, emphatic statement, etc. (see 139).

Beside koto, the other main nominalizer is no (see 135). Their use overlaps to some degree, but the following tendencies can be stated.

84.1 In cleft and equational sentences

84.2 In complement clauses

84.1 IN CLEFT AND EQUATIONAL SENTENCES

If a cleft or equational S takes the form [S koto/no wa . . . S2], then S2 can only use koto da (see 84.3.12).

84.2 IN COMPLEMENT CLAUSES

In complement clauses, either no or koto can be used. When the pred. following the nominalizer expresses perception (i.e. miru 'see', mieru 'be seen', kiku 'hear', kikoeru 'be heard', kanjiru 'feel', etc.), no is used, except when kiku is used in the hearsay meaning, in which case koto is used. As a general tendency, no indicates that the complement clause is immediate or concrete, whereas with koto it is more abstract, as for instance 'the fact that' (see 26, 135).

90 mama [STRUCTURAL NOUN]

mama is a structural N, which means that it is preceded and followed by the same forms as other N. However, it differs from other N in that it can also be used without any P attached.

mama indicates that a state remains without any change, which in translation comes out as ‘still’, ‘without addition’, ‘unchanged’, etc. The implication usually is that normally you would expect some change, or something to be done about the state, but that has not happened yet.

Depending on the form of cop. attached to mama, it can be used as pred., adverbially or like a conjunctive P.

91 -masu [POLITE ENDING]

For polite forms of V, the polite ending -masu is attached to V-base, i.e. Group I iki-masu, kai-masu, etc.; Group II tabe-masu, mi-masu, etc.; Group III, shi-masu and ki-masu (see 232).

-masu forms belong to the same polite style as the desu-form of the cop. They are usually restricted to the spoken language, in ordinary conversation with strangers or those who are not intimate.

-masu itself inflects as follows (forms in () are archaic, but still occasionally encountered):

1 Non-past	-masu
2 Past	-mashita
3 Neg.	-masen
4 Neg-past	-masen-deshita
5 Imperative	-mase (-mashi)
6 Stem	—
7 Conjunctive	-mashite
8 Conditional	(-masureba)

Note – the N-mod. use of -masu (-masu N) and the conjunctive form -mashite are largely restricted to the formal language of letters and speech-making.

Apart from its use as the equivalent of the -nai form, -masen is also used to make some S endings polite: kamoshirenai → kamoshiremasen. Likewise, the neg. form of the neg. adj. nai (arimasen) is also applied to such S endings as ni chigai nai, which becomes ni chigai arimasen (see 118).

92 -mi [NOMINALIZING SUFFIX]

(See 34.)

93 mitai [SENTENCE ENDING]

The S ending mitai is used in informal language, in place of more formal yō, sō and rashii. It indicates appearance or simile (like other S endings of appearance and simile, mitai can be ‘reinforced’ by adv. like maru-de ‘just like’ (see 5.4.7).

mitai can be followed by a form of cop. (e.g. mitai da/desu), but in line with its colloquial nature often ends a sentence by itself.

The forms mitai is attached to are pln. forms (after AN and N, without cop.). mitai itself changes its endings like an AN.

mitai needs to be distinguished from mitai (the -tai form of -te miru that is attached to V-te (see 205, 189). Past tense forms can precede mitai ‘like having . . . -ed’, but can also follow it ‘was like’.

Being a more colloquial variant of yō [S ending], mitai can be replaced (in uses 93.1 and 93.4 only) by yō, but rashii can only be used in those examples in 93.1 where mitai can be interpreted as indicating hearsay (93.1 c and g), where sō [hearsay] and to iu could also be used (see 169, 181, 243, 218).

93.1 Sentence mitai (copula/na n da)

93.3 Clause mitai ni, predicate

93.4 Clause mitai na noun

94 mo [FOCUS PARTICLE]

Like wa, the focus P mo replaces the case P ga (but note mo ga after Q words, see 94.6) and usually o (but o mo is found), and is added to others. Like wa, mo can also be inserted between forms such as -te iru, adj.-ku nai and de aru.

Whereas wa is separating or exclusive in nature, mo is inclusive. In its basic use, it translates as 'too' or 'also', but when used with neg. it serves to emphasize what is negated (see also 43).

97.1.5.2 Noun/adjectival noun sono mono

97.1 LEXICAL NOUN

99 MORPHOLOGY

Japanese morphology is of the agglutative type, i.e. V and other inflected items often attach quite a number of separable elements. For instance, besides the pln. neg. ending -nai, the neg. form of V can also attach the causative/pass. (or hon.) endings -(sa)seru/(ra)reru. For this reason, it is useful to refer to some of the above forms as a 'base'. For instance, the 'V-neg. base' is the form of verb to which (among others) -nai attaches.

a …痛感させられたそうだ。

tsūkan-sa-se-rare-ta-sō da

apparently [he] was made to feel acutely . . .

This can be analysed as follows:

V: tsūkan-suru 'feel acutely', nai-base = tsūkan-sa

Causative ending -se

Passive ending -rare

Past ending -ta

Sentence ending -sō [hearsay]

100 na (yo) [FOLLOWS VERB-STEM]: FAMILIAR IMPERATIVE

Attached to V-stem, na (yo) is used for 'familiar' imp. These are used (mostly by males) towards younger members of family, between schoolfriends, etc. (see 69.3).

a なあオヤジ、早く隠居し【なよ】。

nā oyaji hayaku inkyo shi na yo

Come on, dad, retire soon, will you.

b 「孝行をしたい時にジジババなし」とは、言わないけど、そうなんだよ、早く気がつき【なよ】。

kōkō o shitai toki ni jiji baba nashi to wa iwanai kedo sō na n da yo hayaku ki ga tsuki na yo

There is no saying 'When you want to be filial, your parents are already gone', but that's the way it is, come on, wake up to it!

101 na (yo) [FOLLOWS VERB-ru]: NEGATIVE IMPERATIVE

Attached to V-ru, na indicates a neg. imp. 'don't'. Used by itself, it is quite rude, and is therefore limited to such situations as the army and other male bastions, and irate remarks to strangers. The combination na yo, on the other hand, gives the imp. a familiar or friendly ring. Note also the informal contraction V-ru na → V-nna (101.2 c).

103 -nagara [CONJUNCTIVE PARTICLE]

-nagara has two major uses, linking simultaneous actions ‘while’, and actions that are contrastive in nature ‘even though’. In the second use only -nagara can attach mo.

103.1 Clause 1 verb-stem-nagara clause 2

103.2 Clause 1 verb-stem/adjective-noun-modifying/adjectival noun/noun-nagara (mo) clause 2

103.3 Idiomatic uses

103.1 CLAUSE 1 VERB-STEM-nagara CLAUSE 2

-nagara indicates that two concurrent or simultaneous actions are performed by the same person (or subject) in the sense of ‘while’. V1 can be a durative or repeatable V, but not an instant V, i.e. in example a -nagara cannot be used.

- a % ×私たちはすわり【ながら】話した。

Other conjunctive P that translate as ‘while’ are aida, -tsutsu, and uchi (see 8).

The actions or events before and after -nagara are contrastive in meaning.

104 (-)nai [NEGATIVE ENDING/NEGATIVE ADJECTIVE]: FORMS

There is both a neg. adj. nai 'there isn't' (i.e. the opposite of aru or iru 'there is'), and a neg. ending -nai. Both inflect like adj. (see 3), but note that the neg. ending -nai has two conjunctive forms, -naide and -nakute, as shown in Table 15 (for differences in use see 112).

In colloquial language, especially the language of men from Eastern Japan, (-)nai is often pronounced as nē.

106 nanka [ADVERBIAL PARTICLE]

nanka is very similar in use to nante (see 107). Like nante, it places emphasis on the N or V etc. preceding it, with either a pos. or neg. implication ‘such a thing/place as’. Often there is no need to translate it, its force being clear from the context (see also 102).

The difference to nante is that nante attaches mainly to N that are subjects and objects (replacing the case P ga/o), whereas nanka can also attach to other cases. It can attach case P like de, ni, yori; can be sandwiched between ni (adverbial form of cop.) and narū; and between an adj. and its neg. ending. nanka is also used before pred. in the sense of ‘somehow’.

112.3.5 Noun + particle/clause nakute ne

In the form nakute, ne is used to complete a S in the explanatory sense of 'you see'. The second half of the sentence, which is ellipted or 'understood', implies something like komatte iru 'I'm in trouble' (see 110).

112.4 VERB-nai de

-nai de is the other neg. conjunctive form of the neg. V ending -nai. It has four uses, as shown below (compare with the uses of -nakute in 112.3).

112.4.1 In compound sentences

When joining two clauses in a compound S (which could easily be expressed in two separate S – see also 31.1) the meaning is ‘not . . . and’.

- a 「心配し【ないで】強気で行ってくれ」と進言したほどだ。 shinpai shinai de tsuyoki de itte kure to shingen shita hodo da

 (泣いてない = 泣いていない)
naite nai de heya no sōji demo shinasai marason demo shinasai

112.4.2 Modifying predicates

This expresses the idea of ‘without (doing)’.

 If you don’t decide, who will? (lit. “What are we going to do without your deciding?”)

112.4.3 Verb-potential-nai de iru

Literally “be in a state without being able to”, this combination means ‘be unable to’.

tokubetsu na rei de wa to imada ni odoroki o kakusenai de ita

- b 約束はまだ果たせ【ないでい】る。 yakusoku wa mada hatasenai de iru
 He is still unable to fulfil his promise.

112.4.4 Verb-nai de (kudasai/kure/hoshii/moraitai)

The pattern V-nai de can be followed by a request (kure/kudasai/hoshii/moraitai), although these forms are often ellipted.

kudasai/kure is used for neg. commands, but as kudasai/kure is often ellipted (or ‘understood’), the command frequently ends in -te (ne) or -te (nē). Without kudasai/kure, the command has a more informal and intimate ring ‘don’t’ (see 24, 110).

With hoshii and moraitai, the meaning is one of request (see 173, 189).

- a 息は止め【ないで】下さいねー。
iki wa tomenai de kudasai ne
 Please don’t hold your breath.

- e 決して腰くだけになら【ないで】もらいたい。
kesshite koshikudake ni naranai de moraitai

112.5 VERB-zu (ni): WRITTEN-STYLE NEGATIVE CONJUNCTIVE FORM

This is the written-style equivalent of -nai de (see 112.5.2). The difference between -zu and -zu ni is that -zu joins two clauses in the sense of ‘not . . . , but’ or ‘not . . . , and’ (see 112.5.1), whereas -zu ni modifies pred. in the sense of ‘without’ (see 112.5.2).

112.5.1 -zu, . . .

-zu joins two clauses in the sense of ‘not . . . , but . . .’ or ‘not . . . , and . . .’

- a 中華麺を油で揚げ【ず】、ゆでて袋詰めした。(= 揚げないで)

112.5.2 Verb-zu ni (= -nai de)

Here, V-*zu ni modifies a following pred. in the sense of ‘without (doing)’.

After time expressions, -zu ni can mean the equivalent of -nai uchi ni ‘before’ (see 229).

e 半年たた【ずに】先輩四人を飛び越し社長に。

hantoshi tatazu ni senpai yonin o tobikoshi shachō ni

Before six months had elapsed, he rose over the heads of four of his superiors to become company president.

112.5.3 Verb-zu ni iru (= -nai de iru)

This is the equivalent of -nai de iru ‘unable to’ (see 112.4.3).

112.5.4 Verb-zu-jimai da

This consists of the neg. ending -zu and the stem-form of the V shimau (voiced), a combination that means ‘end up’ (see 209). It indicates that one ends up not doing something one was going to do or wanted to do.

a 結局はおふろに【入れずじまい】。

kekkyoku wa o-furo ni hairezu-jimai

In the end I was unable to take a bath.

b ああ今日も外に【出ずじまい】だった。

113 NEGATIVE IMPERATIVES: nakare

Although ka na by itself doesn't usually ask for a reaction, with moraenai it does (example d). na can be lengthened to nā (example d) (see 114.7, 207.3.2).

These are a kind of rhetorical device similar to so-called tag questions (‘won’t it’, ‘will you’, etc.) in English. These are used after pos. (114.7.1) and negative (114.7.2 and 114.7.3) forms. Of the last two, the 114.7.3 forms have a more formal ring.

115 NEGATIVE QUESTIONS: HOW TO ANSWER

Neg. Q and how to answer them are an oft-discussed characteristic of the Japanese language (as in example a).

The rule given in textbooks, etc. is that in reply to a negative Q you answer in the neg. (introduced with hai = yes!) if the pred. matches the neg. ('yes, what you're suggesting is quite right, I didn't'), whereas if the pred. is pos. (and therefore disagrees with the neg. form used in the question, you begin your reply with no (iie) ('no, what you're suggesting is wrong, I did').

- a 日本語と英語の表現で「はい」と「いいえ」が逆になる場合がある。日本人に「映画を見ませんでしたか」と否定疑問文で聞いたら、答えは「いいえ、見ました」「はい、見ませんでした」。

nihongo to eigo no hyōgen de hai to iie ga gyaku ni naru baai ga aru. nihonjin ni eiga o mimasen deshita ka to hitei gimonbun de kiitara kotae wa iie mimashita hai mimasen deshita

In Japanese and English expressions, there are cases where ‘Yes’ and ‘No’ are reversed. If you ask a Japanese using a negative question ‘Didn’t you see the movie?’, the answer is ‘No, I did’, ‘Yes, I didn’t’.

- b 「(ミッキーには) 代役はいないんですか。同じ人がやっているわけじゃないんでしょ」という知事の実験的な質問にも、「いいえ、ミッキーは世界でただ一人です」ときっぱり。

However, reality doesn’t always conform to the textbook explanations (examples c and d).

- c 中部電力三重支店が六月、主要新聞六紙の三重県版に出した「原子力発電所って、爆発せーへんの!? はい、大丈夫です」との新聞広告について、…

‘I don’t use transport unless I have to go really far.’ ‘Don’t your people worry [about you], coming by yourself to an opening ceremony this crowded?’ ‘No, not a bit.’

Note rhetorical neg. Q such as no de wa (nai ka) etc. (see 114.7) are answered like pos. Q (see examples e and f) e …売上税、消費税に反対の立場だったのでは? 「はい、道義的に許せなかったんです」。

uriagezei shōhizei ni hantai no tachiba datta no de wa hai dōgiteki ni yurusenakatta n desu ‘... weren’t you opposed to sales tax and consumption tax?’

‘Yes, I couldn’t approve of it morally.’

f 「そんなに大事なものなら、生物にあまねく存在するのではないか」 「はい、微生物から人間まで、この酵素を持たない生物はありません」。

‘Yes, from micro-organisms to humans, there’s no organism that hasn’t got this enzyme.’

116 ni [CASE PARTICLE]

ni is a case P that indicates location, direction (see 51), goal, purpose and other indirect objects. In English translation, ni often translates as a preposition (‘to’, ‘for’, ‘over’, etc.).

Note 1 – the combination ni no N does not exist (see 40).

Note 2 – the adverbial form of the cop. also takes the form ni; when used after N, this ni is commonly seen in the combinations N ni suru and N ni naru (see 186).

130 ni yori [PHRASAL PARTICLE] ni yori is a formal and less common variant of ni yotte (see 132).

131 ni yoru to [PHRASE]

ni yoru to (less commonly ni yoreba) is added directly to N to indicate source of information 'according to'. Because such situations, by their nature, express hearsay, it is normal to complete the sentence with sō (examples a, d and e) or rashii (examples b and c); in English, this use of sō and rashii is not normally translated.

Synonymous is the combination de wa (for restrictions on its use in comparison to ni yoru to and ni yoreba, see 47).

Rather than sō or rashii, ordinary V forms are also used (example f), which is similar to English usage.

Note 1 – -tte is too informal to be used in source of information sentences.

Note 2 – ni yoru to and ni yotte are often confused by English speakers because they sound similar, and both are translated as ‘according to’. They are not interchangeable. ni yoru to expresses source of information, while ni yotte expresses basis of difference.

Note – ni yotte and ni yoru to are often confused by English speakers because they sound similar, and both are translated as 'according to'. They are not interchangeable. ni yoru to expresses source of information, while ni yotte expresses basis of difference.

Note that the main (or modified) N is always N2 (for various ways of expressing ‘Japanese N’, see 34.4).

133.1.10 Noun 1 no noun 2 (noun 1 = noun 2 (apposition))

N1 and N2 refer to the same entity; as the main N is N2, [N1 no] modifies it, giving further information as to its status, identity, etc. This device, which functions like an apposition, is used when the speaker or writer assumes that the listener or reader doesn't know this information (see 10).

135 no [NOMINALIZER]

As a nominalizer, no attaches to a S (ending in a N-mod. form, i.e. with AN, AN-na is used) and converts it into a grammatical N-equivalent (NP) (see 84). Compare the pairs of sentences (a, b and c, d) for examples of how this works.

- a % はじめて彼女に会った
hajimete kanojo ni atta
 I met her for the first time

135.3.1 Sentence no + verb of perception

Here, the object of the V of perception is made into a complement clause. It indicates that some happening or state is seen/heard/felt.

The P attached to the nominalized clause depends on the valency of the V: miru 'see', kiku 'hear', etc. take o; mieru 'be seen', kikoeru 'be heard' take ga; and ki ga tsuku 'notice' takes ni.

136 no [PRONOUN]

no can be a pron. that substitutes for a lexical N, referring to a thing or a person (or animal) in the sense of 'the one(s)'. In this use, no is modified like any other N by a N-mod. clause, in the same forms that are used to modify N. no itself attaches the same case or focus P that the lexical N would (see 136, 98).

138 n(o) da [SENTENCE ENDING]

Added to the end of a S as no da (or the colloquial contraction n da), this gives the S an explanatory force. In questions, it is typically used for eliciting / confirming information. However, the force of n(o) da is rarely captured in translation. (see 138).

The forms preceding n(o) da are N-mod. forms, except that N insert na before no, just like AN regularly do.

n(o) da itself changes in the same way as cop., i.e. pol. n(o) desu, past n(o) datta, pres. n(o) darō, etc. (see 35).

139.1 Clause 1 node, clause 2

139.2 Clause 1 node (. . .) in unfinished sentences

140 noni [FOLLOWS VERB/ADJECTIVE/ADJECTIVAL NOUN/NOUN]

This noni is a conjunctive P, which is distinct from noni [follows V-ru], which indicates purpose and is attached to V-ru only (see 141).

noni [contrast], on the other hand, can be attached to V/adj./AN/N in the forms that modify N.

As a conjunctive P, noni expresses a strong contrast between two clauses, S1 and S2 'despite' (see 56, 79, 103, 33).

noni shows emotional involvement on the part of the speaker, which can range from amazement to disappointment or anger.

140.1 Clause 1 noni, clause 2

140.1.1 Followed by a statement

140.1.2 Followed by a question

140.1.3 Joining contrasting noun-modifying clauses

140.2 Clause 1 noni (. . .) in unfinished sentences

140.2.1 With non-conditional clause 1

140.2.2 With conditional form + ii/yokatta noni

140.1 CLAUSE 1 noni, CLAUSE 2

noni joins S1 and S2 in a variety of ways, in the sense of 'even though', 'despite'.

140.1.1 Followed by a statement

Neither ga nor keredomo can be used in the same meaning.

a 冬間近だという【のに】、連日、暖かい日が続いている。

fuyu majika da to iu noni renjitsu atatakai hi ga tsuzuite iru

Even though winter is just around the corner, the warm weather continues.

140.1.3 Joining contrasting noun-modifying clauses

Two N-mod. clauses of a contrasting nature are joined by noni, forming a unit (indicated in []). Neither ga nor keredomo can be used in this way.

- a [婚約したわけでもない【のに】、あまり高価なものをもらう]のは心配です。 kon'yaku shita wake de mo nai noni amari kōka na mono o morau no wa shinpai desu

140.2 CLAUSE 1 noni (. . .) IN UNFINISHED SENTENCES

140.2.1 With non-conditional clause 1

This expresses regret or disappointment, although the expression of regret etc. is not mentioned here, but implied in the unfinished part. It is therefore often used when commenting on people who have died or committed suicide (examples a and b). The meaning of noni can be reinforced with nani mo, as in example c. Again, neither ga nor keredomo can be used in this way.

- a (A君は) 友達も多かった【のに】。

140.2.2 With conditional form + ii/yokatta noni

ii/yokatta noni can be attached to pos. and neg. conditional forms, such as -ba. This forms a hypothetical sentence 'would be . . . if', or, where referring to an established fact, 'shouldn't' (see 13.3). Neither ga nor keredomo can be used in this meaning.

- a 会社に託児所があれば【ばいいのに】。

 In that case [= already thinking of quitting] he shouldn't have taken the job.

141 noni [FOLLOWS VERB-ru]

noni has two uses: attaching adj./AN pred. like ii and benri, it indicates purpose 'good/convenient for doing', and attaching other pred. it means 'for', 'in order to' (see 135, 116.12).

141.1 Verb no ni ii/benri

141.2 With other predicates

141.1 VERB no ni ii/benri

This means 'good/convenient for doing'.

- a 缶は持ち運ぶ【のに】軽い方がいい。
kan wa mochihakobu no ni karui hō ga ii
 Cans are better light for carrying about.

142 NON-PAST VERB FORMS

Non-past forms of V/adj., AN/N + cop. can be used as pred., and to attach various S endings.

Unlike adj. and AN + cop. sentences, which have adjectival meaning as pred., and N + cop., which are equational in meaning, V-non-past can express a variety of meanings as pred. (see 178.1).

V-non-past can be used by itself as pred. to complete a sentence in the present, habitual present, future, intention, or narrative present.

- 142.1 Present
 - 142.1.1 Present
 - 142.1.2 Habitual present
 - 142.2 Future
 - 142.2.1 Future
 - 142.2.2 Intention
 - 142.3 Narrative present

142.1 PRESENT

- a 悔しくて涙が【出る】。
kuyashikute namida ga deru
I'm so annoyed that I feel like crying (lit. "tears come to my eyes").
- b つらい手術が【始まる】。
tsurai shujutsu ga hajimaru.
A painful operation begins.

142.1.2 Habitual present

- a 今でも日曜日は近所に住む父といっしょに【過ごす】。
ima demo nichiyōbi wa kinjo ni sumu chichi to issho ni sugosu
Even now, he spends Sundays with his father, who lives nearby.

142.2 FUTURE

142.2.1 Future

- a 来年二月末までに会社を【清算する】。
rainen nigatsu-matsu made ni kaisha o seisan suru
They will liquidate the company by the end of next February.

142.2.2 Intention

- a 絶対に日本には帰ら【ない】。
zettai ni nihon ni wa kaeranai
No matter what, [I] won't go back to Japan.

142.3 NARRATIVE PRESENT

Non-past forms are often used at key points in a narrative to make them more immediate or dramatic. In English, these are often translated into the past tense.

- a 話しているうちに忘れかけていた関西弁がポンポン【飛び出してくる】。 不思議ですね。 hanashite iru uchi ni wasurekakete ita kansaiben ga ponpon tobidashite kuru. fushigi desu ne
As I'm talking, the Kansai dialect that I'd almost forgotten pops out, one word after another. Strange, isn't it?
- b 30秒とたたないうちに電話が【かかってくる】。
sanjūbyō to tatanai uchi ni denwa ga kakatte kuru
Before 30 seconds had passed, the phone rang.

143 NOUN MODIFICATION AND RELATIVE CLAUSES

Formally, there is no distinction between N modification by V and adj./AN, and relative clauses. In both cases, a V/adj./AN, or a clause ending in V/adj./AN in normal word order (given in []) is simply placed before a following N, i.e. unlike in English there are no relative pron. or changes in word order. V/adj./AN can also attach S endings.

As there are no relative pron. (or any other indication of the case relation between the modifying section and the N it modifies), it is sometimes only from the context (or knowledge of the world) that it can be determined.

In the following example, tegami ga todoita aru dokusha could also mean 'A certain reader, who received a letter recently', but in the context of a newspaper column, the interpretation below is the correct one:

- a [最近手紙が届いた] ある読者は「…」と喝破している。 (aru N = a certain N)

saikin tegami ga todoita aru dokusha wa . . . to kappā shite iru

A certain reader, from whom I received a letter recently, claims . . .

There is also no formal distinction between restrictive and non-restrictive relative clauses (in English, non-restrictive relative clauses are set off by comma intonation, and written between commas).

For N modification by N, num., counters, adv. and conjunctive forms, see 133, 147, 36, 4, 31.

When the N-mod. clause ends in -ta, it has a different meaning depending on whether -ta indicates a state, or completion of action. In 143.1 a, -ta indicates completion, but in 143.1 b it indicates a state, i.e. describes what sort of burglars they are. In a finite (i.e. non-N-mod.) sentence this would be expressed with -te iru (takuhaibin o yosootte iru 'they are dressed as a delivery service') (see 187.3, 1.7).

Note also that modified N include time N such as toki (often translating as 'when', see 222).

A N-mod. clause or relative clause cannot contain the same N as the one it modifies; compare the following, based on 143.1 e below.

- b % 主婦が怖くなった。
shufu ga kowaku natta
 The housewife got frightened.
- c × [主婦が怖くなった] 主婦
shufu ga kowaku natta shufu
- d 怖くなった主婦
kowaku natta shufu
 The housewife, who got frightened.

143.2 Pseudo-relative clauses

143.3 Noun modification/relative clauses in question form

143.1 NOUN MODIFICATION/RELATIVE CLAUSES

Note example i, where the N josei is modified by two modifying sections, heya kara deyō to shinakatta and karui chihōshō no.

tōkyō kara kita iguchi desu
 I'm Iguchi, [who has come] from Tokyo.

A woman with slight dementia, who had made no attempt to come out of her room, now appeared in the refectory to eat.

143.2 PSEUDO-RELATIVE CLAUSES

Pseudo-relative clauses are sentences that are constructed like relative clauses, but where the modified (or head) N is a relational N, time N or N of amount (see 161.1.2.2).

- a だから今度は、[そうじゃなくなる] 始まりではないでしょうか。

da kara kondo wa sō ja naku naru hajimari de wa nai deshō ka

So, I wonder if this mightn't be the start of things no longer being the way they were [= citizens being expected to be passive].

143.3 NOUN MODIFICATION/RELATIVE CLAUSES IN QUESTION FORM

In written language only, it is possible to modify a N/NP by a relative clause etc. that ends with a question mark, in the sense of 'which may be N'.

- a [官僚主義が生んだ?] 「現代版ちょんまげ」

kanryō shugi ga unda gendai-ban chonmage

[The male company worker's uniform hairstyle is a] 'Present-day topknot', which may have been produced by the bureaucratic system.

144 NOUNS

N are basically uninflected for num. (but see 145, 58, 188, 168, 49) or gender. Their grammatical function is indicated by case P. In Japanese writing, most N are written in kanji (see 235).

144.1 TYPES OF NOUN

By meaning and function, we can distinguish a number of (sometimes overlapping) N subgroups.

144.1.1 Animate/inanimate nouns

This is a distinction between persons and animals on the one hand, and plants and things on the other. In existential S, the V iru and aru (with some exceptions) distinguish the two types (see 9).

144.1.2 Proper nouns

These are nouns that indicate the name of a person or place. These can be subdivided into person N and place N.

144.1.2.1 Person nouns

These are N indicative of a person.

144.1.2.2 Place nouns

These indicate a place.

144.1.3 Relational nouns

These are N that indicate a position that is relative in time or space (see 171).

144.1.4 Time nouns

These indicate a time (see 5.3).

144.1.5 Verbal nouns

VN indicate an action, and can attach the V suru 'do', and in this form can be used like V (see 234).

144.2 NOUN PHRASES (OR 'ARGUMENTS')

A V (or other pred.) forms a S with one or more obligatory N + P units (NP), the most important of which are subject (N ga), direct object (N o), and indirect object (N ni) (see 178.1, 231).

144.3 NOUN MODIFICATION

144.3.1 Nouns modifying other nouns

N can modify other N by means of no [case P], or apposition (see 133, 143, 10).

144.3.2 Nouns being modified

N can in turn be modified by V, adj., AN and N, and some adv. of time and frequency (see 5.3, 143).

N can also be modified by a number of adjectival words and expressions (see 1).

144.4 NOUN SENTENCES

N can attach cop. to act as pred., forming a N S (see 178.1.6).

145 NOUN REDUPLICATION

A few N, such as 人 hito (人々 hitobito 'people'), 国 kuni (国々 kuniguni 'countries'), 山 yama (山々 yamayama 'mountains'), 店 mise (店々 misemise 'establishments') can indicate a kind of plural (indicating an unspecified amount only, i.e. these cannot be counted) by reduplication, but this is limited to a very small number of N, most of which are given here. Note that the repeat kanji 々 is used in writing to indicate that the second kanji in the same word is repeated, i.e. is not applied where the same kanji appears in a compound as the first element of another word. Therefore minshushugi is written 民主主義, not 民主々義, because minshushugi ‘democracy’ is a compound consisting of minshu ‘people governing’ and shugi ‘principle’ or ‘-ism’) (see 144, 172).

Reduplication is not limited to N only; it includes 我々 wareware ‘we’, 次々に tsugitsugi ni ‘one after another’, etc.

「[家々、木々、山々]」と題した作品がある。

ieie, kigi, yamayama to daishita sakuhin ga aru

There is a work entitled ‘Houses, Trees, Mountains’.

146 NUMBER AND COUNTER COMBINATIONS

These are given in Table 18, repeated here for convenience (see also 147, 36).

147 NUMBERS

Japanese uses two sets of num., NJ and SJ, although they are not usually used as ‘pure’ sets (see 154).

Note – num. and num.–C combinations (see 36) behave like N in that they can be modified by N-mod. demonstrative words (example a).

- a 戦後は遊郭も消滅、店々は旅館などに姿を変えていく。その夜、泊まった「旅館みよし」も【そんな】【一つ】。

sengo wa yūkaku mo shōmetsu misemise wa ryokan nado ni sugata o kaete iku. sono yoru tomatta ryokan miyoshi mo sonna hitotsu

After the war, the red-light district ceased to exist, and the establishments changed into inns. The Miyoshi Inn, where we stayed that night, is one of these.

wa (birds)		sanba	yonwa						juppa jippa
wari (10 ⁶ ÷ unit)		yonwari	yonwari				kyūwari	kyūwari

Notes * Only used in the meaning of the first of the month.

The above chart lists some common counters and the way they combine with numerals. Only those combinations which involve sound change, irregular formation, or involve only one of two regular ways of formation are listed (the remainder is predictable, consisting of the numeral (ichi, ni, etc.) given at the top plus the form of the counter given in the left-hand column). Note, however, that the pronunciation, especially of the syllabic n, varies according to its phonetic environment; for instance, before b and m, it is pronounced as m. Combinations with nan- 'how many' are the same as those with san 'three'.

With counters expressing time (fun, nen, etc.), the suffix -kan can be added (optionally in the case of byō, fun, nen, nichi and shū) to indicate duration of time. For instance, goji on its own means 'five o'clock', whereas gojikan means 'five hours'. Note, however, that whereas the months of the year (January–December) are counted ichigatsu, nigatsu, etc., 'one month' is ikkagetsu, to which -kan can be added. The days of the month from the 11th onwards are as follows, in so far as they are irregular:

14th	jūyokka	20th	hatsuka
19th	jūkunichi	24th	nijūyokka

147.1 COUNTING THINGS

When counting things, the combination num. + C is usual, where the SJ and NJ numbers below (plus some variations) are used to form num.-C combinations (see Table 18).

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10
SJ:	ichi	ni	san	shi	go	roku	shichi	hachi	kyū/ku	jū
NJ:	hito-	futa-	mit-	yo(t)-	itsu-	mut-	nana	yat-	kokono-	tō

Numbers for 10 and above are basically SJ, except for tō, which can be used by itself to count things:

10 ...	jū, jūichi, ni, san, shi (yon), go ...
20 ...	nijūichi, ...
30 ...	sanjū, ...
40 ...	yonjū (shijū), ...
50 ...	gojū, ...
60 ...	rokJū, ...
70 ...	nanajū, ...
...
100 ...	hyaku, nihyaku, sanbyaku, yonhyaku, ... roppyaku, ... happyaku ...
1000 ...	issen, nisen, sanzen ...
10000 ...	ichiman, niman, sanman ...
100000	jūman, nijūman ...
1000000	hyakuman, nihyakuman ...
10000000	issenman, nisenman ...
100000000	ichioku, nioku ...

147.1.1 Counting things approximately

147.1.1.1 Adjoining numbers

This can be done by using two adjoining numbers (in writing, these usually have a comma (or occasionally a hyphen) between them, but are pronounced as one unit). They are mostly used with C, excepting nisan, which is also used in the form of nisan no N in the sense of 'several' (see 36).

a ...二、三の疑問点を提示したい。

nisan no gimon-ten o teiji shitai

... I wish to raise a couple of queries.

147.1.1.2 By prefixes, adverbs or adverbial particles

The SJ prefix sū- 'several' and the adv. yaku 'approximately', precede the num. (but see below for how sū- can be inserted between num. and C), whereas the adverbial P gurai/kurai and hodo follow num. (+ C) (see 61.1.1, 64.1).

- a 「一人または【数】人」とあれば、二人でもいいわけだが、最大値は分からない。

hitori mata wa sūnin to areba, futari de mo ii wake da ga, saidai-chi wa wakaranai

If it [= the advert] states 'one or several people', then two people are OK, but one doesn't know the maximum figure.

Note how 数sū- can be inserted between num. (units of ten and above) and C in the sense of 'unit-odd'.

- b 2—3年のうちに20【数】巻をそろえる方針だ。

nisan-nen no uchi ni nijūsū-kan o soroeru hōshin da

Their aim is to complete the set of all 20-odd volumes in two or three years.

- c 花は二十日間【くらい】咲く。

hana wa hatsuka-kan kurai saku

The flowers bloom for about 20 days.

- d 免許は三十万円【ほど】で取得できる。

menkyo wa sanjūman-en hodo de shutoku dekiru

A licence can be obtained for about three hundred thousand yen.

147.1.2 Amounts involving nan-/iku- 'how much/how many' + ka/mo/demo

The Q words (+ C) nan-/iku- combine with the P ka (indefinite amount 'a lot', 'lots', etc.), mo (+ neg. pred., small amount 'no . . .', 'not many', etc.) and demo (/V-te mo 'any') (see 167, Table 23, 206.5).

- a 電気を止められたことも【何度も】ある。

denki o tomerareta koto mo nan-do mo aru

I've had the electricity cut off many times.

- b 【何歳】になって【も】ダイビングを続けていくつもりである。

nan-sai ni natte mo daibingu o tsuzukete iku tsumori de iru

He intends to continue diving regardless of age.

147.2 COUNTING IN SEQUENCE

147.2.1 Counting aloud

For counting out aloud, the SJ set is the most common. Note the common NJ alternatives for the near-homophones (in rapid speech at any rate) shi and shichi.

1 ichi, 2 ni, 3 san, 4 shi (yon), 5 go, 6 roku, 7 shichi (nana), 8 hachi, 9 kyū/ku, 10 jū.

147.2.2 Phone and account numbers

Phone numbers are read more or less like counting out aloud, but there are some specific rules.

rei rather than zero is used; yon and nana are obligatory instead of shi and shichi; the single-syllable ni and go are obligatorily lengthened to nī and gō, and the longer variant kyū is obligatory rather than ku.

The (fictional) Tokyo phone numbers below, for instance, are normally read as follows (note the optional/more formal use of -kyoku ‘exchange [number]’ and -ban ‘[customer] number’):

(03) 123-4567: (tōkyō) reisan ichinīsan(-kyoku) (no) yongōrokunana(-ban)

(03) 987-6543: (tōkyō) reisan kyūhachinana(-kyoku) (no) rokugōyonsan(-ban)

Phone numbers for businesses etc. are often given with kana attached that combine imaginative ‘readings’ of the number for mnemonic and/or advertising purposes. Such ‘readings’ use not only NJ and SJ readings (with additional kana often thrown in), but ‘English’ pronunciation of the numbers too.

6 7 9 -3 6 2 ムリナク スリムニ

murinaku surimu ni

‘getting slim without effort’

To explain: mu (NJ 6 + ri thrown in), na (NJ 7), ku (SJ 9) suri

(‘English’ ‘three’) mu (NJ 6), ni (SJ 2)

Or, the number of a hair-transplant clinic:

10 -2 3 2 3
い〜わ ふさふさ

ii wa fusafusa

That’s nice! tufty

Here we have i (SJ i(chi) lengthened to ii ‘nice’ (〜indicates a long sound), wa for 0 (wa is a NJ word for ‘circle’, used here for wa [fin. P], and fu for NJ 2, sa for SJ 3).

147.3 SUPERSTITION AND NUMBERS

Many hotels in Japan lack a 13th storey, which is a Western import. More traditionally, because of the homophony between 四 shi (‘four’/‘death’) and 九 ku (‘nine’/‘suffering’), hospitals have no wards 4 and 9, and hotels, etc. usually lack a fourth storey.

148 o [CASE PARTICLE]

The basic function of o is marking the object (see 155.2), but there are also some uses where it is interchangeable with ga (148.2 and 148.3), and uses with V of Motion (148.4 and 148.5).

148.1 Marking the object148.1.1 In complete sentences*148.1.2 With ellipted o*148.1.3 With ellipted predicate*148.2 In potential sentences*148.3 In desiderative sentences*148.4 Marking the object of a verb of motion*148.5 Marking departure point of a verb of motion*148.1 MARKING THE OBJECT

The basic function of the case P o is to mark the object of V, and certain AN. Note that AN like suki da/kirai da, which usually require [NP ga] can take [NP o] instead (see 55.11).

148.1.1 In complete sentences a 腕時計【を】見せてくれ。

udedokei o misete kure

Show me [some] wristwatches.

b ドラフトで三人の投手【を】獲得した。

dorafuto de san-nin no tōshu o kakutoku shita

In the draft they acquired three pitchers.

c 音楽の偉大さ【を】感じた。

ongaku no idaisa o kanjita

I felt the power of music.

d きっかけは「人【を】好きになって、恋をしたから」。

kikkake wa hito o suki ni natte koi o shita kara

It all began 'because I grew fond of someone, and fell in love'.

148.1.2 With ellipted o

Colloquially, o can be ellipted (omitted). In writing, sometimes a comma is used to indicate this, but in speech there is usually no pause.

- a 何【、】話しましょうか……。
nani hanashimashō ka
What shall I talk about? . . .
- b あなた、ドレス【】買ってもいい？
anata doresu katte mo ii
Darling, is it OK if I buy a dress?

148.1.3 With ellipted predicate

With ellipted (omitted) pred., the implication is one of request or wish for realization.

- a 国際化と「アメリカ化」との差別化【を】。
kokusai-ka to amerika-ka to no sabetsu-ka o
A distinction [should be] made between internationalization and ‘Americanization’.
- b 教師にこそ、もっと自由【を】と言いたい。
kyōshi ni koso, motto jiyū o to iitai Especially to the teachers I’d like to say that they should give themselves more freedom.

148.2 IN POTENTIAL SENTENCES

The object of V-pot. can be marked with o instead of the more usual ga (see 55.4, 161).

- a なぜ調和【を】保てるのか。
naze chōwa o tamoteru no ka
Why can they [= body cells] maintain the balance?

148.3 IN DESIDERATIVE SENTENCES

The object of a desiderative S can be marked with o instead of the more common ga (see 55.5, 46, 189, 68).

In the following examples, ga could be used instead of o in example a without any change in meaning, but not in b–e, where the V is one of ‘wishing’, which is more strongly transitive in nature.

- a ピアノ【を】習いたい。
piano o naraitai
I want to learn the piano.
- b …この地の利【を】生かさない
kono chi no ri o ikashitai
… we want to make the best use of the benefits of the area.

- c テレビでも研究が紹介され、「出演者の一人がこのシステム【を】ほしいと話していた」。

terebi de mo kenkyū ga shōkai sare shutsuen-sha no hitori ga kono shisutemu o hoshii to hanashite ita

The research was taken up on TV too, and ‘one of the people on the programme said he wanted this system’.

- d 平和が続くこと【を】祈りたい。

heiwa ga tsuzuku koto o inoritai

I hope that the peace will last.

- e 意欲的な試みが続くこと【を】期待したい。

iyoku-teki na kokoromi ga tsuzuku koto o kitai shitai

I’d like to hope that this enterprising experiment will continue.

148.4 MARKING THE OBJECT OF A VERB OF MOTION

o here indicates by which route the action of the V takes place. In English, this often translates as a preposition ‘through’, ‘across’, ‘along’, etc.

Compare this to de [case P], which indicates the place where the action happens without any implication that it involves passing through or following a route (see 40.1.1).

- a 夜道【を】歩くのは不安だが、…

yomichi o aruku no wa fuan da ga

Walking the street at night makes me feel uneasy, but . . .

- b 一日平均七百台の車がここ【を】通る見込み。

ichinichi heikin nanahyaku-dai no kuruma ga koko o tōru mikomi

It is expected that an average 700 cars per day will pass through here.

148.5 MARKING DEPARTURE POINT OF A VERB OF MOTION

o can also mark the departure point (‘out of’, ‘from’) of the action of a V of motion (see 74.4, 149).

- a 部長に頭を下げて、部屋【を】出た。

buchō ni atama o sagete heya o data

I bowed to the department head and left the room.

- b 起きてから家【を】出るまでの所要時間は女性の方が長い。

okite kara ie o deru made no shoyō jikan wa josei no hō ga nagai

As for the time [required] from getting up to leaving the house, women take longer.

149 o AND kara [CASE PARTICLES] WITH VERBS OF MOTION: COMPARISON

With o, the implication is ‘to leave/alight from’, whereas kara implies motion away from/out of, often by making an effort.

While many N can attach either o or kara, very few can attach only one of the two. An example of an exclusively o-marked NP is kaidan o oriru ‘walk/come down the stairs’; an exclusively kara-marked NP is taijūkei kara oriru ‘step off the scales’.

- a しばらく部屋【から】出てこなかった。
shibaraku heya kara dete konakatta
 He didn’t come out of the room for some time.
- b やがて海岸も姿を変え、漁師も一人二人と船【を】降りていった。

o tōshite is a combination of the case P o and the conjunctive form of the V tōsu 'let or make pass through'; it indicates the medium (object, activity, organization) 'through' which an action or state takes place.

After an expression of time (examples e and f), the meaning is 'throughout'.

153 ONOMATOPE (SOUND SYMBOLISM)

Onomatopoe refers to words whose pronunciation (sound) suggests the nature of their action or state (in English, apart from animal such sounds as 'bow-wow', sound symbolism includes, for example, words beginning with 'sl-' suggesting something unpleasant, as in 'slime', 'slink', 'slither', 'slovenly', 'slug').

In Japanese, a number of typical patterns can be distinguished; the most common ones are given in the following list.

- (C1-)V-C2-V × 2* kasa-kasa 'rustle', gata-gata 'clatter' goro-goro (sound of thunder/stomach/purring cat etc.) pika-pika (glitter of light), kucha-kucha 'wrinkled', yobo-yobo 'tottering', zuki-zuki 'throbbing (with pain)', atsu-atsu 'piping hot', ira-ira 'jittery'
- (C-)Vn-to chan-to 'properly', un-to 'lots'
- (C-)Vt-to sat-to 'suddenly', jit-to 'still', at-to 'instantly'
- (C-)V-CC-ri yukkuri 'slowly', shikkari 'firm', uttori 'vacantly'
- C'-Vn-C'-V-ri nonbiri 'leisurely', bon'yari 'vacant', hin'yari 'chilly'

Note * In this column, C stands for consonant and V for vowel; C1 and C2 being first and second consonant, respectively. V n indicates vowel followed by n, and so on.

Japanese onomatopoeia can act grammatically as outlined in the following sections.

- 153.1 As adverbs
- 153.2 As noun-modifiers
- 153.3 As nouns
- 153.4 As predicates

153.1 AS ADVERBS

Depending on the item, onomatopoeia can be used as adv. without P, or with the addition of to [adverbial P] or ni (the adverbial form of cop.).

Those ending in to already have to 'built in' (see 4.4).

- a 成績表は【ちゃんと】提出していただきます。
seiseki-hyō wa chanto teishutsu shite itadakimasu
 We get them to submit their transcripts properly.

153.2 AS NOUN-MODIFIERS

This requires the addition of no, na, or to shita (see 137, 1.7.2).

- a 大学は…工学科を出た。【ばりばりの】技術者でもあった。 daigaku wa . . . kōgakka wo deta. baribari no gijutsusha de mo atta
 At university, he graduated from the . . . engineering department. He was also a first-rate technician.

153.3 AS NOUNS

Unusually, some onomatopoeia can be used as N, with case P attached, in cases where the onomatopoeia is understood to indicate some object (in example a, iraira stands for something like iraira no kimochi 'feeling of being irate', and in example b, atsuatsu stands for something like atsuatsu no tabemono 'a dish that is piping hot'.

- a 【いらいら】が高じて虐待に走るケースすら出ている。
iraira ga kōjite gyakutai ni hashiru kēsu sura dete iru
 There are even cases emerging in which irritation is aggravated and turns into abuse.
- b 【アツアツ】を頂く。
atsuatsu o itadaku
 I dig into the piping hot [dish]

153.4 AS PREDICATES

This requires the addition of cop., or forms of suru/shite iru.

- a 電話の声の調子も【しっかり】していた。

denwa no koe no chōshi mo shikkari shite ita

The tone of his voice on the phone was steady, too.

154 ORDINAL NUMBERS

Ordinal num. are formed by adding the suffix -me (め・目) to the combinations num. + C, including the 'default' C tsu-(つ) (see 147, 36).

一つ目	hitotsu-me	'the first'
二人目	futari-me	'the second person'
三人目	sannin-me	'the third person'
二台目	nidai-me	'the second (car, TV, etc.)'
三日目	mikka-me	'the third day'
五枚目	gomai-me	'the fifth (page, photo, etc.)'
十代目	jūdai-me	'the tenth (generation)'
一回目	ikkai-me	'the first time'

To SJ num. + C combinations, the prefix dai- (第) can also be attached, which gives it a more formal ring that cannot be captured in translation:

第一回目 dai-ikkai-me 'the first time'

To SJ numbers without C the suf. -ban is attached, often in combination with the prefix dai- (第), again for a more formal/written-style ring. dai-ichi forms many other SJ and WJ nouns by attaching noun elements such as -i 位 (第一位 'first rank'), -bu (部) (第一部 'the first part'), -shū (週) (第一週 'the first week'), dankai (段階) (第一段階 'the first stage'), raundo (ラウンド) (第一ラウンド 'the first round'), etc.

第一	dai-ichi	'the first'
第一番	dai-ichi-ban	'the first', 'No. 1'
一番	ichi-ban	'the first'
一番目	ichi-ban-me	'the first one'
第一番目	dai-ichi-ban-me	'the first one'

To begin, why do they use riberaru [liberal] in katakana English?

One can imagine three reasons. Firstly, the image is somehow good.

Secondly, the Japanese translation jiyūshugi was not acceptable to the Social Party, which for a long time was unable to get rid of its association with Marxism. . . . Thirdly, . . .

Dai-ichi is also used to introduce a statement that qualifies (often with a neg. form) what has been said before ‘to begin with’, ‘for a start’.

For the first TV they [= the customers] buy a well-known brand, but from the second one onwards Korean- or Taiwanese-made ones become acceptable.

155 PARTICLES

Particles indicate grammatical relations between parts of a sentence, but in case of fin. P and Q P also the way the speaker appeals to the listener. They can be divided into the following subgroups

- 155.1 Adverbial particles
 - 155.2 Case particles
 - 155.3 Conjoining particles
 - 155.4 Conjunctive particles and forms
 - 155.5 Final particles
 - 155.6 Focus particles
 - 155.7 Phrasal particles
 - 155.8 Question particles
 - 155.9 Quotation particles

155.1 ADVERBIAL PARTICLES

The basic function of adverbial P is to indicate that the clause or word they are attached to modifies pred., in various shades of meaning. Some adverbial P can also be used sentence-finally (with cop. attached) and to modify N. They include the following: bakari (see 17), dake (37) demo (see 42), gurai/kurai (see 61), hodo (see 64), koso (see 82), nado (see 102), nanka (see 106), nante (see 107), shika (see 180), to (see 213).

155.2 CASE PARTICLES

Case P are used to mark the relationship between a pred. and NP that are required by its valency, plus some other, more peripheral relations ('where', 'where to' 'from where', 'who with', etc.). They include the following: de (see 40), e (see 51), ga (see 55), kara (see 74), made (see 85), made-ni (see 87), ni (see 116), no (see 133), o (see 148), to (see 214), yori (see 251) (see also 231).

155.3 CONJOINING PARTICLES

As their name indicates, the function of conjoining P is to link or enumerate items (N) as members of a set. Besides the conjoining P (see 71, 215, 220, 241; see also 116.18), the idea of 'and' can also be expressed (in writing) by a comma. Note that in speech, no comma intonation is normally used (see 29).

155.4 CONJUNCTIVE PARTICLES AND FORMS

Conjunctive particles and forms join two clauses in a variety of meanings, such as contrast 'but', reason 'because', etc. (see 31, 32, 6, 13, 56, 79, 90.3, 103, 108, 139, 140, 178.5, 191, 206, 216, 221, 225, 229).

155.5 FINAL PARTICLES

Final P are also sometimes called ‘interactional’ because they indicate that the speaker is appealing to the listener in various ways. In English, this is done by such means as intonation. Final P include the following: koto, mono/mon, ne/nē/nā, na (yo) (after V-stem), na (yo) (after V-ru), no, sa, wa, yo, ze, zo.

155.6 FOCUS PARTICLES

The focus P wa focuses on what follows, rather than the N(+ P) to which it is attached (see 236).

The remaining focus P focus on, or emphasize, the N(+ P) they attach to. They include the following: mo (see 94), made (see 86), sae (see 176), sura (see 185).

155.7 PHRASAL PARTICLES

Phrasal P are so called because they often correspond in meaning to the case P they contain, such as ni and o, but they are like a V phrase in form. They correspond to prepositions in English and include the following: ni atatte, ni hanshite, ni kakete, ni kanshite, ni kawatte, ni oite, ni saishite, ni taishite, ni totte, ni tsuite, ni tsuki, ni yotte, o megutte, o motte, o tōshite (see also 159).

155.8 QUESTION PARTICLES

The Q P ka and kke are used to indicate a formal Q. However, there are other ways of indicating a Q, too (see 164, 114).

155.9 QUOTATION PARTICLES

As their name indicates, quotation P and equivalents (see 217, 228.1) are used to indicate a direct or indirect quotation (see 178.4.2).

156 PASSIVE SENTENCES

Pass. S can be explained as S conversions from active S, although often only one of the two (the active or the pass. sentence) is idiomatic (see also 160.2).

Note the change in valency in the pair below, based on 156.1a.

a % 試験官が／は私を 笑った。
shikenkan ga/wa watashi o waratta
 The invigilator laughed at me

ACTIVE

- b 私が／は 試験官に 笑われた。 PASSIVE watashi ga/wa shikenkan ni warawareta
 I was laughed at by the invigilator.

In the S X ga/wa Y ni/kara/ni yotte V-pass., Y is the agent (i.e. the person carrying out the action of V) and X is the person or thing influenced by the action. A pass. (rather than an active) S is used when the interest focuses on what happens to X (rather than what Y does). The V can be V-tr., V-intr. or V-caus.

Note that the agent (and/or other NP) is frequently omitted.

Passive V formation is as shown below.

Group I V attach -reru to neg.-base

tora-nai → tora-reru

tanoma-nai → tanoma-reru

Group II V attach -rareru to neg.-base

tabe-nai → tabe-rareru

mi-nai → mi-rareru

However, there is also a Group II alternative form that is increasingly being used, especially by the younger generations. Please note, though, that this formation cannot be applied to all Group II V.

Group II V (alternative form) attach -reru to V-stem

tabe-nai → tabe-reru

mi-nai → mi-reru

Group III V:

suru → sareru

kuru → korareru

Note that the resulting forms (ending in -(ra)reru) attach other endings (such as past/perfective -ta, or polite -masu, etc.) just like any other Group II Verb:

-(ra)re-ru → -(ra)re-ta

-(ra)re-ru → -(ra)re-masu

Passive sentence types are shown below. Uses 156.1 to 156.4 concern how persons, and 156.5 how things are affected by the action of V-pass.

In 156.6, V-pass. is used in place of V-intr., and 156.7 shows the so-called 'spontaneous' form. In 156.8, pass. forms are used, not in pass. meaning, but as hon (see 65).

- 156.1 X ga Y (person) ni/kara verb-transitive-passive

 156.8 X wa/ga verb-passive (X = person): passive honorific

156.1 X ga Y (PERSON) ni/kara VERB-TRANSITIVE-PASSIVE

(cf., active: Y ga X o V-tr.-active)

Note that both ni and kara can mark the agent.

156.3 PASSIVES WITH AN OBJECT PRESENT OR IMPLIED

156.3.1 X ga Y ni Z o verb-transitive-passive: indirect passive

(cf., active: Y ga X no Z o verb-transitive-active)

Here, Z (some entity belonging to X, such as a thing, part of body, family member, etc., which is expressed by Z-no in the active counterpart) is affected by the action of Y, and as a result, X is affected indirectly. Therefore this type of pass. is often called indirect pass. or suffering pass. The implication is usually one of adversity, i.e. something unfortunate happening to X.

 From an early age, she was attracted to the elegant image of horseriding.
- c その言葉にはかつてない切実さが感じら【れ】る。
sono kotoba ni wa katsute nai setsujitsu-sa ga kanjirareru
 In his words one feels an urgency that wasn't there before.

156.8 X wa/ga VERB-PASSIVE (X = PERSON): PASSIVE HONORIFIC

Pass. hon. are less polite than other hon. forms, but are popular with the younger generation and in professional situations (see 65.1.3).

- a 負傷さ【れ】た方々には心からのお見舞いを申しあげたい。 fushō saretā katagata ni wa kokoro kara no o-mimai o mōshi-agetai
 I wish to express my heartfelt sympathy to those who got injured.
- b 自然を壊すなど、反対派の方は主張さ【れ】ているようです。
shizen o kowasu na to hantaiha no kata wa shuchō sarete iru yō desu
 Those against [the project] appear to advocate that nature should not be destroyed.

157 PEJORATIVE VERBS

Just as there are verbs that show respect to the subject of the action, Japanese also has pejorative verbs that express disrespect (see 65 and also 60.4).

The basic construction is V-stem-yagaru, a Group I verb. When used to someone's face, it often results in a fight, which is why most of the time it is used when talking to oneself. It is often encountered in Japanese comics (manga), from which the examples below are taken.

a へえーあのやろうけっこうしぶとくなり【やがっ】たな。

hē ano yarō kekkō shibutoku nari-yagatta na

Well, that guy's got quite tough!

b ち…畜生あとでおぼえて【やがれ】。

chi . . . chikushō ato de oboete yagare

D . . . damn, you just remember for later!

158 PERSONAL PRONOUNS AND SUFFIXES

Japanese personal pron. are more like N than pron. in that they can be modified by demonstrative pron. (for an example, see 45.2.1).

Japanese personal pron. do not usually distinguish number (singular/plural) in the first and second person, although the suff. -gata (formal) and -domo, -ra and -tachi can optionally be used for plural (see 144, also 170). Table 19 gives the more common personal pron. and suff.

As is evident from Table 19, there are some differences in use depending on the sex of the speaker, and more pronounced differences according to the formality of the relationship with the addressee (and to some degree the speech situation). Females generally use more formal forms than men.

Japanese pron. are intimately tied up with hierarchy and levels of respect. For this reason, the use of personal pron. is generally avoided in formal relationships and situations; instead name (family name + suf. of personal address) is preferred.

158.1 PERSONAL PRONOUNS

158.1.1 First-person pronouns

158.1.1.1 wata(ku)shi, boku, ore

The kanji 私 is usually used for both watakushi and the less formal watashi, so in writing it is often difficult to decide which reading is intended. Apart from the level of formality, both can be said to be neutral, i.e. they can be used with strangers and acquaintances alike. However, when contrasted with male-only pron. such as boku, which is used towards male or females and sounds more intimate than watashi, the implication is usually that the user of watashi is female (example b).

ore is the most informal first-person pron., used by males only.

- a 夫の留守を喜ぶ妻は【私】だけじゃないらしい。 otto no rusu o yorokobu tsuma wa watashi dake ja nai rashii
 It appears that I'm not the only wife to take delight in her husband's absence.
- b 【私】作る人、【僕】食べる人、という時代はもう終わった。
watashi tsukuru hito boku taberu hito to iu jidai wa mō owatta
 The age where people could say, 'I [female] do the cooking, I [male] do the eating' is already over.
- c 【おれ】にも撮らせろよ。
ore ni mo torasero yo [PM to cameraman:] Let me take one [= a picture] too.

158.1.1.2 jibun as a personal pronoun

The reflexive pron. jibun 'self' can also be used like a personal pron., in the sense of 'I' or, with -tachi, as 'we' (see 170).

- a 【自分】が同性愛者とわかってても構わない。
jibun ga dōseiai-sha to wakatte mo kamawanai
 I don't mind if people realize that I'm gay.
- b 日本初の契約制スチュワーデス。「【自分たち】はパイオニア。」
nihon-hatsu no keiyaku-sei suchuwādesu. jibun-tachi wa paionia Japan's first stewardesses on contract. 'We are pioneers' [they say].

158.1.2 Second-person pronouns

158.1.2.1 kimi, omae, kisama

kimi is an intimate-sounding form of address for male or females by older men, or by boyfriends towards girlfriends. omae is quite informal, used between men who grew up or went to school together. It is also used by parents to their sons. kisama, also common in comics, is used in such male bastions as the army, sports teams etc., to subordinates or equals; in ordinary life, if you address someone with kisama, it signals that you're trying to pick a fight!

- a ところが面接官は「【君】、処女なの?」。
tokoro ga mensetsu-kan wa kimi shojo na no
 However, the interviewer [asked] 'Are you a virgin?'
- b 【おまえ】に託したい。
omae ni takushitai
 I want to entrust [the running of the company] to you [= my son].
- c 「ほら、【お前】ももっと足を高くあげろよ」「【オレ】は腹が出て るから、【お前】みたいなわけにはいかないよ」。 hora omae mo motto ashi o takaku agero yo ore wa hara ga deteru kara omae mitai na wake ni wa ikanai yo 'Hey, raise your leg a bit higher!' 'I've got a big belly, so you can't expect me to do things in the same way as you!' [baseball training]
- d 【貴様ア】、こりゃ、何だ! 戦場に野球をやりに行くつもりかア。
kisamā korya nan da senjō ni yakyū o yari ni iku tsumori kā Hey you, what is this [= practising baseball]! You going to war to play baseball?
- e 俺、【貴様】の昔に返ってゆっくり話し合いたい。
ore kisama no mukashi ni kaette yukkuri hanashiai-tai I'd like a leisurely chat [among us men], back on the old terms of ore and kisama.

158.1.2.2 anata

This is taught to foreigners as equivalent to 'you', simply because it is the most neutral of the lot. However, Westerners are renowned in Japan for overusing anata, which still has strong connotations, namely:

- (i) Impersonal use: anata is used when the speaker/writer does not know what the social level of the person/s addressed is; this is especially common in adverts (appealing to people of all levels).
- a もう黙っちゃいられない! 【あなた】のダイエット方法は大丈夫?
mō damatcha irarenai anata no daietto hōhō wa daijōbu
 I can't keep silent any longer! Is your [= the reader's] method of losing weight safe?
- b 「【あなた】のお子さんなの」と突然、聞かれた。
anata no o-ko-san na no to totsuzen kikareta
 She was suddenly asked [by a stranger], 'Is that your child?'

- c 日本では【あなた】の絵が好きな人が多い。なぜだと思いますか。 nihon de wa anata no e ga suki na hito ga ōi. naze da to omoimasu ka [Interview with painter:] In Japan, there are many who like your paintings. Why is that, do you think?

- (ii) Woman to husband: anata is also typically used by a woman to her husband or lover (although less so by the younger generation).

- a 【あなた】、ドレス買ってもいい？

anata doresu katte mo ii

Darling, is it OK if I buy a dress?

- b かたや、【あなた】、ご飯よ」のように、「妻が夫を指す代表的な代名詞」でもある。

kataya anata gohan yo no yō ni tsuma ga otto o sasu daihyōteki na daimeishi de mo aru

On the other hand, it [= anata] is also a typical pronoun by which the wife calls the husband, as in ‘Darling, dinner’s ready!’

- (iii) Overuse by foreigners: anata is also a word used by foreigners in situation where Japanese would normally avoid the use of a personal pronoun. This misuse was pointed out in grammars of Japanese by people like Aston and Chamberlain over a hundred years ago.

158.1.3 Third-person pronouns

158.1.3.1 kare(-ra/-tachi) and kanojo(-ra/-tachi)

These are originally translation terms for rendering ‘he’ and ‘she’ into Japanese from works of Western fiction. They are very common now, and are less unwieldy than sono/ano hito, etc. However, there are some restrictions on their use: they are more commonly used by men and younger Japanese, and are considered rude if used of social superiors. They are also commonly used to refer to boyfriends (kare or kareshi) and girlfriends (kanojo).

- a 【彼女】に振られたので、女の子の友達がいません。

kanojo ni furareta no de onna no ko no tomodachi ga imasen

I got dumped by my girlfriend, so I haven’t got any female friends.

158.1.3.2 koitsu, etc.

koitsu/soitsu/aitsu are used pejoratively or to refer informally to close friends, colleagues etc., or when no politeness is required, as when one talks about the content of one’s thoughts: for example a

The difference between ko-/so-/a- follows the usual pattern (see Table 9, 45).

- a 【こいつ】には話せる、そんな雰囲気を持っている人間だったらいいな。
koitsu ni wa hanaseru sonna fun'iki o motte iru ningen dattara ii na I'd like the kind of person who feels like someone I can talk to.
- b 【あいつ】もいばあさんだ」と写真を見せてくれた。
aitsu mo ii bāsan da to shashin o misete kureta
 'She's quite a granny', he said and showed me a photo.

158.1.4 Plural forms

Some plural forms are given in Table 19 for third persons, but first- and second-person pronouns can also be made plural by attaching plural suf. (see 188, 168, 49, 58).

A special case is wareware (我々), which is normally used to define a group and often prefixes a noun (regardless of any comma in writing, it is pronounced as one unit in speech).

- a 【我々】、監査役はあなたがた取締役を訴える権限があるのですよ。 wareware kansa-yaku wa anata-gata torishimari-yaku o uttaeru kengen ga aru no desu yo
 We auditors have the power to take you [company] chairmen to court!

158.2 PERSONAL SUFFIXES

158.2.1 -san and -sama

Attaching the suffix -san (and its very formal equivalent -sama) to family names or given names (especially those of Westerners) is the most common form of addressing people.

-sama is also used as a more formal equivalent of mina-san (mina-sama) 'everyone' and o-kyaku-sama (o-kyaku-san) 'guest(s)'.

- a それでは白石【さん】、支払いをお願いします。 sore de wa shiraishi-san shiharai o onegai shimasu
 Well then, Mrs Shiraishi, please pay up.
- b リンダ【さん】は週に二回学校に行っているのです、代わりにマイク【さん】が哺乳瓶で赤ちゃんに母乳をあげる。
rinda-san wa shū ni ni-kai gakkō ni itte iru no de, kawari ni maiku-san ga ho'nyū-bin de akachan ni bo'nyū o ageru
 As Linda goes to school twice a week, Mike gives the baby a bottle feed instead.

- c 温かく見守り、応援して下さった皆【様】に感謝の気持ちでいっぱい です。 atatakuku mimamori ōen shite kudasatta mina-sama ni kansha no kimochi de ippai desu

I'm full of gratitude to all the people who have followed [my career] with interest and have urged me on.

Note – on the use of -sama for addresses: -sama (never -san) is attached to the name of the addressee on envelopes. In this case, it's attached to company names as well as people's names (other suf. include the more formal -dono (殿), and onchū (御中)); the latter can be used only for companies, not individuals).

158.2.2 -kun

-kun is generally used for boys only (for both address and reference), by close male friends, especially if they've been friends since schooldays, and by senior males (or females) for more junior males, e.g. by teachers in school or university, and even by the speaker in the Diet for MPs (example b).

- a 小学校から帰った春樹【君】(11)はコンピューターの画面をのぞいた。
shōgakkō kara kaetta haruki-kun (11) wa konpyūtā no gamen o nozoita

Haruki-kun (11), who had come back from primary school, looked at the computer screen.

- b 河村【君】、君はねえ、一年間謹慎するくらいの反省が必要だろう。
kawamura-kun kimi wa nē ichinen-kan kinshin suru kurai no hansei ga hitsuyō darō

[At the Diet:] Kawamura, you should repent and be on your best behaviour for a year or so.

158.2.3 -chan

-chan is to address and refer to younger siblings, also by friends of the family. In the media, -chan is used to refer to children of up to 6 years of age. Women and young children also commonly attach it to cute animals, e.g. panda-chan.

- a 彩子【ちゃん】は移植手術を受けることなく、この世を去った。 ayako-chan wa ishoku shujutsu o ukeru koto naku kono yo o satta Ayako-chan left this world without receiving a transplant operation.

- b まったく、お兄【ちゃん】の影響力の大ききにはまいるぜ。
mattaku onii-chan no eikyō-ryoku no ōkisa ni wa mairu ze
It really amazes you how strong the older brother's influence is!

158.2.4 Within the family

In the family, too, personal name + suf. is also used (especially towards children), and (o-)tō-san/chan ‘daddy’ and (o-)kā-san/chan ‘mummy’, as well as ‘papa’ and ‘mama’, are used by children towards their parents (and between parents) like first-person pron.

a どんなことがあっても、【お父さん】と【お母さん】は守ってやる。

donna koto ga atte mo o-tōsan to o-kāsan wa mamotte yaru

No matter what happens, [daddy and mummy] will protect you.

b 【ママ】、もう現場に戻りなよ。

mama mō genba ni modori na yo

Mummy, go back to [your] construction site now.

159 PHRASAL PARTICLES

Phrasal particles are combinations of case P and verbal elements in the conjunctive form (or V-base in more formal or bookish style). They are often used after N in the form as [N ni/o V-te] in adverbial use, but some can also be attached to V. Some phrasal P are also used to modify N, as indicated in Table 20.

In very formal writing, particularly business letters, some phrasal P have polite versions ending in -mashite; ni tsukimashite, in particular, may be encountered for ni tsuite.

160 POINT OF VIEW

Compared to languages like English, Japanese is said to have certain characteristics that can be said to give it a more speaker-centred point of view. The most typical of these characteristics are briefly described in this section.

 - 160.2 Use of passive where English uses active

160.1 SUBJECTIVE ADJECTIVES

These are adj. that are typically used to refer to the feelings of the speaker (or subject) rather than some objective state: samui 'I'm cold', hazukashii 'I feel ashamed', etc.

- a …隊員らは「【寒い】、【寒い】」を連発。
taiin-ra wa samui samui o renpatsu
 . . . the corps members kept saying ‘[I am/feel] cold’.
- b 悠揚迫らぬ富士の威容に、人間の浅知恵が【恥ずかしい】。
yūyō semaranu fuji no iyō ni ningen no asajie ga hazukashii
 Before the serene dignity of Mt Fuji, one feels ashamed of mankind’s insensitivity [= lots of chimneys spoiling the view].

160.2 USE OF PASSIVE WHERE ENGLISH USES ACTIVE

Cases where Japanese uses a passive construction whereas English would use the active voice include the so-called ‘adversative passive’ (where the patient (subject) is adversely affected by the action of the V), as in example a.

In other instances, as in example b, the speaker does not see things from the barber’s point of view (i.e. ‘the barber told me . . .’ in the active voice), but focuses on himself (i.e. ‘I was told by the barber . . .’ in the passive voice).

- a お金を無造作に置いていたが、まさか、【取られる】とは思っていなかった。 okane o muzōsa ni oite ita ga, masaka torareru to wa omowanakatta
 I put the money down casually, but it never occurred to me that someone would steal it (lit. “I would get it stolen”).
- b 今年5月に理容師と相談したら、縛ってみてはと【勧められ】てやってみた。
kotoshi gogatsu ni riyō-shi to sōdan shitara shibatte mite wa to susumerarete yatte mita
 When I consulted with my barber in May this year, he suggested (lit. “I was suggested by him”) that I might tie up [my hair], so I gave it a try.

160.3 USE OF TRANSITIVE AND INTRANSITIVE VERBS

Japanese uses a large number of transitive and intransitive V pairs (see 223). When a transitive V is used, the implication is that the subject is responsible for the action of V; but the corresponding intransitive V implies that something happens for which nobody is overtly responsible or to be blamed.

- a 厚さはわずかに0.5ミリ。手に取ると【壊れ】てしまいそうだ。
atsusa wa wazuka ni rei-ten gomiri. te ni toru to kowarete shimai-sō da
 They [the earthenware teacups] are only 0.5 mm thick. They look as if they’ll break when you take them in your hand.
- b 三年前の作品をみると、【壊し】てしまいたい気持ちになる。
sannen-mae no sakuhin o miru to kowashite shimai-tai kimochi ni naru
 When I look at things [pottery I made] three years ago, I feel I want to break them.

The above distinction is not a problem in itself, but differences in point of view are seen in the way things are expressed; for instance, where English uses expressions such as ‘they catch the offender’ or ‘the offender gets caught’, Japanese uses neither the active/transitive, nor the passive, but the intransitive.

In example d, an ageing player refers to his diminishing performance by using the intransitive bōru ga tobanaku natta ‘the ball doesn’t fly as it used to’, where English would use a transitive or causative expression.

- c 犯人は無差別に発砲したのでしょうか。早く【捕まっ】てくれないと不安です。 hannin wa mu-sabetsu ni happō shita no deshō ka. hayaku tsukamatte kurenai to fuan desu

The culprit presumably fired the gun indiscriminately. If he doesn’t get caught soon, I’ll be worried.

- d ボールが【飛ば】なくなったわけではない。体力より気力が落ちている。 bōru ga tobanaku natta wake de wa nai. tairyoku yori kiryoku ga ochite iru

It’s not that [I can’t get the golf] ball to fly [the distance] any more. It’s my mental rather than physical strength that’s diminished.

160.4 PERFORMATIVE VERBS

Performative V are mainly V of giving and receiving (ageru/yaru/sashiageru, kureru/kudasaru, morau/itadaku, etc.), which can be used by themselves, or attached to the conjunctive form of other V (V-te ageru, V-te kureru, V-te morau, etc.) to indicate for whose benefit the action of the V is performed. In English, the difference is often left to the context.

- a 働くということは、雇っ【てもらっ】ているとか、働い【てやっ】ていると考えるのではなく、会社とどこまでイーブンな関係になれるかだ。

hataraku to iu koto wa yatotte moratte iru to ka hataraitte yatte iru to kangaeru no de wa naku kaisha to doko made ībun na kankei ni nareru ka da

Working is not about feeling that someone is [doing you a favour by] employing you, or you are [doing someone the favour of] working for them, but to what degree you can get on an even footing with your company.

The choice of performative V depends on who gives to whom. Additionally, the notion of ingroup/outgroup comes into play. This requires that persons with whom the speaker identifies (the speaker’s family or members of his company, etc.) are treated on a par with the speaker when addressing listeners belonging to other groups.

Table 21 Performatives and noun phrase marking

	Noun phrase 1	Noun phrase 2	Noun phrase 3	Verb
ageru 'give'	Giver- ga/wa	Recipient- ni	Thing- o/wa	ageru
kureru 'give'	Giver- ga/wa	Recipient- ni	Thing- o/wa	kureru
morau 'receive'	Recipient- ga/wa	Giver- ni/kara	Thing- o/wa	morau

The difference in use between the three types of performatives makes it quite clear who gives what to whom; for this reason, some, or even all, of the NPs below can be ellipted or omitted (they can also appear in a different order).

yaru and sashiageru work in same way as ageru, kudasaru as kureru, and itadaku as morau.

160.4.1 ageru (yaru, sashiageru)

The examples that follow use ageru only, but sashiageru can be used in the same way (superpolite equivalent, see Table 13).

yaru is a V that is mostly used in the sense of suru by itself (example a). It can also be used to 'give' to people of lower status than the speaker, but in fact ageru is often used in such cases (see 160.4.1.3 b, where a mother gives money to her high-school-student son). However, yaru is used for giving (water, feed, etc.) to plants, animals, etc. (examples b and c, but see 160.4.1.5 a, where ageru is used for giving to a cat!).

a 来年も一生懸命【やる】だけだ。

rainen mo isshōkenmei yaru dake da

Next year too all we'll work as hard as we can, that's all.

b 五—七日に一回を目安にたっぷり水を【やる】。

itsuka kara nanoka ni ik-kai o meyasu ni tappuri mizu o yaru

You water it (lit. "give it water") once every five to seven days or so.

c 「鶏に餌を【やる】少年」

niwatori ni esa o yaru shōnen

'Boy feeding chickens' [= Title of a photograph]

160.4.1.5 ageru in relative clauses

In a relative clause, the number of required NP is fewer. In the example below, NP3 cannot be mentioned inside the relative clause (shown by []) as it is identical with the modified N neko (see 143).

- a 魚屋は時田の家に顔を出したが、[いつも魚【を】【あげ】ていた]ネコがいない。 sakana-ya wa tokita no ie ni kao o dashita ga itsumo sakana o agete ita neko ga inai
 The fishmonger visited Tokita's place, but the cat he always used to give fish wasn't there.

160.4.1.6 Verb-te ageru (-te yaru, -te sashiageru)

Here, the number of required NPs depends on the valency of the V to which -te ageru is attached. -te yaru can be used to those of lower status, and -te sashiageru of higher status (see 231, 195, 211, 65.3, Table 13).

160.4.2 kureru (kudasaru)

kudasaru is used in the same way, for subjects + ga/wa who are of higher status.

160.4.2.1 kureru

- a 同情するなら金【を】【くれ】。

- e チョコレート【でも】【くれ】るのかな。(demo here replaces o)

160.4.2.2 kureru in relative clauses

The NP (NP1) that is identical to the modified N (hito) cannot be mentioned inside the relative clause (shown by []) (see 143).

- a 一日も早く病気を克服し、[メッセージ【を】【くれ】た]人に会いに行きたい。 ichinichi mo hayaku byōki o kokufuku shi messēji o kureta hito ni ai ni ikitai
 I want to defeat my illness as quickly as possible, and go and meet the people who've sent me messages.

160.4.2.3 -te kureru

When attached to V-te, kureru indicates that the action of V is performed for the benefit of first or third persons; in the case of third persons, the implication is that the speaker sympathizes or 'takes side' with them (see 203).

Example a needs some explanation. Here, -te kureru is used by the father of an Olympic gold medallist, who won in front of a largely local audience in an area where he used to go and practise and which was like a second home to the athlete.

- a みんなが応援し【てくれ】ました。

160.4.3 morau/itadaku (moraeru/itadakeru = potential)

With morau (itadaku is used with givers of higher status), either ni or kara can be used to mark NP2.

160.4.3.1 morau

- a 「複数のボーイフレンド【から】プレゼント【を】【もらっ】た若い女性が、要らない品を持ち込んでいる例も多い。
fukusū no bōi furendo kara purezento o moratta wakai jōsei ga iranai shina o mochikonde iru rei mo ōi
 There are also many cases where young women, who received presents from several boyfriends, bring in things they don't need [= to pawn].

160.4.3.2 morau in relative clauses

The NP that is identical with the modified N (mono) cannot be mentioned inside the relative clause (shown by []).

- a [皆様 (記者団)【から】何か【もらえ】る]ものがあつたら、喜んでいただきます。 mina-sama (kisha-dan) kara nani ka moraeru mono ga attara yorokonde itadakimasu
 If there's anything I can get from you [press corps], I'll accept it gladly.

160.4.3.3 Verb-te morau (Verb-te moraeru = potential)

-te itadaku is used with givers who are higher in status (see 207, 200).

In example a, a husband tells his new wife, who wishes to retain her maiden name, to change it, i.e. his interests are indicated by the verb kaeru + -te morau, 'have things changed for his benefit'.

Example b shows the words of a father about a suspect accused of having killed his young daughter and who is currently being tried in court. tsugunau ‘make up for the crime’ is used with -te morau, for the speaker’s (and his group/family’s) benefit.

- a 僕の名字にちゃんと変え【てもらわ】ないと、田舎の両親に何て言われるか……」。

boku no myōji ni chanto kaete morawanai to inaka no ryōshin ni nan te iwareru ka

Unless you change your surname to mine, God knows what my backward parents will say to me . . .

- b 犯人は憎んでも憎んでも憎みきれない。極刑をもって償っ【てもらう】以外ない。

hannin wa nikunde mo nikunde mo nikumi-kirenai. kyokkei o motte tsugunatte morau igai nai

I hate the culprit more than words can express. This [crime] can be atoned for only by the maximum penalty.

- c 安さだけでは顧客【に】満足し【てもらえ】ない時代になった。

yasu-sa dake de wa kokyaku ni manzoku shite moraenai jidai ni natta

It’s (lit. “it’s become”) an age where cheapness isn’t enough to satisfy customers.

161 POTENTIAL SENTENCES

Potential S basically express the idea of ‘can’, ‘be able to’ do something.

Potential V forms are derived from V-ru as shown below.

Note – the *forms (and note that apart from the Group III koreru, only selected Group II verbs have such formations) are as yet regarded as ‘incorrect’, but are in fact widely used in the spoken language.

Table 22 Potential verb formation

Verb type	Replacement Pattern
Group I	-u	→ -eru
	ik-u	→ ik-eru
	nom-u	→ nom-eru
	ka(w)-u	→ ka(w)-eru
Group II	-ru	→ -rareru/reru
	tabe-ru	→ tabe-rareru/*tabe-reru
	mi-ru	→ mi-rareru/*mireru
Group III	suru	· dekiru
	kuru	· korareru/*koreru

The -ru ending of these pot. forms (all groups) itself works like a Group II ending, i.e. ik-e-ru → ik-e-masu, ik-e-nai, mi-rare-ru, etc. → mi-rare-masu, mi-rare-nai, etc., korare-ru → korare-masu, korare-nai, etc.

There are several types of pot. S, which can be broadly divided into those where an agent (a person etc. who ‘can’) is mentioned (or implied), and those without a mentioned or implied agent. The former can be subdivided according to whether the pot. V is transitive or intransitive, and which case P are used to mark the person (or other entity) who ‘can’ and, where applicable, the object of that ability.

161.1	Agent (person, etc.) mentioned or implied
161.1.1	Intransitive verb-potential
161.1.1.1	(Person ga/wa/mo) verb-intransitive-potential
161.1.2	Transitive verb-potential
161.1.2.1	(Person wa) (object ga/o) verb-transitive-potential
161.1.2.2	Noun-modifying
161.1.3	Person (etc.) ni (object ga/wa) verb potential
161.1.4	Sentence koto ga dekiru
161.2	No agent (person, etc.) mentioned or implied
161.2.1	(0 ga/wa) verb-potential
161.2.2	(0 ga/wa) verb-potential: with verbs of seeing
161.2.3	Intransitive use of transitive verb-potential

161.1 AGENT (PERSON, ETC.) MENTIONED OR IMPLIED

161.1.1 Intransitive verb-potential

161.1.1.1 (Person ga/wa/mo) verb-intransitive-potential

Where V-pot. is intransitive, there can of course be no object. This construction indicates (in)ability to perform the action of V, but the agent or person NP is often omitted (understood from the context).

161.1.2 Transitive verb-potential

161.1.2.1 (Person wa) (object ga/o) verb-transitive-potential

The object of V-pot. can be marked by either o or ga, or by focus P such as wa replacing these (see 148.2, 55.4). Person wa, and/or object ga/o, are often omitted (understood from the context).

I've had practically no experience of mountaineering, but took part because I heard that one can see insectivores and wild orchids.

161.1.2.2 Noun-modifying

In relative clauses and cleft S, the object is not mentioned, as it is identical with the modified N (relative clauses), or the N in S2 in cleft S:

- (i) Relative clauses and cleft sentences:

- a 只で【見れ】るものに金と時間を費す者はない。

tada de mireru mono ni kane to jikan o tsuiyasu mono wa nai

There's nobody who'll spend money and time on something one can see for free.

- b 【頼れ】るのは自分だけだ。

tayoreru no wa jibun dake da

It's only myself I can rely on.

- (ii) Other Noun-modification: pseudo-RCs are sentences that are constructed like RCs, except that the modified (or head) N is a relational N, time N or N of amount (see 143.2).

- a とても全部【は】【食べれ】ない量だ。

totemo zenbu wa taberenai ryō da

161.1.3 Person (etc.) ni (object ga/wa) verb-potential

This also indicates what the person (or other entity that can control its actions) can or cannot do. Where present, the object of V-pot. can be marked by ga or wa, but not by o. The order of N ni and N ga/wa can be reversed (see 116.7).

- a 本当に自分【に】仕事【が】できるのか。
hontō ni jibun ni shigoto ga dekiru no ka

 Fair enough, that [= posing with a towel rather than nude] seemed more natural.

161.1.4 Sentence koto ga dekiru

The phrase koto ga dekiru can be attached to clauses ending in V-ru only. Where an object is present, it can be marked by o (or focus P like wa/mo/datte etc.) only (see 83.3.1).

ichi-do kabu o uete okeba mai-toshi hana o tanoshimu koto ga dekiru

161.2 NO AGENT (PERSON, ETC.) MENTIONED OR IMPLIED161.2.1 (0 ga/wa) verb-potential

Here, no human agent (person-ga/wa) can be mentioned (or implied). In other words, this construction is concerned with the ability or inability of the object of V, and in English it often translates as a pass.

161.2.2 (0 ga/wa) verb-potential: with verbs of seeing

Here, no person can be mentioned (or implied). Only ga is used to mark the object in these sentences, which typically use V of seeing.

- a 窓からは草原【が】【見渡せ】る。
mado kara wa sōgen ga miwataseru
 The window affords a view of the prairie.
- b 事態の深刻さ【が】【うかがえ】る。

saikin shachō kōtai o niowaseru yō na kōdō ga miukerareru
 Recently, one can see actions that hint at a change of company president.

161.2.3 Intransitive use of transitive verb-potential

There are some verbs that look like pot. V but function more like intransitive V, such as ureru ‘sell well’, kireru ‘cut well’ and kakeru ‘write well’.

Note, however, that some of these V, such as kakeru (which otherwise appear identical), can also be transitives in their pot. form, in which use an agent or person can be mentioned (example c) (see also 183).

- a エアコン、夏物飲料など【が】爆発的に【売れ】ている。 eakon natsumono inryō nado ga bakuhatsu-teki ni urete iru

162 -ppoi [ADJECTIVE-FORMING SUFFIX]

-ppoi is a suf. that is attached to N and N-equivalents such as V-base. It converts the N into an adj. which indicates a tendency, i.e. what things or people tend to be like (see 34.4). Some combinations are better dealt with as lexical items.

162.1 Noun-ppoi

162.2 Lexical items

163 PRESUMPTIVE FORMS

Pres. forms of V/adj. and AN/N + cop. indicate a guess or presumption on the part of the speaker. They can be attached to pos. pred. in the sense of 'should be', or neg. ones in the sense of 'shouldn't'.

Note that the -(y)ō form has a hortative ('let's') and a presumptive ('should') use (see 163.1.2 and 163.3).

Note – pres., including darō, cannot be used in relative clauses (except by intermediating forms such as to iu).

163.1 -(y)ō

163.1.1 Verb/adjective-(y)ō: equivalent of verb/adjective darō

163.1.2 Verb-(y)ō: hortative use

163.2 Clause darō/deshō/de arō

163.3 Other uses of presumptive forms

163.3.1 Noun 1-presumptive to noun 2-presumptive to (mo)

163.3.2 Question word + presumptive to (mo)

163.3.3 Clause 1-presumptive ga . . . clause 2-presumptive ga

163.3.4 In a negative question

163.4 -mai

163.4.1 Negative presumptive

163.4.2 Negative desiderative

163.1 -(y)ō

See hortative V-(y)ō (67) for how V-(y)ō forms are derived. Besides hortative 'let's', V/adj.-(y)ō can also be used as a written-style equivalent to V/adj. darō.

Adj.-(y)ō (the pres. form of adj., including the neg. ending -nai, which can be used instead of adj.-i/adj.-ta darō in both writing and speech, as in examples 163.1.1 b-d, 163.3.2 a, 163.3.4 a) is derived by replacing the final -i with -karō

Non-past yasu-i → yasu-karō
 Past yasukat-ta → yasukatta-rō

163.1.1 Verb/adjective-(y)ō: equivalent of verb/adjective darō

Note also the past-tense form -tarō, which is the equivalent to -ta darō.

- a 史料として一級の価値が【あろう】。(= 価値が【あるだろう】) shiryō to shite ikkyū no kachi ga arō
 As a historical document, it should have first-rate importance.
- b パチンコをしたことのないサラリーマンは【少なからう】。 (= 【少ないだろう】)
pachinko o shita koto no nai sararīman wa sukunakarō
 There can't be many office workers who've never played pachinko.
- c 米景気への過大な悪影響も【なかろう】。(= 【ないだろう】)

- d 「会社のためという理屈は、もう通らない」との思いを新たにした経営者は、少なくなかった【ろう】。

 There must have been quite a few managers who realized that the argument 'it's for the good of the company' is no longer acceptable.

163.1.2 Verb-(y)ō: hortative use

This indicates the idea of 'let's' (see 246 for further examples).

- a どんないじめも【なくそう】。
donna ijime mo nakusō
 Let's get rid of any form of bullying.
- b 秋の夜長をどう【過ごそう】か。
aki no yonaga o dō sugosō ka
 How shall we spend the long autumn nights?

This form also attaches to omou (と思う), suru (とする) and others involving the P to and ga (see 247–250).

163.2 CLAUSE darō/deshō/de arō

darō, deshō, and de arō are the plain, polite and learned (or bookish) -(y)ō forms of the cop., but unlike the -(y)ō form itself, darō, deshō and de arō indicate only pres. ‘should’, ‘ought to’, and not hortative. Colloquially, deshō can be shortened to desho (example f).

Note that darō, etc. is attached directly to V/adj.-fin. (incl. (-)nai), even though da cannot be attached in the same way. darō, etc. is usually attached to pln. forms, but in speech it is also occasionally found after -masu forms (see 230 e for an example). After pln. past -ta, both darō and -rō can be used.

darō, etc. adds the meaning of ‘should’, ‘ought to’ to a sentence.

- a 価格がどんどん下がる【だろう】。
kakaku wa dondon sagaru darō
 The price should come down rapidly.
- b それで十分な【だろう】。
sore de jūbun na no darō
 That ought to be sufficient.
- c この内閣は二年くらい大丈夫【だろう】。

164 QUESTIONS: DIRECT QUESTIONS

Unlike English, Japanese Q use the same word order as statements.

Any statement (including equational S (see 178) can therefore be made into a Q by changing the intonation and/or attaching the Q P ka, and/or inserting a Q word (see 167). These three elements can be called Q markers.

In this section, Q are grouped mainly by the presence or absence of such Q markers.

165.4 Questions ending in ka dō ka/ka ina ka

165.1 RHETORICAL QUESTIONS

Rhetorical Q can be expressed with the ending mono/mon ka, and in some other ways as shown below.

165.1.1 Sentence mon(o) ka

165.1.6 In the form dō ka to omou, ikaga na mono ka (to omou)

This is a kind of rhetorical Q, but used with omou (although this can be omitted) in the literal sense of “I wonder if this is a good idea”, i.e. ‘I don’t think it’s right/wise’. It is used to voice criticism diplomatically.

This form is used to indicate the speaker’s wondering about something or making a guess when (or as if) talking to self ‘I wonder’, ‘may have’. After -ta, it indicates that the speaker is trying to recall something (see 110, 166.1.2.4).

166 QUESTIONS: INDIRECT QUESTIONS

An indirect Q S is a S that contains another S, which is a Q. The Q ends in ka or ka dō ka (after AN/N and no, cop.-non-past is deleted before ka) and is followed by pred. The Q part functions like a N or NP in that case/focus/phrasal P can be attached to it (see 177, 164).

Two types of indirect Q can be distinguished by the presence or absence of a Q word.

In the examples, indirect Q and their translation equivalents are shown in [].

166.1 Indirect positive questions

166.1.1 With a question word: question word . . . (no) ka (+ case/focus particle) predicate

169 rashii [SENTENCE ENDING]

rashii expresses two basic meanings: appearance, on the basis of hearsay, or visual information (see 93, 181, 227, 218, 246), and typicality, i.e., that something/somebody is or isn't typical of its kind.

rashii attaches to the end of a sentence. The forms it is attached to are pln. forms (after non-past AN and N, it is attached without cop., except for N de aru rashii). rashii itself changes its endings like an adj. The past ending -ta usually precedes rashii, but occasionally also follows it. rashikatta is mostly used when the 'appearance' itself is considered to be in the past and no longer relevant to the present. In practice, rashikatta is mostly found in narrative fiction, -ta rashii being normal elsewhere. Compare examples 169.1.1 h and i for the use of -ta rashii and rashikatta.

Note – there are many lexical adj. that end in -rashii (see 169.3 below) but have no hearsay or typicality meaning.

169.3.1 Adjectives without the meaning of rashii

169.3.2 Adjectives which can have the meaning of rashii

169.1 CLAUSE/NOUN rashii169.1.1 Clause rashii

rashii indicates appearance in two ways.

Firstly, ‘seems to’, ‘apparently’. mitai and yō could also be used in the same way (see 93, 246).

With rashii, the appearance is based on hearsay. This is similar to sō and -tte, but rashii is vaguer. Whereas sō and -tte express explicitly that what precedes is something you have heard, said or seen written, rashii simply suggests that what precedes is based on hearsay. It is possible to indicate the source of information (see 131, 47, 181).

Secondly, based on observation, mitai and yō could also be used in a similar way. However, there is a difference. mitai and yō imply that ‘S seems to be the case but definitely isn’t’ or ‘S seems to be the case but I don’t actually know whether it is or not’. rashii implies that ‘S seems to be the case and definitely is’ or ‘to the best of my knowledge it is’. This explains the use of N1 rashii N2 in 169.2 (compare examples a and b below).

170 REFLEXIVE PRONOUNS

Like other Japanese personal pron., reflexive pron. are like N in that they attach case P. Like N, they can also affix hon. pref. (for an example, see 66.1.2 c).

jibun can also be modified by demonstrative pron. such as sonna (example a).

a 同性愛への強い欲求をもちながら、【そんな自分】を責め、聖者のような禁欲生活を送るが、一方で推理小説と西部劇が大好き、といった人なのである。 dōseiai e no tsuyoi yokkyū o mochi-nagara sonna jibun o seme seija no yō na kin'yoku seikatsu o okuru ga ippō de suiri shōsetsu to seibugeki ga daisuki to itta hito na no de aru

He is the sort of person who, while having strong leanings towards homosexuality, blames himself for being like that and leads a saint-like life of celibacy, but on the other hand loves detective stories and westerns.

Reflexive pron. refer back to a person/persons that were mentioned earlier, either in the same sentence, or previously. The major reflexive pron. are jibun and jishin, both of which literally mean “self” and, depending on which person they refer back to, translate into English as ‘myself’, ‘yourself’, ‘himself’, ‘herself’.

jibun also has a plural form jibun-tachi as ‘ourselves’, ‘yourselves’ and ‘themselves’. As with personal pron., when using jibun, plural must be indicated by the plural suf. (see 188, 158), although in some generalizing cases this is not applied (see 170.1).

171 RELATIONAL NOUNS

Relational N are N that indicate a position that is relative in time or space. They are often preceded by other N + no, or N-mod. forms of V/adj./AN, and in turn can modify other N with no attached, or pred. by means of other case or Focus P, etc.

172 REPETITION

Repetition is used quite extensively in Japanese. It is used either for emphasis, or in a number of grammatical structures that also indicate some form of emphasis.

172.1 Emphasis by simple repetition

172.1.1 Repetition of noun

172.1.2 Repetition of [noun + case particle]

172.1.3 Repetition of verb/adjective/adjectival noun forms

173 REQUESTS

There are two basic types of request, one requesting an item and the other requesting an action (or service) to be performed.

For the former, onagai shimasu is used, whereas for the latter, itadakitai/moraitai and hoshii are attached to V-te, while yō (ni) onagai shimasu is attached to V or V-pot.

Requests can also be made in Q form.

Requesting an action can be pos. or neg. (i.e. requesting the listener to do, or not to do, something).

- 173.1 Noun/verbal noun (o) onegai shimasu
 173.2 Verb-te (+ performative verb/adjective)
 173.2.1 Verb-te itadakitai/moraitai
 173.2.2 Verb-te hoshii
 173.3 Sentence yō (ni) onegai shimasu
 173.4 Requests in negative/positive/potential question form
 173.4.1 Verb-te kure-nai/-masen ka
 173.4.2 Verb-te moraenai ka (na)
 173.4.3 Verb-te itadake-ru/masu ka/-nai/-masen ka

173.1 NOUN/VERBAL NOUN (o) onegai shimasu

This is used to request items (things or persons) and also actions (in the case of NV). It usually translates as ‘please’, but note that the polite command (-te) kudasai also translates as ‘please’ (see 24).

Note – This can only be used with pos. requests ‘May I/we please have a/your N/VN’, ‘please’.

- a 弁護士を【お願いします】。

173.2 VERB-te (+ PERFORMATIVE VERB/ADJECTIVE)

173.2.1 Verb-te itadakitai/moraitai

This can be attached to pos. or neg. verbs, in the meaning of ‘I/we want you to (do/not do something for my/our benefit)’ (see 200.1.2, 207.4, 189).

bideo o wakete hoshii
 Would you spare me the videotape.
- b 元気なので心配し【ないでほし】い。
genki na no de shinpai shinai de hoshii

173.4.1 Verb-te kure-nai/-masen ka

- a 今度会っ【てくれませんか】。
kondo atte kuremasen ka
 Would you meet me sometime?

173.4.2 Verb-te moraenai ka (na)

In pot. neg. Q form, -te moraeru is used to make a polite request ‘can we ask you to’, ‘could we get you to’, ‘would you’. With ka na rather than ka, the meaning is ‘I wonder’ (see 207.32).

- a 一緒に応援し【てもらえないか】。

- b あの人に地元の建設会社を紹介し【てもらえないかな】。

173.4.3 Verb-te itadake-ru/masu ka/-nai/-masen ka

In pos. or neg. Q pot. form, this indicates a very polite request ‘could you please’ (itadaku being more polite than morau) (see 200.2.1).

- a 返事はちょっと待っ【ていただけますか】。
henji wa chotto matte itadakemasu ka
 Could I ask you to wait a little while for my answer?

174 sa [FINAL PARTICLE]

sa attaches to N-mod. forms of V/adj. but replaces cop. after AN/N. It can also attach to other forms (such as unfinished S and appear in non-final position in the S, marking the end of a clause, as in example g) and particles. sa has a ring of assertion, pointing out the obvious to the listener. It is not usually translated, but the implication is often one of ‘don’t you see?’, ‘that should be obvious’, etc. For this reason it is also often attached to kara, which means ‘because’, but can also be used simply to indicate the obvious.

175 -sa [NOMINALIZING SUFFIX]

Adj.-root + sa/AN + sa converts adj. or AN into a N. -sa nominalizations are used in sentences that require a N as pred., i.e. equational S, cleft S and N sentences (see 23, 34, 178.1.7), but instead of other N, as in examples d-e.

178.1 MINIMAL SIMPLE SENTENCES

A simple S minimally consists of one pred. and one or more NP, as required by the valency of pred., except where the NP is ellipted/omitted (see 231).

A pred. can be an infinitive form of V/A or AN/N + cop., or the imperative form of V (see 232, 69). It can be plain or polite.

A NP consists of noun + case and/or focus P. No NP is required with imperatives (see 69) nor with a small number of V and adj./AN (in some uses only; see 178.1.1).

178.1.1 Predicates without 'obligatory' noun phrase

Items like the V nomu 'drink (alcohol)', the adj. samui 'cold' and the AN shizuka 'quiet' can be used as pred. without any NP. A minimal S like Shizuka da. can be a complete S with the meaning of 'It's quiet'; when 'it' refers to something specific (i.e. a hotel), in which case, the S would have an ellipted (or omitted) NP (one can tell the difference only from the context). Below are examples of pred. without NP.

- a 四月からこれまでに四、五回【飲んだ】かな。
shigatsu kara kore made shigo-kai nonda ka na Since April, I may have drunk [alcohol] four or five times so far.
- b 隊員らは「【寒い】、【寒い】」を連発。
taiin-ra wa samui samui o renpatsu
 The corps members kept saying, '(I'm) cold'.
- c 蝉がしきりと鳴いている。音はそれだけだ。【静かだ】。
semi ga shikiri to naite iru. oto wa sore dake da. shizuka da
 The cicadas are chirring incessantly. That's the only sound.
 [It's] quiet.

178.1.2 Simple verb sentences

In their simplest form, a V S consists of a V pred. and one NP.

a 涙が出た。

namida ga deta

Tears came [to my eyes].

178.1.3 Converted verb sentences

V S can be 'converted' into pot., caus. and pass. S, which often involves a change in valency (see 20, 156, 161).

178.1.4 Simple adjective sentences

Below are examples, one with NP and the other with an ellipited (or omitted) NP.

a サービスが良い。

sābisu ga yoi

The service is good.

b 安い。

yasui

[It's] cheap.

178.1.5 Simple adjectival noun sentences

The AN pred. requires a form of cop. to complete the sentence; the NP is marked by the focus P wa.

a スクワティ村は静かだった。

sukuwati-mura wa shizuka datta

Sukuwati village was quiet.

178.1.6 Simple noun sentences

The pred. of the N requires a form of cop. to complete the sentence.

a それが序曲だった。

sore ga jokyoku datta

That was [only] the overture [= the beginning].

178.1.7 Equational sentences

Equational S are a kind of N S, of the type [N/pron. wa . . . N cop.] 'N is', where N cop. serves to identify or equate N/pron. (see 236.7).

a これ【は】誤解だ。

kore wa gokai da

That's a misunderstanding.

178.1.8 Double-subject sentences

Double-subject sentences are thus called because they contain two NP that could both be subjects, typically marked NP1 wa NP2 ga.

Meaningwise, NP1 is the more comprehensive (topic-like) part, with NP being a more specific (pred.-like) comment on it (see 236.8).

a % 酒【は】 ワイン【が】 いい。

sake wa wain ga ii

Of alcoholic drinks, I prefer wine.

178.1.9 Existential/locational sentences

Existential or locational S consist of a NP ni indicating a place, a NP ga indicating who or what 'is there' and an existential V such as aru or iru (see 9).

a 外【に】 女性【が】 いる。

soto ni josei ga iru

There's a woman outside.

178.1.10 Adjective/adjectival noun/noun → verb conversions (suru/naru)

Adj. and AN/N + cop. can be converted into V by adding suru 'do' or naru 'become' to adj.-stem (incl. the neg. ending -naku) and the adverbial form of AN/N + cop. (see 186, 35).

a 空が【暗くなっ】た。(cf., 暗い)

sora ga kuraku natta

The sky darkened.

b タクシーが【きれいになっ】た。(cf., きれいだ)

takushī ga kirei ni natta

Taxis have become smart.

c 一万人を【目標にする】。(cf., 目標だ)

ichiman-nin o mokuhyō ni suru

They aim for 10,000 people.

178.2 EXPANDED SIMPLE SENTENCES

Simple S can be expanded. This can be effected by expanding pred. (i.e. adding V-mod. phrases), by expanding the NP (by adding N-mod. phrases) or both. (A further addition can be an exclamation such as ara 'oh', but these can of course also be used by themselves.)

178.2.1 Predicate expansions

Pred. can be expanded (to the left of pred.) by V-mod. phrases (one or several), which can be a modifying adv. or adverbial phrase (see 4).

a 海は【まだ】静かだ。

umi wa mada shizuka da

The sea is still calm.

b 頭の中が【びかびかと】光った。

atama no naka ga pikapika to hikatta

There was a flash of light inside my head.

178.2.2 Noun phrase expansions

The NP (one or more) can also be expanded by N-mod. phrases. For instance, the verb iru 'be there' requires two NP: 'where' (marked by ni) and 'who' (marked by ga). For an example see 178.1.9.

In the following examples, both NP are expanded by N-mod. phrases ([num. + C + no] and [num. + no]).

a 【一グラムの】空気には【百万の】微生物がいる。

ichigramu no kūki ni wa hyakuman no bi-seibutsu ga iru

In one gram of air there are a million micro-organisms.

In the following S the intransitive V hajimaru requires only NP ga (see 231), but the S is expanded with a time phrase + suf. (-sugi 'just after'), followed by a location NP + case P de.

b 【午前三時過ぎ】【機内で】結婚式が始まった。

gozen sanji sugi kinai de kekkon-shiki ga hajimatta

Just after 3 a.m., the wedding ceremony began in the aeroplane.

178.3 EXTENDED SIMPLE SENTENCES (PREDICATE EXTENSIONS)

Pred. are typically extended, adding the speaker's opinion, intention, feelings, etc. regarding the content of the S after pred. Pred. extensions can be fin. P or S endings (see 177).

178.3.1 Sentence endings

The S ending yō indicates appearance, adding here to jikan ga tomatta the sense that this was the speaker/writer's impression of what happened (see 177, 243).

a 時間が止まった【よう】だった jikan ga tomatta yō datta

It was as if time had stopped

178.3.2 Extensions through final particles

Fin. P indicate various forms of the speaker's appeal to the listener. In the following, wa indicates emphasis, but also that the speaker is a woman (see 155.5, 237).

- a あら、ミーティングが始まる【わ】。
ara mītingu ga hajimaru wa
 Oh, a meeting is about to begin!

178.4 COMPLEX SENTENCES

A complex sentence contains one (or more) subordinate clauses (in []). In Japanese, a subordinate clause always precedes the main clause it modifies, but in English translation this order is often reversed.

178.4.1 With subordinate clauses

- a 【水を打ったように】静かだった。
mizu o utta yō ni shizuka datta
 [The meeting] was [dead] silent. (lit. "was silent [as if water had been poured over]")

- d 【襲われたら】どうしよう……。…
osowaretara dō shiyō
 What am I going to do [if I get attacked ...]?

178.4.2 With embedded subordinate clauses or sentences

An embedded S contains another S, such as a Q, quotation, etc.

178.4.2.1 Direct quotations and commands

The main difference between direct and indirect quotations is the presence or absence of the Japanese quotation marks (「」). Also, in direct quotations pol. forms (-masu, desu, etc.) can be used before the quotation P to, whereas in indirect quotations plain forms are the rule.

- a 「三日までゆっくり過ごそうと思います」と話していた。
mikka made yukkuri sugosō to omoimasu to hanashite ita
 He was saying, 'I'm thinking of taking it easy until the 3rd'.

178.4.2.2 Indirect quotations and commands

Below, quotations/commands are given in []. Note that imp. and command forms like kudasai and tsukuri-nasai are 'reduced' to plain-form equivalents such as kure and tsukure (see examples a–c below, 24, 69, 203).

- a 全国から【講演してくれ】という要請がたくさんきている。
zenkoku kara kōen shite kure to iu yōsei ga takusan kite iru

178.4.2.3 Direct questions

178.4.2.4 Indirect questions

Depending on the presence or absence of Q words and other factors, various kinds of indirect Q can be distinguished (see 166, Table 23).

178.4.3 With noun-modifying (dependent) clauses

N-mod. clauses include to iu clauses, complement clauses, cleft S and relative clauses (see 218, 26, 23, 143).

178.4.3.1 to iu noun-modifying clauses

(See 218.) The pattern [N1 to iu N2] means ‘the N2 (“called”) N1’.

a 【家庭という】言葉は家と庭からなっている。

katei to iu kotoba wa ie to niwa kara natte iru

The word katei (home) consists of kalie (house) and teiniwa (garden).

178.4.3.2 Complement clauses

Here, a whole clause acts like a NP, marked by a case P (see 26).

a [体を動かすの]が好き。

karada o ugokasu no ga suki

I like moving my body.

178.4.3.3 Cleft sentences

In a cleft sentence, the regular order of clauses is reversed for emphasis (see 23).

a 【自宅でのんびりするの】は正月三が日だけ。

jitaku de nonbiri suru no wa shōgatsu sanganichi dake

The only time I relax at home is the first three days of the new year.

178.5 COMPOUND SENTENCES

Compound sentences are sentences that consist of two or more clauses, joined by conjunctive forms of V/adj. and AN/N + cop. and their written-style variants (i.e. stem forms of V/adj. and AN/N + cop., etc.) or conjunctive P like ga ‘and’, ‘but’ (see 31, 155.4). In compound S, the English word order is usually the same as in Japanese.

178.5.1 With conjunctive forms

- a 部長に頭を下げ【て】、部屋を出た。

buchō ni atama o sagete heya o deta

I bowed to the department head [and] left the room.

josei ga ōi ga hotondo kami wa kata gurai made ni mijikaku shite iru

There are many women, [but] most keep their hair short to about shoulder length.

179 shi [CONJUNCTIVE PARTICLE]

Attached to clauses (after fin. forms of V/adj. and AN/N + cop.), shi signals an addition ‘and (moreover)’. It can be used more than once in a sentence.

- a 自分の家は狭い【し】汚いなどといわず、…

Don’t say that your house is small and messy and so on . . . [as an excuse for not inviting foreigners]

180 shika [ADVERBIAL PARTICLE]

shika is always used with neg. pred., the combination being equivalent in meaning to English ‘only’. shika is more exclusive in meaning than dake and bakari (which also mean ‘only’ in some of their uses), having the implication of ‘nothing but’, ‘only . . . and nothing else’ (see 37, 17).

180.1 Noun (+ particle)/number (+ counter) shika

180.1.1 Noun shika

180.1 NOUN (+ PARTICLE)/NUMBER (+ COUNTER) shika

b 最近の若い者は決まりきった発想【しか】できない。

180.1.2 Noun + particle shika

The P used depends on the valency of the V, i.e. in example a omou ‘think’ requires to.

gōmon kyōhaku to shika omoenai torishirabe o uketa
 I underwent an investigation which was no less than torture and intimidation.

180.4 NOUN COPULA-de shika

In this use (meaning ‘is merely’), shika is sandwiched between the conjunctive form of the cop. (de), and the neg. form nai (or arimasen). Alternatively, one can analyse this form as shika replacing wa in the neg. form of the cop. de wa nai. (see 35)

It’s true, the garden is just 7 or 8 sq. m in size, and is no more than a space that’s like a gap between downtown Yokohama houses.

181 sō [SENTENCE ENDING]

Attached to S (the forms preceding sō are pln. fin. forms of V/adj./AN/N, but no da, etc. can be inserted between the V and sō), the S ending sō indicates that the S it is attached to is not the speaker’s own opinion, but something which he or she has heard or read ‘apparently’, ‘I hear that . . .’.

Note the difference from -sō [likelihood], which is attached to V/adj.-stem, AN/N ^cop.] (see 182).

As with rashii and to iu, the source of information can be indicated at the beginning of the sentence with ni yoru to/ni yoreba (‘according to . . .’) or similar expressions sō itself is usually followed by a form of cop. (da, de, desu, de aru, etc.), but informally can also be followed directly by the fin. P yo (181.2.4 a). Followed by ne, it is used to ask for another person's reaction/comment, in interviews, etc. (181.1.1 d).

182 -sō [SENTENCE, ENDING]

The S ending -sō 'likely to' is distinguished from sō [hearsay] (attached to V/adj./AN/N-fin.) by the forms that precede it: V-stem, adj.-ku, and AN without cop. (it is not attached to N). V-stem includes the stem-form of the pot. V dekiru, and also of pot. endings. Note especially the negative form -sō ni nai.

-sō (itself inflecting like an AN) is usually followed by forms of cop. (da/na/ni), but colloquially and in newspaper style it can complete a sentence by itself, as in example 182.1.1 a (see 93, 169, 218, 243).

187.3 BEFORE NOUNS: STATE OR COMPLETION OF ACTION

187.3.1 State

188 -tachi [PLURAL SUFFIX]

The suf. -tachi is attached to N and pron. to indicate plural, mainly for humans. It can also indicate the idea of 'person X and those associated with X' (see 49, 58, 168)

188.1 Plural

188.1.1 Human

188.1.2 Non-human

188.1.3 With personal and reflexive pronouns

188.2 Noun-tachi: 'X and those associated with him/her'

188.1 PLURAL

Like other plural suf., -tachi is optional, i.e. 188.1.1 and 188.1.2 could equally be formed without -tachi. The exception to this are personal and reflexive pron., which must attach a plural suf. if referring to more than one person (see also 145).

The fact that ōku no hito is still much more common than ōku no hito-tachi seems to indicate that this type of plural is still an optional, perhaps even a stylistic device.

a 【多くの人】が祖国のために命をささげた。

ōku no hito ga sokoku no tame ni inochi o sasageta

Many people gave their lives for their country.

b 【多くの人々】が賛成していることも聞いた。

188.1.2 Non-human

-tachi is also these days being attached to animals (the film/book Silence of the Lambs became hitsuji-tachi no chinmoku 【羊たち】の沈黙 in Japan) and even plants. In magazine headlines even nouns like mise 'shop', 'restaurant' and kēki 'cake' appear with -tachi attached, but this new convention does not extend to running text.

a 中でも、ひときわ目を引くのは【フラミンゴたち】だ。

a しかし【天心たち】はすぐ立ち直った。

shikashi tenshin-tachi wa sugu tachinaotta

But Tenshin and those around him [= his pupils] recovered immediately.

189 -tai [SENTENCE ENDING]

-tai indicates what the speaker (subject) wishes to do, 'want to', and is therefore used in the first person. The object of V-tai (where present) can be marked by either ga or o (see 46, 55.5, 148.3).

For indicating what second and third persons wish to do, tai (stem-form) usually attaches the suffix guru (see 57.2)

The past tense -takatta indicates what the subject wanted to do, for both realized or unrealized wishes.

189.1 -tai

190 tame [STRUCTURAL NOUN]

tame expresses two basic meanings: purpose and cause or reason.

When used adverbially as [tame ni V], or to modify a N as [tame no N], it usually expresses purpose.

When used to connect two clauses, S1 and S2, i.e. in the form S1 tame S2, when tame (ni) is attached to plain V-past, and when completing a cleft sentence in the form tame da, it can express either a cause or reason.

tame is formally a N, and therefore preceded by N-mod. forms and followed by forms of the cop.: when used adverbially, by ni, when modifying N, by no, and as pred., by da, etc.

190.1 Reason or cause

190.1.1 Clause 1 tame clause 2 (+ copula)

190.1 REASON OR CAUSE190.1.1 Clause 1 tame clause 2 (+ copula)

This indicates a reason or cause ‘because’, ‘due to’, ‘of’. When used in the sense of ‘because’ (examples a–c), tame can be replaced by kara or node, but not in the meaning of ‘due to’, ‘of’ (example d).

191 -tara [CONJUNCTIVE PARTICLE]

-tara links two clauses (S1-tara S2) in the sense of 'when' or 'if'. The basic meaning of -tara is temporal, i.e. it is concerned with a sequence of time.

-tara forms of V, adj., AN and N + cop. are formed by attaching -ra to their plain past form, -ta.

S1-tara S2 indicates a condition that is used in the spoken language rather than in the formal written style. S2 can use non-factual forms such as request or hortative (-te kudasai, -y(ō), etc.). The condition indicated by -tara tends to be a specific or individual condition rather than a general one (see 14).

191.1 Clause 1-tara clause 2 (clause 2 = non-past)

191.1.1 Clause 1-tara clause 2 'when'

191.1.2 Clause 1-tara clause 2 'if'

191.4 -tara for making recommendations/suggestions

191.4.1 -tara ii, etc.

191.4.2 -tara/dattara (dō), etc.

191.5 Verb-tara verb ta de

191.6 Idiomatic expressions

191.1 CLAUSE 1-tara CLAUSE 2 (CLAUSE 2 = NON-PAST)

191.1.1 Clause 1-tara clause 2 'when'

This means 'when . . . , then' in the sense that when S1 happens (which is a matter of certainty), then S2 will happen. The implication is that S1 will occur inevitably.

- a 花が終わっ【たら】、こまめに摘み取る。

191.1.2 Clause 1-tara clause 2 'if'

In this case, there is nothing inevitable about S1. Instead, the implication is that if the action of S1 is carried out, then the action or state of S2 will happen or apply. In this use, -tara has the same sense as -ba 'if . . . , then', but with a more colloquial ring.

- a こんな領収書を税務署に出し【たら】、すぐに突っ返される。

Here, S2 uses an expression of conjecture or guessing in combinations with the past/perfect ending -ta (often in the form -te ita). The combination indicates a hypothetical (i.e. unrealized) condition 'if . . . , would have'.

- a 操業停止がなかっ【たら】、営業利益は増えたはずだった。
sōgyō teishi ga nakattara eigyō rieki wa fueta hazu datta

191.3 CLAUSE 1 dattara CLAUSE 2

Like nara, its somewhat less colloquial variant, dattara is attached to V/adj. and AN/N as follows (see 108):

V-ru/A-i (n(o)) dattara
 AN/N dattara

191.3.1 (n) dattara

(n) dattara is used in the same way as (n) nara.

191.4 -tara FOR MAKING RECOMMENDATIONS/SUGGESTIONS

Recommendations use the form V-tara + an evaluatory adj., most typically ii 'good'. The combination literally means "is good if", i.e. 'would be nice if', or 'you should' in statements, and 'should I?' in questions.

Suggestions use the form -tara dō cop. ka.

191.4.1 -tara ii, etc.

The non-past -tara ii means 'should', whereas in the past -ta form, the meaning becomes hypothetical, 'should have' (with or without noni attached). However, attaching form like noni to -tara ii also makes a non-past sentence hypothetical (see 140).

For similar uses of conditional P (see 13.3.1, 216.6 and also 200.2.2).

192 -tari [CONJUNCTIVE PARTICLE]

The conjunctive P -tari is attached to the -ta base, i.e. the form of V/adj. and AN/N that -ta attaches to. It indicates a range of actions or activities that are performed by the same agent (subject). After words indicating a state, -tari suru means ‘often’, ‘tend to’.

Although -tari is mostly used in the pattern A-tari B-tari suru ‘do things/ things are like A and/or B’, -tari suru can be used by itself (with the implication of ‘things like’), and examples without suru are found too.

192.1 Clause-verb (action)-tari192.2 Clause-adjective/adjectival noun/noun (state)-tari*192.1 CLAUSE-VERB (ACTION)-tari

This indicates a range of activities (not all are mentioned, i.e. others are usually implied), in the sense of ‘do things such as’. In textbooks, etc. this use of -tari is often characterized as ‘alternative’, but examples such as b and d should make it clear that the actions are not alternate (and at any rate there are many examples with only one -tari!).

193 -tatte [CONJUNCTIVE PARTICLE]

(See 193.)

194 -tarō [PRESUMPTIVE ENDING]

This is an old-fashioned or written-style equivalent to -ta darō (see 163.1.1, 163.2)

195 -te ageru [PERFORMATIVE SENTENCE ENDING]

When the performative verb ageru (see 160.4.1) 'give to someone else' is attached to V-te, the implication is that someone does the action of the V for someone else's benefit. V-te ageru is used when the receiver of the action is of equal or lower social status than the giver; there is an object-honorific equivalent, sashiageru, that is used for receivers of higher status (see 65.3 e).

-te ageru needs to be used with care, as it explicitly indicates that something is done as a favour, so depending on the situation it may be more appropriate to use the V without -te ageru

195.1 VERB-te ageru

In principle -te ageru indicates that the action of V is performed for the benefit of second or third persons (or animals) ‘do for someone else’, but it is possible to perform the action of V for one’s own benefit (first person), by making it look as if it’s done for someone else, as in 195.1.3.

195.2 VERB-te agete kudasai/hoshii

In this combination the meaning is ‘please do (for others)’, ‘I/we want you to do (for others)’.

This is a combination of two performatives, -te ageru indicating that the action of the V is performed by the listener (or a third person) for someone else, and -te kudasai/hoshii indicating that this is done at the command or request of the speaker (see 24, 173).

195.4 VERB-CAUSATIVE-te ageru

Using a caus. V, this means ‘(do me someone a favour by) letting someone do something’.

In line with the meaning of -te ageru 'doing someone a favour', caus. V usually have the permissive reading 'let' in this combination (see 20).

196 -te aru [SENTENCE ENDING]

V-te aru consists of V-te + aru (as a lexical V, aru means ‘be there, have’). The combination indicates the state resulting from the action of V (V = volitional V-tr.). No actor can be mentioned in a -te aru S, although clearly one is implied in the sense that someone must have performed the action of V (except for metaphorical uses such as kao ni kaite aru yo ‘it’s written in your face’); but phrasing something in a -te aru sentence in effect means that no responsibility is assigned to anyone for the action of V (see 223, 233).

The fact that no actor can be mentioned in a -te aru S contrasts sharply with -te iru, where an actor is typically present (see 199).

The object of V-te aru is marked by either ga or o (which in turn can be replaced by wa).

197 -te hoshii [SENTENCE ENDING]

Whereas the adj. of desire hoshii indicates what things or persons etc. the speaker wants (see 68), -te hoshii indicates what the speaker(s) wish(es) second or third persons to do (or not to do). These second/third persons are often omitted, but can be marked in the same S by ni, or other P (see 46, 57).

198 -te iku/-teku [SENTENCE ENDING]

V-te iku consists of V-te + iku (as a lexical V, iku (行く) means 'go'). The combination has several uses related to movement of the action of the V (in place or time) away from the speaker, although in translation this is often not captured. This contrasts with V-te kuru, which indicates movement (in place or time) towards the speaker (see 204).

Note the contracted (colloquial) forms -teku for -te iku, -tette for -te itte, tetta for -te itta, etc.

198.4 LEXICAL EXPRESSIONS

Some combinations have become lexical expressions: yatte iku 'get along', motte iku 'take something', tsurete iku 'take someone', tsuite iku 'accompany someone'.

satogaeri no tabi ni kokyō no ryōshin o onsen ni tsurete iku

198.5 HONORIFIC EQUIVALENTS

The forms that are used in place of the lexical V iku are also used in place of iku in -te iku (see 65.3).

In humble usage (see 65), -te iku is replaced by -te mairimasu, and in honorific use, by -te irassharu.

a その推移を見守っ【てまいり】たい。

sono suii o mimamotte mairitai

I'd like to watch these changes.

199 -te iru/teru [SENTENCE ENDING]

V-te iru consists of V-te + iru (as a lexical V, iru means 'be there'). The combination indicates action in progress (with action V), or the state resulting from the action of V (with state V). In either use the actor (the person responsible for the action of V) is usually mentioned (unless understood from the context), which contrasts sharply with -te aru, where no actor can be mentioned in the same sentence (see 196).

Colloquially, -te iru/-te inai/-te imasu, etc. are often contracted to -teru/-tenai/-temasu.

Note that certain verbs are used mostly in the -te iru form (sunde iru 'live', motte iru 'have', shitte iru 'know') except when there is clear future reference, when the -te iru form is almost never found (unless with special nuance of non-change of the present situation), hence sumitai, sumu tsumori rather than sunde itai, sunde iru tsumori, etc. (see also 196, 226).

199.1 Action in progress

199.2 Resulting state

199.3 Both interpretations possible: verbs of motion/change

199.4 In compound sentences (clause 1-te ite, clause 2): implying a reason

199.4 IN COMPOUND SENTENCES (CLAUSE 1-te ite, CLAUSE 2): IMPLYING A REASON

In compound S, the conjunctive form S1-te ite S2, the conjunctive form of -te iru, is used to imply that S1 is a reason for S2. To indicate an explicit reason, P like kara or node are used (see 75, 139).

Note – in the written/formal spoken style, -te ori is used as the conjunctive form rather than -te i (which is not normally used) or -te ite (which is considered too colloquial for the written style). Compare:

- a 「ちょっと変わっ【ていて】面白そう」と迷わずこのゼミを選んだ。
chotto kawatte ite omoshirosō to mayowazu kono zemi o eranda
 I chose this seminar without hesitation, thinking ‘This looks interesting, being a little unusual’.

200 -te itadaku [PERFORMATIVE SENTENCE ENDING]

When the performative V itadaku (a formal equivalent of morau, see 160.4.3) is attached to V-te, the implication is that the subject has the action of the V performed by someone else for his/her benefit. V-te itadaku is used when the subject (= recipient of the favour) is of lower social status than the giver. -te itadaku often implies that the subject (who is often the speaker) is getting the performer to do a favour by asking or persuading him/her (see 207, 65).

202 -te kudasaru [PERFORMATIVE SENTENCE ENDING]

When the performative V kudasaru (a formal equivalent of kureru, see 160.4.2) is attached to V-te, the implication is that someone does the action of V for the benefit of the speaker or a member of the speaker's group (such as his family members, colleagues, etc.). V-te kudasaru is used when the subject (or performer) of the action of V is of higher social status than the receiver (see 203, 65).

The Group II V kudasaru is somewhat irregular in that the imp. form (used for polite requests) is kudasai, which is also the (irregular) -masu-stem (see 184.1.3).

202.1.2 Verb-te kudasai

Being the imp. form of kudasaru, kudasai expresses a command to someone else to do (or not to do) something ‘please do’. In tone, it is less blunt than kure (see 203).

The addition of the fin. P ne (example h) to kudasai makes the command more intimate (see also 24.2).

203 -te kureru [PERFORMATIVE SENTENCE ENDING]

When the performative V kureru (a less formal equivalent of kudasaru, see 160.4.2) is attached to V-te, the implication is that someone does the action of the V for the benefit of the speaker, or a member of the speaker's group (such as his family members, colleague, etc.).

When third persons are concerned, the choice between -te kureru and -te ageru depends on which side the speaker (or writer) sympathizes or identifies with: if he takes the third person(s)' side, -te kureru is used, otherwise -te ageru (see 195).

In a story about a 'career woman', the reporter goes home to have dinner with her and her husband, and therefore he identifies with the woman:

- a 自宅近くの駅には夫が車で迎えにき【てくれ】ていた。

jitaku chikaku no eki ni wa otto ga kuruma de mukae ni kite kurete ita

Her husband had come by car to pick her up at the station near[est] to their home.

V-te kureru is used when the performer of the action of V is of equal or lower social status than the receiver (see 202).

V-te kureru can be used for second or third persons, or personified non-human entities ‘you/someone else/it gives me/us’.

203.1.1 Subject = human

Note – the effect of -te kureru is often difficult to capture in translation; as in example c, there are even cases where a pass. is the most appropriate translation.

203.3.2 Indirect commands

Indirect commands are a kind of embedded S (see 178.4.2), and follow the same rule, i.e. that the form of the actual command is reduced to its simplest form, that is, without any polite endings such as -masu, and using the least honorific of the relevant set of performative V (where the original command may have ended in -te kudasai, the indirect command uses -te kure, for example).

- a 全国から講演し【てくれ】という要請がたくさんきている。

zenkoku kara kōen shite kure to iu yōsē ga takusan kite iru

203.3.5 Verb-te kure-nai/-masen ka: requests in negative-question form

Being less direct, requests in neg.-Q form are more polite than V-te kure commands. They are roughly equivalent to English 'can you', 'will you' in the plain form, and 'could you' or 'would you' in the -masu form (see 114, 173).

- a 仕事を手伝っ【てくれないか】。

204 -te kuru [SENTENCE ENDING]

V-te kuru consists of V-te + kuru (as a lexical V, kuru means 'come'). The combination has several uses related to movement of the action of the V in place or time toward the speaker (see 198, which indicates movement of the action V in place or time away from the speaker).

Note that the force of -te shimau can usually not be captured in translation.

221 toki [CONJUNCTIVE PARTICLE]

toki is formally a N. Like any other N it can attach the cop., P, etc., but is also used like a conjunctive P in complex S in the pattern [S1 toki S2], in the sense of ‘(the time) when’.

Note that even when S2 (the main clause) is in the past tense, adj., AN and N modifying toki in S1 are often in the non-past, i.e. adj.-i toki, AN na toki and N no toki.

The past tense is used with these in S1 when events in the past are contrasted with those in the present. Compare the following examples:

- a % 暇【な】ときはよく散歩した。

hima na toki wa yoku sanpo shita

I often went for walks when I wasn’t busy.

- b % 暇【だった】ときはよく散歩した。

hima datta toki wa yoku sanpo shita

In the times when I wasn’t busy, I often went for walks.

As evident from the translation, the S1 past-tense example contrasts the present (busy) state with a (not busy) state in the past, whereas the non-past sentence has no such implication.

With V toki, there is a three-way distinction, which is independent of the tense of S2:

V-ru toki: the action of V is not yet realized or completed (see 221.2.1)

V-te iru toki: the action of V is in the process of being realized or completed
(see 221.2.2)

V-ta toki: the action of V is realized or completed (see 221.2.3)

Compare examples c–f:

c % 外国旅行に出るとき、鞆を買う。

gaikoku ryokō ni deru toki kaban o kau

I'll buy a bag (at home) when I go abroad.

d % 外国旅行に出るとき、鞆を買った。

gaikoku ryokō ni deru toki kaban o katta

e % 外国旅行に出たとき、鞆を買う。

I'll buy a bag (abroad) when I go abroad.

f % 外国旅行に出たとき、鞆を買った。

gaikoku ryokō ni deta toki kaban o katta

I bought a bag (abroad) when I went abroad.

222 toki [TIME NOUN]

As a N, toki 'time' is written with the kanji 時 or in hiragana (とき), whereas as a conjunctive P it nowadays tends to be written in hiragana only (see 221). However, the distinction is not always clear, there being examples of toki [time N] that are translated as 'when' or 'the time when'. Being formally a N, when toki is modified by a clause in such S (examples. c-f), it acts as a relative clause head N, just like any other N (see 143.1).

228 tte/te [QUOTATION/DEFINITION PARTICLE EQUIVALENT]

tte/te is a common colloquial equivalent of to, to iu or (to iu no) wa (see 218.2.2, 218.3.2, 218.4).

Note – after 何 (nan), tte becomes te, resulting in nante.

228.1 Equivalent of to

228.2 Equivalent of to iu

228.3 Equivalent of (to iu no) wa

In example a, nante is an equivalent of nan to, i.e. nan + quotation P. In example c, nante, preceding an evaluatory adjective, is emphatic, expressing astonishment.

228.2 EQUIVALENT OF to iu

As in 228.1c, nante combines here with evaluatory adj., emphasizing their meaning. Unlike 228.1c, however, these adj. are followed by a N (hence the equivalent to iu . . . N).

Note also te koto wa (= to iu koto wa) in example c, which is used like a conjunction (see 218.7, 30.6).

229 uchi [CONJUNCTIVE PARTICLE]

Although it functions as a conjunctive P, uchi is formally a N, and therefore attaches forms that precede and follow N

The basic meaning of uchi is 'within a certain limit' in terms of both time and space. Note that regardless of tense, uchi is attached to V-ru (see 7, 8).

- 229.1 Clause 1 uchi clause 2
 229.1.1 Clause 1-positive uchi clause 2
 229.1.2 Clause 1 (verb-negative) uchi ni clause 2
 229.2 Clause 1 (verb-ru/verb-te iru) uchi ni clause 2
 229.3 Adjective/adjectival noun/noun uchi ni
 229.4 Idiomatic uses
 229.4.1 Near future
 229.4.2 Short time
 229.4.3 Others: muishiki no uchi ni

229.1 CLAUSE 1 uchi CLAUSE 2

S1 indicates a state. The implication in uchi S is that as the state (pos. or neg.) indicated in S1 is liable to change, the action of S2 takes place 'while' that state still remains.

It is mostly used in the form uchi ni, but uchi wa is also found. For example (in 229.1.1 b), uchi wa emphasizes the idea of 'while', whereas in example 229.1.1 d, where there is a contrast between the two clauses, the effect is one of emphasizing the contrast.

231 VALENCY

Valency is a convenient term that refers to how many obligatory 'arguments' (or NP) a pred. (V/adj./AN) takes. For instance, miru 'see' requires a subject (the person who sees) and an object (what the person sees). The former is marked by the case P ga, the latter by o. These arguments need not be present in any given S, but where not explicitly mentioned they are understood. Of course, miru can appear with further NP (e.g. where the action of miru takes place, marked by de), but this information is more peripheral, i.e. not obligatory for miru.

231.1 VALENCY AND TRANSITIVE/INTRANSITIVE VERBS

Some V take just one obligatory NP ('one-place V'); these are usually intransitive. Others take two NPs ('two-place V'), which are usually transitive. Yet others take three ('three-place V'), which are sometimes called ditransitive, e.g. ageru and other V of giving.

In the following example, ageru 'give' has NP-ga marking the subject (the person carrying out the action of V), NP-ni to mark the indirect object (the person who is the receiver of the action of V), and NP-o indicating the object, i.e. what is given.

- a リンダさんは週に二回学校に行っているので、代わりにマイクさん【が】哺乳瓶で赤ちゃん【に】母乳【を】あげる。

rinda-san wa shū ni nikai gakkō ni itte iru no de, kawari ni maiku-san ga ho'nyubin de akachan ni bo'nyu o ageru

As Linda goes to school twice a week, Mike gives the baby a bottle feed instead.

The case P for one-place V is typically ga (subject), for two-place V ga-o (subject-object), and for three-place V ga-o-ni (subject-object-indirect object, also in the alternative order V ga-ni-o). In other words, the core case P are ga, o and ni. Other case P are generally more peripheral ('oblique' cases). However, e and to are used for core cases with some verbs: for instance, iku 'go' can take e instead of ni to indicate the goal of the action, and kumu 'team up' constructs with ga and to ('with')

Adj. and AN are for the most part one-place, but some, like hoshii 'want' and suki 'like' (which usually translate as verbs in English), take two obligatory NPs (wa/ni and ga/o), as illustrated by the following example with hoshii, taking ga/o (see 68).

b 出演者の一人【が】このシステム【を】ほしいと話していた。

shutsuensha no hitori ga kono shisutemu o hoshii to hanashite ita

One of the people on the programme said he wanted this system.

232 VERB FORMS

Japanese V are inflected (for inflectional forms of V, see Tables 25–27 below).

The basic form of all Japanese V ends in -u, -eru or -iru, which is also the form they are listed under in dictionaries. According to the way they inflect, V can be divided into three groups: I, II and III.

- 232.1 Forms
 - 232.1.1 Group I verbs
 - 232.1.2 Group II verbs

232.1 FORMS

232.1.1 Group I verbs

These end in the syllables う・く・ぐ・す・つ・ぬ・ぶ・む・る (-u, ku, gu, su, tsu, nu, bu, mu, ru) in Japanese writing, but in romanization these endings can be analysed further as consonant-root + -u (買う kau, 浴う sou, etc. can be thought of as kaw-u, sow u)

232.1.2 Group II verbs

These end in -ru (following either i or e).

232.1.3 Group III verbs

Irregular V (usually just two are distinguished, kuru ‘come’ and suru ‘do’) are included under this group. Note, however, that suru, apart from being used by itself, forms part of the widely used N-suru verbal nouns (see 234).

232.1.4 Group II lookalikes

There are a few verbs that look like Group II on the basis of V-non-past; but their V-nai, V-te forms clarify the issue:

iru 要る ‘need’ 要らない・要って iranai/itte (ir-u, Group I)

いる ‘be there’ いない・いて inai/ite (i-ru, Group II) kaeru 帰る ‘return’ 帰らない・帰って kaeranai/kaette (kaer-u, Group I)

変える ‘change’ 変えない・変えて kaenai/kaete (kae-ru, Group II)

代える ‘substitute’ 代えない・代えて kaenai/kaete (kae-ru, Group II)

換える ‘convert’ 換えない・換えて kaenai/kaete (kae-ru, Group II)

hairu 入る ‘enter’ 入らない・入って hairanai/haitte (hair-u, Group I)

232.1.5 Plain and polite forms

Verbs and other Japanese pred. or modifiers, etc. can be used as pln. or pol. forms; this choice is conditioned by factors such as the situation and the status (social/age etc.) of the listener in relation to the speaker, but in grammatical terms also by the item modified. For instance, a V modifying a N is as a rule pln. (except in some hyperpolite styles), and many S endings (see 177) follow only pln.

The main pln. forms of the regular Groups I and II are as follows (for pol. forms, -masu (see 91) is attached to V-stem). Forms 1–4 (fin./N-mod.) can be used as pred. or to modify a following N. Forms 5–6 can be used by themselves as pred. only, whereas 7–10 can be used only in subordinate clauses or with other forms attached (except in some colloquially shortened uses).

232.1.6 Formation rules for Group I

For -u substitute the endings -tu, -i, -anai, -te, -e, -eba, -tara, -ō; the final consonant doubles before t (for ku-u, so-u, etc. the forms become more regular if we assume a root final (w) consonant, as actually found in the

232.1.7 Formation rules for Group II

For -ru substitute the endings -ta, zero, -nai, -te, -ro, -reba, -tara, and yō.

232.2 USES OF VERB FORMS

232.2.1 Verb-ru

232.2.1.1 Used by itself

The V-ru (non-past) can be used by itself as pred. to complete a S in the present, habitual present, future, and also narrative present. It can also express the speaker's intention. For details and examples, see 142).

232.2.1.2 Items attached

The main items that are attached to V-ru only are -beki (but note the still-used classical variant su-beki instead of the regular suru-beki), and -mai (see 19, 89).

- a 選挙で【選ぶべきだ】。
senkyo de erabu beki da
 [He] [ought to be chosen] by election.

232.2.2 Verb-ta232.2.2.1 Used by itself

V-ta is the pln. past ending. It can indicate both past and perfective (see 187).

232.2.2.2 Items attached

For items that commonly attach to -ta, see 187.

The V-ta base (i.e. the form remaining when -ta is detached) attaches the conjunctive P -tari (see 192).

- a たまの休日には本を読ん【だり】ゴルフに興じ【たりする】。 tama no kyūjitsu ni wa hon o yondari gorufu ni kyōjitari suru
 On his rare days off he does things like reading books and enjoying golf.
- b 例えば、盲導犬は人にほえ【たり】、かみつい【たりする】ことがない。 tatoeba, mōdōken wa hito ni hoetari, kamitsuitari suru koto ga nai
 For instance, guide dogs don't do things like barking at people and biting them.
- c 特に慌て【たりする】同僚はいなかった。
toku ni awatetari suru dōryō wa inakatta
 There weren't any colleagues who were particularly flustered.

232.2.3 Others

For the remaining forms, see 111, 163, 67, 69, 184, 31, 27, 13.

233 VERB TYPES: STATIVE, DYNAMIC, ACTION AND CHANGE

V can be divided into two basic groups: stative and dynamic. Dynamic V can further be subdivided into action and change V.

- 233.1 Stative verbs
 - 233.2 Dynamic verbs
 - 233.2.1 Action verbs
 - 233.2.2 Change verbs
 - 233.2.2.1 Verbs of clothing
 - 233.2.2.2 Motion verbs
 - 233.2.2.3 Others

233.1 STATIVE VERBS

These indicate a state or quality. Examples include aru 'be there (inanimate)', iru 'be there (animate)', iru 'need', wakaru 'understand', dekiru 'be able to' (and other potential V).

Most stative V do not attach -te iru (but note wakatte iru and tsumori de iru); dekiru can also mean 'something will be ready' (see 233.2.2.3), in which use it can attach -te iru: dekite iru 'is ready'.

233.2 DYNAMIC VERBS

These indicate an event, which can be an action or a change.

233.2.1 Action verbs

Action V include taberu 'eat', nomu 'drink', yomu 'read', kaku 'write', warau 'laugh', naku 'cry', fururu 'fall (of rain, etc.)', chiruru 'fall (of flowers)', benkyō suru 'study', setsumei suru 'explain'.

They also generally include the transitive member of transitive/intransitive V pairs, i.e. hajimeru 'begin something', oeru/owaru 'end something', shimeru 'close something', kimeru 'decide something', akeru 'open something', etc.

When action V attach -te iru (see 199), the resulting meaning is often progressive ('is . . . ing' in English): tabete iru 'am/is eating', benkyō shite iru 'is studying'. However, with some V (V of motion/change) the same V can be used in more than one way, i.e. chiruru can also mean 'get scattered (across the ground etc.)', in which use it is a V of change.

233.2.2 Change verbs

Whereas the action of action V can go on for some time, V of change indicate that their action brings about an instant change. For instance, tatsu 'stand up' brings about a change from sitting/lying to standing. Other V of change include those described in the next sections

233.2.2.1 Verbs of clothing

These include kiru ‘put on (whole-body garment like coat, pyjamas, kimono, etc., or an upper-body garment such as shirt, jacket, sweater)’, haku ‘put on (a lower-body garment, such as skirt, trousers, shoes)’, kaburu ‘put something on (one’s head, e.g. hat, cap, etc.)’, and others.

233.2.2.2 Motion verbs

Motion V include hairu ‘enter’, deru ‘go/come out’, tomaru ‘come to a stop’, etc. (but not aruku ‘walk’, hashiru ‘run’, which describe the manner of motion).

233.2.2.3 Others

‘Others’ include V that translate as ‘become’, or ‘become/get + adv.’, such as naru ‘become’, dekiru ‘get ready, acquire’, naoru ‘get well’, kekkon suru ‘get married’, etc.

Also included in ‘others’ is the intransitive member of transitive/intransitive V pairs: hajimaru ‘begin’, owaru ‘come to an end’, shimaru ‘close’, kimaru ‘be decided’, aku ‘open’, etc.

Also the V shinu ‘die’, shiru ‘get to know’.

When V of change attach -te iru (see 199), the meaning is usually one of resulting state: haitte iru ‘am/is/are inside’ (as a result of hairu), shinde iru ‘is/are dead’, etc.

234 VERBAL NOUNS

There are two ways of forming VN. 1) by detaching suru from a SJ or WJ suru N, and 2) by forming the stem-form of many V (see 34.5.1, 184.1).

234.1 Sino-Japanese/Western Japanese suru nouns

234.2 Using verb-stem of many verbs

234.1 SINO-JAPANESE/WESTERN JAPANESE suru NOUNS

Many N that indicate an action can attach the verb suru to form VN. This is especially common with SJ, but also WJ and some NJ nouns.

SJ:

- | | |
|---------------------------|---|
| hakken ‘discovery’ | • hakken suru 発見する ‘discover’ |
| kenkyū ‘research’ | • kenkyū suru 研究する ‘do research’ |

ryōri ‘cooking’ → ryōri suru 料理する ‘cook’ setsumei ‘explanation’ → setsumei suru 説明する ‘explain’

Note – VN that have the meaning of ‘become’ in their suru form have an adjectival meaning in their -te iru form:

antei suru ‘become stable’ → antei shite iru ‘be stable’ dokuritsu suru ‘become independent’ → dokuritsu shite iru ‘be independent’ hattatsu suru ‘become developed’ → hattatsu shite iru ‘be developed’

In their -ta form (antei shita N, etc.), these can be used to modify N (see 1.7.1).

NJ:

yama-nobori ‘mountaineering’ → yama-nobori suru 山登りする ‘climb mountains’

WJ:

bokushingu ‘boxing’ → bokushingu suru ボクシングする ‘box’ kanningu ‘cheating in an exam’ → kanningu suru カンニングする ‘cheat in exam’

VN can insert focus and adverbial particles (wa, mo, sae, sura, bakari, etc.) for emphasis between N and suru (see 236, 94, 176, 185, 17).

a いい仕事【さえ】すれ【ば】、論文発表の機会はいくらでもある。
ii shigoto sae sureba ronbun happyō no kikai wa ikura demo aru
As long as you do good work, you’ll have plenty of opportunities to present papers.

234.2 USING VERB-STEM OF MANY VERBS

Forming V-stem (the N form of many V) is possible with most V whose action can be controlled by the actor.

VN are especially common in the pattern [V-stem ni iku/kuru] (see 184.1.2, 116.10).

235 VOCABULARY

By origin, Japanese vocabulary consists of three major strands: native Japanese (NJ), Sino-Japanese (SJ) and Western Japanese (WJ) (see also 153, 234).

A further strand consists of vocabulary that mixes items from the earlier three strands: mixed Japanese (MJ)

235.1 NATIVE JAPANESE VOCABULARY

NJ words (in length, single-morpheme words can range from one to five or six syllables/kana letters) are written in kanji, kanji + kana, or kana alone (the hyphens show the boundaries between morphemes):

鵜	u ‘cormorant’
目	me ‘eye’
命	inochi ‘life’
山登り	yama-nobori ‘mountaineering’
早い	hayai ‘early’
新しい	atarashii ‘new’
ゆっくり	yukkuri ‘slowly’
ぬるぬる	nurunuru ‘slippery’

235.2 SINO-JAPANESE VOCABULARY

SJ words have entered the language at various stages, beginning from about the eighth century. They also played a major part in the modernization of the language in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries, when new terminology was coined in Japan using Chinese character (kanji) roots. Almost all SJ words are written in kanji, with one kanji being the equivalent of one morpheme. One morpheme corresponds to a (short or long) syllable, (in some cases two syllables: aku ‘evil’, ichi ‘one’, etc). Some SJ words consist of one kanji only, but the vast majority are made up of two or more.

胃	i ‘stomach’
悪	aku ‘evil’

発見	hak-ken 'discovery'
料理	ryō-ri 'cooking'
天文学	ten-mon-gaku 'astronomy'
経済成長	kei-zai-sei-chō 'economic growth'

Note also the use of (usually) two-kanji SJ terms in written or formal (including scientific) contexts, which are equivalents of (one-kanji) NJ words.

NJ		SJ
川 kawa 'river(s)'		河川 ka-sen 'rivers'
山 yama 'mountain(s)'		山岳 san-gaku 'mountains'

The NJ words can have both specific and generic meaning depending on the context, whereas the SJ terms have generic meanings only. The SJ terms are also used in further compounding, such as 山岳地帯 san-gaku chi-tai 'mountainous area' etc.

235.3 WESTERN JAPANESE VOCABULARY

Most WJ words recently (especially after the Second World War) come from English (older words from Portuguese/Spanish, Dutch, German, French and others, that entered the language through various forms of cultural contact, are still used). Recent WJ items include Japanese 'creations' that are made up by combining English roots.

WJ words are adapted to the Japanese sound system, and are written in katakana.

235.3.1 Western Japanese from languages other than English

パン pan 'bread' (from Portuguese)
コップ koppu 'cup' (from Dutch) シャンソン shanson 'chanson' (from French) ゲレンデ gerende 'ski slope' (from German) イクラ ikura 'salmon roe caviar' (from Russian)

235.3.2 Western Japanese from English

ケーキ kēki 'cake'
マッチ matchi 'match(es)'
ゴルフ gorufu 'golf'
テレビ terebi 'television'
ボクシング bokushingu 'boxing'

235.3.3 'Japlish' creations or uses

ワンマンカー wanmankā 'driver only' (bus etc.)

カンニング kanningu 'cheating in an exam'

スピード・ダウン supīdo daun 'slow(ing) down'

Note – not all WJ items are written in katakana. Some items that used to be written in kanji are now also written in hiragana (煙草・たばこ tabako 'tobacco', じゅばん juban 'underwear (for kimono)', both from Portuguese), and a few others others are occasionally written in kanji, otherwise in katakana: 珈琲・コーヒー kōhī 'coffee', クラブ・倶楽部 kurabu 'club', ページ・頁 pēji 'page'.

235.4 MIXED JAPANESE VOCABULARY

If we limit the discussion to words made up of two items (the most common compound type), an MJ word can be any of the six possible combinations:

NJ-SJ 掛け金 kake-kin 'insurance premium'

NJ-WJ 赤ワイン aka-wain 'red wine'

SJ-NJ 残高 zan-daka 'bank account balance'

SJ-WJ 鉄パイプ tetsu-paipu 'iron rod'

WJ-NJ ガス漏れ gasu-more 'gas leak'

WJ-SJ ジェット機 jetto-ki 'jet aeroplane'

235.5 TRUNCATIONS

Where English uses initial capital letters to shorten lengthy terms to acronyms (United Nations → UN, North Atlantic Treaty Organization → NATO, etc.), Japanese generally cuts the number of kanji in SJ words, or equivalent units in NJ and WJ (English-style acronyms are found with the names of some companies, such as Nippon Hōsō Kyōkai = NHK).

235.5.1 Sino-Japanese truncations

As most SJ compounds consist of multiples of two or three kanji, this typically involves cutting the units after the first kanji of each unit of meaning, generally resulting in a two-kanji truncation:

a 國際連合 kokusai rengō → 国連 'UN' b 溫帯性低気圧 ontaisei teikiatsu → 温低 'extratropical cyclone'

In the written media, it is common to give the Japanese translation first, with the English acronym added after it (in round brackets).

c 國際通貨基金 kosusai tsūka kikin 'IMF'

In the spoken media, the order is reversed, with the Japanese translation added after the acronym.

235.5.2 Native Japanese truncations

With NJ words, truncations are far less common, although the names of some common restaurant dishes use a similar principle, except that some of the units remain uncut:

- a 天ぷらどんぶり tempura donburi → 天どん ‘tempura on rice’
 b ねぎまぐろ negi maguro → ねぎま ‘tuna [mashed] with leeks in broth’

235.5.3 Native Japanese truncations and Sino-Japanese ‘conversions’

In general terminology, NJ kanji units are often pronounced in their SJ pronunciation (examples a and b), but sometimes also partly retain their NJ pronunciation (example c):

- a 名古屋一神戸 nagoya-kōbe ‘Nagoya-Kōbe’ → 名神 meishin [motorway]
 b 早稲田大学 waseda daigaku ‘Waseda University’ → 早大 sōdai
 c 横浜国立大学 yokohama kokuritsu daigaku ‘Yokohama National University’ → 横国大 yokokokudai

235.5.4 Western Japanese truncations

Similar processes are also applied to WJ (including so-called ‘Japlish’).

With WJ truncations, the unit here is mostly 2 + 2 ‘moras’ or Japanese syllables/kana (examples a and b). Shorter 2 + 1 (example c), 1 + 2 (example d) and 1 + 1 (example e) units are also found, but these are very much exceptions to the rule.

- a マルチブル チョイス ‘multiple choice’ → マルチョイ
 b ワード プロセッサ ‘word processor’ → ワープロ
 c インド パキスタン ‘India and Pakistan’ → インパ (or 印パ)
 d レモン スカッシュ ‘lemon squash’ → レスカ
 e ベース アップ ‘rise in basic pay’ → ベア

235.5.5 Mixed Japanese truncations

These combinations tend to use a kanji representing the first morpheme of an SJ compound (example a) or a kanji representing a whole NJ word (example b) with, usually, the first two ‘moras’ or Japanese syllables/kana.

- a 短期プライムレ ト tanki puraimu rēto ‘short-term prime rate’ ・短プラ
 b 生コンクリ ト nama konkurīto ‘raw concrete’ ・生コン

236 wa [FOCUS PARTICLE]

wa is a focus particle, but unlike mo (see 94), which focuses the N, etc. it is attached to, the basic function of wa is to focus on what follows, i.e. the pred.

This basic function explains the various labels that have been used to describe this P, which is particularly difficult for English speakers because it usually has no translation equivalent (the exception is illustrated in 236.3) in English. wa is often called a topic P, because it typically marks the topic of a topic-comment type S. The focus in these S again is on the comment or pred. (in this respect it contrasts with ga, which can place emphasis on the noun preceding it (see 55, 238, 178).

236.1 REPLACING CASE PARTICLES ga/o

When attached to subjects and objects, wa replaces the case P ga and o.

236.1.1 Replacing ga

In considered statements, wa is used rather than ga.

- a 紅茶【は】体にいい。
kōcha wa karada ni ii
 Black tea is good for you (lit. “your body”).
- b 日本【は】豊かになった。
nihon wa yutaka ni natta

o-kyaku-san wa kashikoi desu to hanashite ita
 ‘The customers are clever’, he said.
- d 日本の裁判【は】長い。
nihon no saiban wa nagai
 Japanese trials are long.

236.1.2 Replacing o

With o, the most common word order for example a would be a’. The effect of wa is to make the wa-marked NP into the topic, which is usually moved to the front of the sentence, i.e. a” is not possible.

- a 献金【は】秘書が取り仕切っていた。
kenkin wa hisho ga torishikitte ita
 The donations were managed by the secretary (lit. “as for the donations, the secretary managed [them]”).
- a’ % 秘書が献金【を】取り仕切っていた。
hisho ga kenkin o torishikitte ita
 The secretary managed donations/the donations.
- a” % × 秘書が献金【は】取り仕切っていた。
hisho ga kenkin wa torishikitte ita
 The secretary managed the donations.

236.2 ADDED TO CASE PARTICLES (OTHER THAN ga/o)

With other cases, wa is added after the case P required by the valency of V. The examples that follow (in 236.2.1-5) are not exhaustive, i.e. there are other combinations too. Note that wa is especially common in sentences with neg. pred., but in pos. sentences, too it has a contrastive or emphasizing effect (see 236.5.3).

236.2.1 ni wa

- a ザックの詰め方【には】コツがいる。
zakku no tsumekata ni wa kotsu ga iru Packing a rucksack requires skill.
- b 外国人に的を絞った警察の取り締まり【には】批判もある。

shōyama-jōmu wa mamori no risutora wa owatta kore kara wa semeru Managing director Shōyama [said], 'Defensive restructuring is over.
 From now on, we're going on the attack'.

236.3 NOT REPLACING ANY CASE PARTICLE

Here, wa is a genuine topic particle 'as for ...'

- a 「クリスマス【は】どんな過ごし方をしたっていい」。
kurisumasu wa donna sugoshikata o shi-tatte ii
 Christmas you can spend any way you like.

- b 旅客ターミナル【は】現在のビルを東側に拡張する。

 As for the passenger terminal, we will extend the present building eastwards.

236.4 MARKING KNOWN INFORMATION

236.4.1 In considered statements

236.4.1.1 With wa present

One function of wa, which is in keeping with its pred.-focusing effect, is to be attached to information that is already known or understood. In this use, wa has an effect similar to the English definite article (and other cases where a N refers to something known or previously mentioned).

- a 写真撮影【は】厳しく禁じられた。
shashin satsuei wa kibishiku kinjirareta
 The taking of photographs was strictly forbidden.
- b 「多少経営の怪しい金融機関でも、一千万円までなら大丈夫」と、目先の金利を優先する向きがある。しかし、これ【は】誤解だ。預金保険の保証は元本だけで、利子分は含まない。
tashō keiei no ayashii kin'yū kikan de mo issenmanen made nara daijōbu to mesaki no kinri o yūsen suru muki ga aru. shikashi kore wa gokai da. yokin hoken no hoshō wa ganpon dake de rishi-bun wa fukumanai
 People tend to give preference to [higher-] interest [institutions], because they think that 10 million yen is guaranteed even if the financial institution may be a little shaky. However, that is a misunderstanding. The savings insurance guarantees only the capital, not the interest.
- c 同水族館では、二匹のウナギが水中に放電した電気をアンプで増幅して点灯に成功した。ツリー【は】年明けまで展示される。
dō-suizokukan dewa nihiki no unagi ga suichū no hōden shita denki o anpu de zōfuku shite tentō ni seikō shita. tsurī wa toshiake made tenji sareru
 At the aquarium, they have succeeded in lighting up [a Christmas tree] by amplifying the electricity discharged by two [electric] eels into the water. [The] tree will be displayed until the beginning of the new year.

236.4.1.2 With ellipted wa

In colloquial usage, wa can be omitted. This is usually accompanied by comma intonation (and a comma in writing) (see also 52).

- a ユニバーサル・スタジオ【、】楽しいんてよってね。
yunibāsaru sutajio tanoshii n desu-tte ne
 The Universal Studios are great fun, I hear.

- b このケーキ【、】私^が作ったのよ。
kono kēki watashi ga tsukutta no yo
 I've made this cake!

236.4.2 In questions

236.4.2.1 In questions with question-word (+ copula)

In information-seeking Q (Q containing a Q-word that refers to the information sought), the focus is naturally on the part of the S that contains the Q-word, which is again the pred. (see 238).

- a その成功の秘密【は】何か。
sono seikō no himitsu wa nani ka
 [What]'s the secret of their [= convenience stores'] success?
- b インフラと【は】何を意味するのか。
infura to wa nani o imi suru no ka
 What does 'infra' mean? (lit. "‘infra’, what does it mean?")

236.4.2.2 In questions with ellipted question-word (+ copula)

In information-seeking Q, the part that is most obvious (i.e. the pred. containing the Q-word + cop., etc.) is frequently ellipted (omitted).

- a 今後のスケジュール【は】。
kongo no sukejūru wa
 [What is] the future schedule?
- b 今の気持ち【は】。
ima no kimochi wa
 [What are] your feelings now?

236.5 INDICATING CONTRAST

wa can be used several times in one sentence; in this case, at least the rightmost wa indicates a contrast (where there are three wa, the rightmost two indicate contrast). As the leftmost wa (indicating the subject or topic) is often omitted, in sentences with two wa both can be contrastive.

236.5.1 Used twice: explicit contrast in considered statements

Where wa is used twice in a sentence, it serves to indicate a contrast between the two wa-marked N/NP. The leftmost wa in example b indicates the subject/topic.

- a 「男【は】仕事、女【は】家庭」という考え方。
otoko wa shigoto onna wa katei to iu kangae-kata
 The proposition 'Men should work, and women stay at home'.
- b 札幌【は】日の出【は】早く、日没【は】遅い。

e o minai hi wa atte mo kenchiku o minai hi wa nai
 Even though there are days when I don't look at a painting, there are no days when I don't look at architecture.

236.5.2 Used once: implicit contrast in considered statements

In such statements, a comment is made on the N (or NP). This implies that the comment may not apply to other N (or NP).

- a 紅茶【は】体にいい。
kōcha wa karada ni ii
 Black tea is good for you.
- b WASP【は】少子化傾向にある。
WASP wa shōshika keikō ni aru
 WASPs [= White Anglo-Saxon Protestants] have a tendency to have few[er] children.

236.5.3 Implicit contrast in considered negative statements/questions wa is used in neg. S to indicate the scope or range of what is being negated, essentially in contrast to a pos. situation. wa and the neg. form following it negate the item they are attached to. This is done in two ways, as set out below.

236.5.3.1 Replacing case particles ga/o in a noun + verb-negative sequence

- a 今年は帰るつもり【は】なかったのだが……。 (cf., 帰るつもり【が】なかった)
kotoshi wa kaeru tsumori wa nakatta no da ga
 This year I had no intention of going back, but . . .

- b 大阪市では大阪駅に近い立地には有力酒類DS、徳岡（大阪市、徳岡豊裕社長）が来春出店する。売り場面積は約七十平方メートル。駐車場【は】ない。

Over 90 per cent of comics one can buy in France are in Japanese, yet young French people are said even to visit specialist bookshops catering for Japanese residents in France to buy comics. Of course, they don't understand Japanese [= language].

- e 「松坂屋銀座店」の中二階にある女性用トイレに中年の男がナイフを持って侵入し、中にいた横浜市のOL（27）のハンドバッグを奪って店の外に逃げた。…ハンドバッグに現金【は】入っていなかった。(cf., 現金【が】入っていなかった。)

matsuzakaya ginza-ten no chūnikai ni aru josei-yō toire ni chūnen no otoko ga naifu o motte shinnyū shi, naka ni ita yokohama-shi no OL (27) no handobaggu o ubatte mise no soto ni nigeta. . . handobaggu ni genkin wa haitte inakatta

A middle-aged man with a knife entered the ladies' toilet on the level 2 mezzanine at the 'Ginza Matsuzakaya', and fled outside having taken the handbag of an office worker (27) from Yokohama. . . there wasn't any cash in the handbag.

236.5.3.2 Sandwiched before a negative form

wa can be inserted between forms such as -te iku, -te kureru, etc. (examples c and d), the quotation P to and a V of communication (example g), or a V and its neg. form (examples a and b), or an adj. and its neg. form (examples e and f). See also examples under 236.2 for instances where wa intervenes between a V and the P it takes.

The effect of inserting wa is one of emphasizing the neg. Recall also that the neg. form of the cop. is de wa nai, which is another instance of an inserted wa, except that this one has become fossilized.

With a V and its neg. form, depending on the type of V, there are two formations: 1) with VN (N that attach suru), wa is inserted between the N and suru, but 2) any other V needs first to be converted to its N form (V-stem), to which suru can then be added and wa is inserted between the two.

Colloquially, the V-stem endings + wa can be contracted as follows. After the -e or -i of Group II V, including pot. endings, wa is changed regularly to ya, as with the Group III V ki- and shi-). For Group I V, see Table 28 below.

Table 28 Group I verbs + wa

V-stem ending	Replacement pattern
-i	wa shinai* → -iya shinai*
-ki	wa shinai → -kiya/kya shinai
-gi	wa shinai → -giya shinai

-chi	wa shinai → -chiya/cha shinai
-ni	wa shinai → -niya shinai
-bi	wa shinai → -biya shinai
-mi	wa shinai → -miya shinai
-ri	wa shinai → -riya/rya shinai

Note * and other neg. forms

 -te wa can also be contracted to -cha

I'm not thinking of building a hotel in the traditional mould.

236.5.3.3 Sandwiched before a positive form

Less frequently than with neg. (see 236.5.3.2), wa also gets sandwiched between items such as VN and suru (example b), or parts of the cop., i.e., between the de aru variant (example a). The effect is one of emphasizing the contrast expressed by keredo 'but' (example a), and of kaizen sareta in example b.

- a 離婚が少しずつで【は】あるけれど増えていること。 rikon ga sukoshi-zutsu de wa aru keredo fuete iru koto

ikura ka kaizen wa sareta

[Things] have been improved somewhat.

236.6 ATTACHED TO TIME NOUN/NUMBER (+ COUNTER)

After time N, num. (+ C) (incl. time and frequency) combinations, wa serves to emphasize the time/amount etc., in the sense of 'at least'. Note that with time N, wa can also be attached to P such as kara/made (example b) (see also 116.14).

- a あと二十年【は】漫画を描き続けたい。
ato nijūnen wa manga o kaki-tsuzuketai
 I want to keep writing comics for at least another 20 years.

- c 人は生涯に一回【は】家を建ててる。
hito wa shōgai ni ikkai wa ie o tateru

236.7 IN EQUATIONAL SENTENCES

Equational S can be statements (example a) or questions (example b). Both have the basic structure N/pron. wa N cop./ka (N/pron. wa can be omitted where clear from the context, as in example a, where the reply omits pron. -wa because it is mentioned in the equational Q) (see 178.1.7, 164.10).

- a 「【それは反乱か】」という王に、公爵は答えた。「いえ陛下、【革命でございます】」。 sore wa hanran ka to iu ō ni kōshaku wa kotaeta. ie heika kakumei de gozaimasu

- b 【あれは何だい】。[だい = だ + male intimate Q P かい]

236.8 IN DOUBLE-SUBJECT SENTENCES

For an explanation of double-subject S, see 55.11, 178.1.8.

- a 私は人気【がない】。
watashi wa ninki ga nai
 I am not popular (lit. "I have no popularity").
- b 今年のプレゼント【は】、パパ【が】カシミヤのマフラー。
kotoshi no purezento wa papa ga kashimiya no mafurā

236.9 MARKING THE SUBJECT OF A COMPOUND SENTENCE

As the force of wa (unlike ga, which does not extend beyond the clause it is part of) extends all the way to pred., wa (never ga) is used where the subject of a compound S is identical in both clauses (re compound sentences, see 178.5).

- a 男【は】暴れることもなく、その場で逮捕された。 otoko wa abareru koto mo naku sono ba de taiho sareta
 The man didn't put up a struggle and was arrested on the spot.

236.10 MARKING THE SUBJECT OF A COMPLEX SENTENCE

As the force of wa (unlike ga, which does not extend beyond the clause it is part of) extends all the way to pred., wa (never ga) is used where the subject of a complex sentence is identical in both the main and the subordinate clauses (re complex sentences, see 178.4).

- a どろぼう【は】警察を見ると、逃げていった。
dorobō wa keisatsu o miru to nigete itta
 The burglar fled when he saw the police.
- b Kさん【は】出勤するときに自転車に乗る。
K-san wa shukkin suru toki ni jitensha ni noru

236.11 IN CLEFT SENTENCES

- a 技術を伝えるの【は】難しい。
gijutsu o tsutaeru no wa muzukashii
 Passing on technology is difficult.

237 wa [FINAL PARTICLE]

The fin. P wa (attached to statements) is used for slight emphasis or assertion. It is generally restricted to female usage in Standard Japanese, but is widely used by males in Western Japan (Kansai) (see 48).

It is also often combined with the fin. P yo, and its lengthened variant yō (see 242).

- c 私そんなもの見たことない【わよー】。
watashi sonna mono mita koto nai wa yō
 I've never seen any such thing! [= mosquito eyeball soup]

238 wa AND ga: COMPARISON

(See wa [focus P], ga [case P].)

When attached to the subject, ga emphasizes what precedes it, whereas wa focuses on what follows, i.e. pred. (in English, this difference can sometimes be captured by intonational stress).

This difference is particularly clear in examples a and b, where the V is in the hortative form -(y)ō, where the focus is naturally on the person who is offering to do something. In fact, ore wa yarō is not possible here.

- a 俺【が】やろう。
ore ga yarō
 [I]'ll do it. [= Pilot to co-pilot, who is operating the plane]
- b 俺【は】やります、マジ。
ore wa yarimasu maji
 I'll [do] it – really.

konpon-teki na gimon wa nokoru
 Basic doubts remain.
- f 「お客さん【は】賢いくらいと話していた」
o-kyaku-san wa kushikoi desu to hanushite ita

- g 誕生日が何曜日だろうが、季節がいつだろうが、万人の前に平等に姿を見せる。そこ【が】映画の幽霊の面白いところだ。

tanjōbi ga nan'yobi darō ga kisetsu ga itsu darō ga bannin no mae ni byōdo ni sugata o miseru. sore ga eiga no yūrei no omoshiroi tokoro da
No matter on which day his birthday falls, no matter what the season, [the ghost] shows himself impartially to all. That's the interesting part about ghosts who appear in films [= as opposed to on the stage, when ghosts are visible to certain actors only].

For the same reason, wa is typically used in information-seeking Q, which of course focus on the Q-word that follows wa.

- h あれ【は】何だい。—フェミカジ君ですね。[だい = だ + male intimate Q P かい] are wa nan dai. femikaji-kun desu ne

【What】 is that? – It's a boy wearing ladies' casuals.

- i その成功の秘密【は】何か。

sono seikō no himitsu wa nani ka
【What】 is the secret of this success?

Q-words themselves (and the words, if present, that occupy the same slots in response to Q-words), as a rule attach ga.

This also applies to dochira, dore and hō etc. as used in comparison (see 25), and indeterminates such as nani ka etc.

- j 【何が】問題なのか。

nani ga mondai na no ka
【What】 is the problem?

- k 核疑惑の背景には【何が】あるのか。

kaku giwaku no haikai ni wa nani ga aru no ka
What is in the background of the suspected [development of a] nuclear bomb?

- l カネは【だれが】出すのか。

241 ya [CONJOINING PARTICLE]

ya joins items in the sense of 'and (among others)' or 'or'. It is used (once) between items only. As it is used for listing representative items, it is often together with nado 'among others', 'etc.' (see 28, 102, 220).

242 yo [FINAL PARTICLE]

The fin. particle yo serves to make a statement (examples a–e) or invitation (example h, see also 67.1.1).

After imp. (example i), it serves to soften the impact of the imp. form (see 69.2).

Apart from V/adj./AN/N (pln. or pol., pos. or neg.), yo can also attach to S endings (example f), and the final P no (example d) (see 134.3).

In statements and after S endings (n(o) da, sō da and many others), yo can be attached to the cop. (i.e. AN/N + cop.), but in female use (and for a familiar effect in general), it can also replace cop. (examples e and f).

Note also the use seen in example g, where N yo cannot be replaced by N da, this being a way of addressing a person (or personalized entity by name), in a variation of 'Et tu, Brute!'

- a まだ硬いと思いつつ、気になるので、指先で押してみる。「昨日より軟らかい【よ】」と言っては、家人にむいてもらう。

243 Yō [SENTENCE ENDING]

The S ending yō indicates likeness, or the way something seems (see 169, 93, 162, 182, 218). Pred.-selecting adv. (see 5.4, 5.4.7) such as maru-de 'just' can be used to emphasize the degree of likeness (examples 243.1.1.1 c and 243.1.1.4 a).

yō itself being a structural N, it attaches to the forms of V/adj./AN/N that precede N, i.e. N-mod. forms. Section 243.1.1 gives V/adj./AN/N separately to illustrate the way yō attaches to sentences that end in V/adj./AN/N respectively (adj. includes the negative ending -nai, example 243.1.1.2 b).

243.1.1 Clause yō da/datta/de

The meaning is ‘seems (just like)’, ‘is just as if’, ‘appear to’. To recall situations where something ‘was/appeared like’ at the time, yō datta is attached to S (example c), whereas with -ta yō da, i.e. when yō da is attached to a clause ending in the -ta form (example d), the implication is that it appears at the present moment that some action or development is completed.

-(y)ō is a S ending that expresses two meanings: hortative and pres.

For how the forms are derived, see 67.

Note also its use in the combinations -(y)ō mono nara, -(y)ō to, -(y)ō to omou/kangaeru and -(y)ō to suru (see 247, 248, 249, 250).
