- Class Number: 7662
- Dates: 29 and 30 September at Titan Corporation
  04 October at OPS1, 2W037-1

Description:

(U) This 3-day seminar will consider the relationship between security and development before, during, and after conflict. It will examine the question of the relationship between poverty, conflict, and terrorism. It will draw upon the latest information from the ongoing "greed or grievance" debates and consider the issues of resources as facilitating protracted conflict. The growing literature on corporate involvement and responsibility for internal conflict will be discussed. It will also consider the types of incentives necessary to move beyond conflict to a political economy of peace building.
