FROM: [REDACTED]
National Geospatial-Intelligence Agency Account Manager (S112)
Run Date: 06/02/2006

(U//FOUO) Coming very soon: NGA's 1) Improvised Explosive Device Summit, 2) Iran Days, and 3) Levant Conference.

(U//FOUO) National Geospatial-Intelligence Agency (NGA) Improvised Explosive Devices (IED) Summit - 5 June 2006

(S) The Office of Central and Southwest Asia and the NGA Improvised Explosive Device (IED) Team will host an NGA IED Analyst summit, June 5 (0830-1630), the 6th floor auditorium, the Washington Navy Yard. NGA analysts and scientists investigating IED issues in any capacity are invited to attend and present briefings regarding intelligence or tradecraft issues.

(S) The Department of Defense has identified IEDs as one of the most significant, deadly threats to the warfighter. In response, the intelligence community has been tasked with devising innovative and effective methods with which to detect and destroy the IED threat. The NGA IED Analyst Summit will focus on applying GEOINT to IED issues.

(S) The summit will provide an environment of open dialogue to share analytical techniques and to consider and discuss possible new means by which to apply GEOINT to IED issues. It is hoped that the summit will result in greater intra-agency analytical discussion and coordination, enabling the efficient dissemination of valuable counter-IED GEOINT products.

(U//FOUO) To attend, please register by sending an e-mail with your name, organization, and office telephone number to [REDACTED]. The event sponsor is the NGA, Office of Central and Southwest Asia and the NGA IED Team, Mr. [REDACTED], NGA/PSII (unclassified telephone number [REDACTED] secure telephone number [REDACTED]).
